AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHY.
 In the month of August, 1895, I made the acquaintance of a young man by the name of Harry Sage, who was an amateur photographer. He took a certain interest in me, and I arranged with him to give me lessons in the art of photography every Saturday afternoon. Harry had a very good folding camera for plates or films. The first lesson that he gave me was on the exposure, which, by the way, was one of the hardest to learn on. He had his camera on a tripod and we went out to find the subject for the first picture.

After some maneuvering we selected for the first "shot" a group of "cullies" boys playing marbles in their yard. The camera was set up and focused, and he then showed me the mechanism of the shutter. It being a very bright day we decided to have the exposure should be one-fifth of a second. He "took" this picture and I, after having made a mental note of everything he had told me, chose a view for my first picture, which was the Methodist church at Twenty-first and Binney streets. I made this picture and Harry and I made our way home. I promised to be at his home on the following Saturday that I might see those pictures developed.

The next Saturday I showed up all right and found that Harry had everything ready for my arrival. The dark room that he used was a bath tub and on the sides of it which would afford running water for washing plates or prints. He had a frame which fitted over the only window, on which was a black rubber cloth. This had no light could come in. On the side of the wall was a large shelf on which he kept his chemicals (all of which were properly labeled), and his graduate, trays, dry plates, paper, etc.
 After mixing the chemicals, he put the frame over the window and inspected the room to see that the light was not coming from any source. Then he placed the plates and then I lit the ruby lamp and Harry took the first plate from the holder and placed it in the developer. I watched intently, noting the different stages of the development of the plate, and in about seven minutes it was done and placed in the hypo.
 Now for the other one. It was my turn now. I took the remaining plates from the holder and proceeded as I had seen Harry do. This plate was developed and placed in the hypo until the yellow on the back was gone. The room was put in order and I left Harry washing the plates. "Don't fail to come next Saturday," he said. I answered that I would be there the next evening, but I went over to the "gallery" all right and found Harry waiting for me. Old Sol did his part that day, making it a model one for printing. The frames, plates and negative being ready we started in. About three minutes was enough for each picture that day, so we soon had a sufficient number to tone, which we proceeded to do.

The kitchen table was the thing we wanted, so we took on that. My friend used Aristo, Jr., paper, and of course used gold toning. After about ten minutes he had had the desired color, so we put them into the fixing bath for fifteen minutes.
 After this was over they were washed and placed between blotters to dry. In this session had been comparatively short, Harry said he would wind up the mysteries of the art by mounting the prints, paste, brush, glass and squeegee roller (I must say here that the prints were trimmed before going into the toning bath). I employed this part very much for let me mount the last six myself.
 I wound home the proud possessor of six mounted prints of each view, though I was a plainer than the "naughty" street boys, who received her share of the pictures.
 It was not long before I was the possessor of a small kodak. I never knew who gave it to me. I have a name so busy and so sleek, until I was able to buy a Framo, the same as my friend had.

Reader, if you are in doubt about getting a camera, don't let it be. It is a joy to "play" as people say. You will have more enjoyment out of it than anything I know of that you could invent.

COUNTY GETS FREE ADVICE Attorneys for Poor Farm Cases Tell What Ought to Be Done.

THEY DEMAND SETTLEMENT AT ONCE Commissioners Receive Several Communications on the Subject, Which Are Referred to a Committee For Consideration.

The regular meeting of the Board of County Commissioners yesterday was enlivened by communications from three attorneys who represent claimants against the county in the matters growing out of the complications surrounding the sale of a lot in what is known as "Douglas addition."

These communications were in the nature of replies to the letter presented at the last meeting of the board from W. D. Beckert, the special attorney employed by the board to protect the interests of the county in the legal procedure instituted by the various purchasers of lots from the county. These letters were written by C. B. Keller, George E. Pritchett and V. O. Strickler, each of whom represent persons who have either recovered judgments against the county in the supreme court, or who have claims against the county which have not been taken into court, but which are of substantially the same nature as those upon which the supreme court has passed three times, each time deciding against the county.

The letter of Mr. Keller was the longest and most exhaustive of the three. He advised the board, first, that there is no authority in law for a pro rata distribution of any funds raised by taxation between any class of creditors, but any amount which is available must be paid to the parties who first make demand, while the others must wait until they have obtained their judgment. He also stated, most pathetically, that the county is not a party to the issue warrants aggregating 50 per cent of the levy made in 1895. Mr. Keller also took exception to the statements of Mr. Beckert that the county cannot make a levy of more than 15 mills in any year. He said that the power of the commissioners to make a levy sufficient to pay the judgments is absolute.

The statement that the county is not a party to the issue warrants paid on the land in question was also excepted to, and the claim was made that Mr. Keller is liable for all money paid. Mr. Keller also stated, most pathet-

"GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT." The story of the Ranges Top district is a most convincing demonstration of the truth of the miner's maxim—"gold is where you find it." There is absolutely nothing at Ranges Top that indicates the presence of gold. It has been passed over scores of times as unworthy of notice. And yet it is today the scene of the most remarkable and sensational discoveries of gold that have been made since the romantic days of 49.
 Payers have become wealthy in a few hours. Mines change ownership daily. Two new towns have been laid out. Buildings are being erected as fast as the limited facilities at the disposal of the inhabitants will permit.

The Ranges Top district offers remarkable opportunities for men who are quick to act.
 It is situated on the Spearfish branch of the B. & M. railroad, and is best reached by taking the Burlington's 4:35 p. m. train for Deadwood.
 Tickets at 1502 Farnam street.
