Vendig says that Stuart primised that the counsel fees would be $1,500, and the root of the arena $2,500. Vendig claims that he fold Stuart to go shead, but after the latter reached Texas, he wrote a letter raying the cast would be much more. In reply, Vendig says that he wrote Stuart to go ahead, and draw on him whenever he needed money. It is now a matter of history that the bout was prohibited in cutting it open badly, and also broke his own thumb and dislocated a finger. Caught by His Own Machinery. FAIRMONT, Neb., Feb. 19 .- (Special.) While J. S. McNichols, proprietor of the Fairmont Roller mills, was working about

Texas, owing to the action of the legislature, and after a fruitless attempt to bring it off in Arkansas, Stuart presented a bill for ex-cases, amounting to $20,552.41, and an additional bill of $1,300.

When Stuart and Vendig parted at Little When Stuart and Vendig parted at Little Rock, Ark., in the antumn of 1895, Vendig says Stuart promised to follow Fitzsimmons to Australia, and that he told Stuart to go ahead and that he would pay anything that was right. A month later he received word from Stuart at Houston, saying that he had offered $20,000 as a purse for Corbett and Fitzsimmons to fight anywhere. This proposition, Vendig says, he notified Stuart that he was willing to abide by. Stuart came on to New York carly in December of that to New York early in December of that year with articles signed by Fitzsimmons to ight Corbett, as well as a verbal contract to ght Maher. Wheelock, who was Stuart's secretary, called on Vendig for funds and Vendig says he advanced him $1,366,50 in accordance with an arrangement which Vendig made with Stuart, While the Dallas promotor was hunting for a place where the fight could be brought to an issue Vendig claims that he received letters from Stuart informing him of his rogress and that later, when they stuart produced papers which showed that it would take $40,000 to insure the bringing off of the contest. Vendig says he told Stuart when apprised of this enormous expense that he could not stand for more than 25 per cent of it and that Stuart said he could no afford more than that himself. From that time on Vendig asserts that Stuart made several engagements to meet him, but broke them all. A few days ago Vendig received a telegram from Stuart, dated Carson City which said that Stuart was willing to give Vendig pooling interests on the event, but othing more. Vendig then felt that he was eing frozen out and immediately informed his lawyers. Mr. Hummel declined to dis-cuss the matter this afternoon fur her than endig's interests would be successfully protected.

Large Crowd Greets Fitzsimmons. SALT LAKE, Feb. 19.-A large crowd rected Bob Fitzsimmons at the Grand Opera house last night. Troops of King George Are Enger to Continue the Contest_Emperor

LONDON, Feb. 20 .- A special dispatch to the Times from Vienna says:

William is Displeased with the Powers.

The Neue Freie Prerse pulishes a report from Salonica, dated Tuesday, to the effect that a collision has occurred between the Turkish soldiers and the Greek insurgents at Naszlitza, near the Greek frontier. The Turks were defeated with losses and withdrew to fetch reinforcements. The governor of Salonica has ordered the troops to the point where the disturbances took place and the population along the Greek frontier, is eagerly awaiting the signal to rise against the Turks.

LONDON, Feb. 20 .- A dispatch to the Times from Canea says:

The Greek army has taken the offensive and attacked the Turkish outposts at Plategia. The Turkish outposts were overpowered and compelled to retire in the direction of the town. A crowd of Mohammedans surrounded Konakaska for arms and ammuni tions. Two hundred stands were served out

The Greek regulars shared in the attack on Voukolies. One of the soldiers was killed. The Greek artillery destroyed the fortress. The advance guard of the garrison succeeded in reaching the Turkish outpost west of Canea. The fate of the other members of the guard is unknown. According to the early reports received the garrison of Fort Voukolies consisted of 300 soldiers and 100 Tretan Mussalmans.

A dispatch to the Times from Constanti-nople says: "A better feeling prevails, owing to confidence in a pacific solution of the Cretan question. EMPEROR WILLIAM AGGRIEVED.

by Marquis of Salisbury.

BERLIN, Feb. 19 .- The newspapers of this city reflect the bitter resentment felt by Emperor William at the rejection by the marquis of Salisbury of his majesty's personal proposal to coerce Greece by a joint blockade of the Piracus, the port of Athens, by the fleets of the powers in order to check the warlike demonstrations of Greece. The emperor's proposal caused great interest in diplomatic circles and it is generally assumed that he will not oppose the Greek pretensions in regard to Crete, owing to his sister, Sophia, being the wife of the duke of Sparta, the crown prince of Greece. But it appears that there has long been an absolute estrangement between the emperor and his sister, arising from old-time quarrels, and his majesty, in addition, never has been overfriendly to the royal family of Greece. In diplomatic circles it is surmised that Emperor William's dignity was injured in some manner, probably by the firm attitude assumed by Greece in the face of the remonstrances of the powers and of Germany, and hence the extreme proposal to blockade the Piraeus, which was urged by his majesty with unusual vehemence through the am-bassadors here, upon the European cabinets.

The marquis of Salisbury, without any hesitation, promptly declined the emperor's proposition, saying that public opinion in England would never acquiesce in such a policy. The National Zeltung makes direct charges against the British of attempting to disturb the peace of Europe and says: "The immediate future will show whether the greement of the powers will be disturbed by a manifestation of separate British in-terests, which promises to raise the vell hitherto shrouding the origin of the extremely strange Greek adventure. From the outset we have been of the was not so much to attack Turkey as to strike a blow at European peace." ARE DISLODGED BY THE GREEKS. Purkish Garrison Abandons Its Post,

CANEA, Island of Crete, Feb. 19.—The garrison of Fort Voukolies, comprising 300 soldiers and 100 Cretan Mussulmans, after being dislodged by the Greek artillery, retired to Alikianu, where their force was again beleaguered. Fighting is still proceeding. The government has armed a num-ber of Mussulman volunteers, who have started to the rescue of their co-religionists. NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—A special to the Herald from Canea, Crete, says: British war ships have prevented the landing of Greek troops from Alphios. A Turkish steamer has arrived, bringing many wounded women and children from the Seline district, where the Turkish troops are now proceeding. The landing parties from for-eign war sbips have received orders to resist
