

had experienced no injury from the accident. Two women in the Pullman coaches fainting, and J. Hughes, a porter in car "La Goletta" was thrown against a window and cut by the glass and somewhat bruised.

Krause lived at the corner of Nineteenth street and Fourth avenue in Council Bluffs. He was a married man and had a family. His father lived in Omaha and had a grocery store at the corner of Thirteenth and Webster streets.

VanVoy lives at 242 Poppleton avenue. In this case, he was injured about the head, face and limbs, and is supposed to have been burned by the steam. The late reports from the hospital indicate he may recover.

SWITCH TENDER ARRESTED. William Henn, the switchman, was arrested shortly after 9 o'clock last night at his home, 325 south Eleventh street. He was locked up at the station on a charge of criminal negligence and will be retained until the coroner's inquest, which takes place at 10 o'clock this afternoon.

The parents of the deceased Freeman, H. G. Krause, who live at 517 North Fourth street, also visited the morgue last evening. Mr. Krause stated that his son had been employed on the train for some time, about eleven years. Last year he had a very narrow escape while firing the same engine, No. 1300, on the route between Council Bluffs and Grand Island.

After being taken to the hospital last evening, VanVoy's condition did not improve as was hoped by his relatives. His injuries consisted of deep cuts about the head, arms and legs, and a number of places scalded by escaping steam. Injuries to the forearm broke and developed, and at a late hour last night his life was despaired of. He was visited at the hospital by his wife and children.

Under the direction of Superintendent Nichols the wrecked train was pulled to one side of the main track, and at 6 o'clock the main rails were declared open for through traffic. Engine No. 1300 is pretty thoroughly wrecked, the boiler being broken and portions being stripped from the boiler. It will be placed on the rails this morning and pulled down to the shops for complete overhauling.

The road officials expressed themselves as heartily glad that the accident did not result in greater fatalities. The wreck took place upon the edge of a twenty-five foot embankment. Had the train been running at a higher speed, the number of casualties would have been increased, undoubtedly entailing a great loss of life.
