

THE OMAHA DAILY HERALD

ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION: Daily (Without Sunday), One Year, $3.00; Daily (Including Sunday), One Year, $3.50; Three Months, $1.00; Six Months, $1.75; Single Copies, 5 Cents.

ADVERTISING: One Square, 10 Lines, 10 Cents per Line per Week; One Square, 10 Lines, 10 Cents per Line per Week.

THE OMAHA PUBLISHING COMPANY, 111 N. 15th St., Omaha, Neb.

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION: Showing the number of copies printed, sold, and distributed during the month of December, 1896.

Net daily average... Total... Net daily average... Total...

Illinois is noted for hotly fought senatorial contests anyway.

The Douglas county contest has already taken up $2,000 worth of the time of the legislature.

Of course there is no politics whatever in the pilgrimages of any of the politicians to Canton.

The legislature has only sixty days to sit and the first ten days of the session should be no more wasted than the last ten days of the session.

This week the reform legislature should get squarely down to business. What is wanted is action, action, action, and not words, words, words.

Send each of your friends a copy of the Transmississippi Exposition number of the Bee. It will tell them all about the great exposition project and enlist their good will and support in its behalf.

How much longer are the people of Nebraska to be kept in ignorance as to the condition of the state treasury? Why should not the list of depositaries and amounts on deposit in each be made public?

If the United States senate changed all at once as does the house instead of a third every two years the proportion of new members and re-elections would not be very different between the two houses.

Republicans in the present legislature may find themselves too few to accomplish much in the way of positive legislation, but there are enough of them to keep the majority on its mettle and afford a heap of entertainment to all concerned.

If there is any tinkering to be done with the state depository law, let the tinkering be in the direction of strengthening and improving it and not to weaken it by increasing the number of loopholes by which its provisions may be evaded.

The United States purchased the whole of Louisiana territory in 1803 for a trifle over $15,000,000. The proposition to offer $200,000,000 for Cuba does not seem to support the argument that prices of everything have fallen greatly in the last few years.

Various Jacksonian societies will not participate in the approaching inauguration ceremonies. One reason is that the contemplated display is not in accordance with their austere ideas of Jacksonian simplicity. And there are other reasons only less valid.

There has been a well founded suspicion hitherto that the Omaha city council enjoyed a practical monopoly of combinations. If outside bidders on municipal bonds are going to usurp this exclusive prerogative, taxpayers may as well take to the woods.

It is reported now that Huntington is the man behind the scheme to refer the Pacific railroad debt settlement question to a commission consisting of three cabinet officers. If this is true, Huntington's advocacy ought to be in itself almost enough to condemn the plan in advance.

Strange that the gas inspector should find so much fault with the gasoline lamp service but has never a word about the gas lamps or electric lamps. It was once the practice to make deductions for time that electric lamps failed to burn, but no city official has seen an electric light go out in months, if not years.

Secretary Carlisle makes the announcement that the new Omaha federal building will be ready for occupancy for the local postoffice by June 30 next. Secretary Carlisle made several guesses as to the probable deficit in the national revenues under the Wilson bill and he is entitled to several guesses as to the completion of the Omaha public building.

It is intimated in certain quarters known for reliability that President McKinley intends to leave the decision of local federal appointments exclusively to the republican senators and representatives from the different states. The stranger part of the situation is that most of the republican congressmen do not know whether to lament or to rejoice over the information.

HOW REPUBLICANS SHOULD ACT. The republican minority in the legislature may not be in position to shape legislation on important questions that affect the welfare of the people of Nebraska, but it should not on that account pursue a policy of factions...

THE GROWING TRADE BALANCE. The west continues to be a large contributor to the growing foreign trade balance and it would seem that this action must soon begin to realize the improvement in business conditions...

LEGISLATING MEN INTO HONESTY. Two years ago the World-Herald advocated the repeal of the state depository law and was criticised for the suggestion. But recent developments in the state's finances must have convinced a great many people that these finances would be in better condition if the depository law was replaced by a sensible statute...

THE CHICAGO CITY COUNCIL. The Chicago city council, in its impetuous crusade against the theater hat, has passed an ordinance providing a fine of $3 to be assessed against the wearer for every conviction of the misdemeanor of wearing a hat in the theater. Here in Omaha women of breeding take off their hats without compulsion at the play, but there are other theater nuisances, of which both men and women are guilty, which might as properly receive the attention of legislative bodies.

WHERE ARBITRATION IS NEEDED. Mr. Olney will score another diplomatic victory if he can secure the friendly relations between himself and the United States senate.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. The indications are that when the arbitration treaty is taken up for consideration in the senate it will encounter strong opposition. It is believed that a majority of the senators favor prompt ratification, of course after such careful discussion as so important a treaty should receive, but it is certain that a number, openly actuated by partisan motives, will make a strenuous fight to delay ratification and if possible have the treaty rejected and these are said to be industriously working to get the one-third minority vote necessary for this purpose.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

THE SENATE AND THE TREATY. It is of course desirable and necessary that the treaty be given most careful and thorough consideration. It is not to be assumed off-hand that it cannot be improved. In the exercise of their constitutional duty senators are bound to give it their most intelligent attention and to study its terms with deliberation and care.

"It's Time"

EVERY MAN KNOWS OR OUGHT TO KNOW—HOW MUCH HIS WELFARE DEPENDS ON HIS APPEARANCE. LET US HELP YOU TO SEE THAT YOUR 'GET UP' IS ALL RIGHT.

IT IS AN ACCEPTED FACT THAT ONE WOULD BETTER BE OUT OF THE WORLD THAN OUT OF FASHION. WE WILL SEE THAT YOU ARE IN THE FASHION IF YOU WILL COME HERE FOR YOUR CLOTHES.

WHAT IS MORE—WE WILL SAVE YOU MONEY BESIDES. AT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR THERE ARE MANY SUITS—OVERCOATS—ULSTERS—EXTRA PANTS—AND ARTICLES OF WEAR THAT ARE LEFT—ONE OR TWO OF A KIND—IT'S TOO LATE IN THE SEASON TO REPLACE THEM—AND RATHER THAN CARRY THEM OVER HOPE TO CUT THE PRICE ABOUT 1/2.

YOU ARE NOW ABLE TO PURCHASE OUR OWN HIGH GRADE SUITS AT $3.00, $10.00, $12.00 AND $15.00—THAT WERE $12.50, $15.00, $20.00 AND $22.50. OVERCOATS AT THE SAME SAVING. FINE BLACK CLAY WORSTED TROUSERS—THAT WERE $6.00—CAN BE HAD FOR $7.50—ALSO MANY VERY DESIRABLE PATTERNS IN CHEVROT, CASSIMERES AND WORSTED AT THE SAME LOW FIGURES.

BROWNING, KING & CO., 8 W. Cor. 15th and Douglas Sts.