"The Transmississippi and International nesota legislature will make an appropria-tion of from $25,000 to $50,000, and one of Exposition will surpass in magnitude and imperfance all other expositions in this country since the World's fair at Chicago. It is bound to be a great success, because the people of Omsha and the west are behind it, which means a great deal. The business men of Omaha are capable of carrying through successfully any enterprise of the kind they are willing to undertake and they are a unit on the exposition. Observe how quickly they settled the question of a site. Omaha has five or six sites, each of which offers peculiar advantages for an exposition. Each had its ardent and determined supporters, but when it was found that a site at the north end of the city had enough votes to secure the location all opposition ceased at once and the situation was ac-cepted without muttering or growling. This means a great deal in the handling of an and forecasts the success which I are being received by the Department of Exam confident will characterize the exposi-

NOT GENERALLY UNDERSTOOD.

"Omaha is a city not generally understood or appreciated in the east, and this exposi-tion will do away with a great many mis-taken ideas about it. Omaha has stood up taken ideas about it. Omaha has stood up against the hard times more successfully than any western city. Up to 1899, when the national census was taken, it was supposed that Kansas City was far ahead of Omaha in population, business and general importance, but the figures placed the Nebraska. city in the lead. Then the drouth came, and with it the hard times, and still Omaha kept ahead of Kansas City, both in population and the amount of business transacted. A similar comparison might be made propor-tionately with other cities of the west. The more you reflect upon this fact the more im-

'The site selected is admirably adapted for exposition purposes. It has a fine water sup-ply and excellent drainage, the main sewer of the city running through it. The surface is well adapted to the artistic and harmonious grouping of buildings and landscape work. Nearly all the railroads have direct access to the grounds, and several trolley lines connect with the central part of the city. There is money enough subscribed already to successfully finance and exploit the exposition, and the solid business men of Omaha are giving their time and energy to make it a success. While I was there this swer conveyed the appreciation of the cenator week one of the leading bankers, Herman Kountze, at a great personal sacrifice, of said; fered the use of forty acres of partially oc cupied ground as a part of the exposition site. The state of Illinois and particularly the manufacturers of Chicago should patronize this exposition liberally. We should not for-get that the people of the west were the most ardent supporters of our great exposi-tion, and but for their backing and support the World's fair could not have been secure for Chicago. It is to the best interests of Chicago manufacturers to be well repre-sented at the Transmisalssippi Exposition. Their trade is largely in the west and if the at the exposition it will bring them in closer contact and better acquaintance with these western customers and enable them to secure a firmer hold on western patronage. If they are not well represented a large percentage of desirable trade will be diverted into other channels. Chicago should recognize the im-portance of the exposition and protect her own interests by liberally patronizing it.

MISTAKE OF EASTERN MEN. "The center of trade is steadily moving westward. New York refused to recognize this and it still refused to see the handwriting on the wall when the World's fair came to Chicago, but her leading manufac-turers, who were not represented here, dis-covered their fatal error too late to protect themselves. Eastern manufacturers are dis-playing an active interest in the exposition and promise to be well represented there. "The scope of the exposition proper is fully decided upon. Lift Manipulators Take a Day Off. The elevator conductors in the city hall bserved the hollday yesterday, and the occucants of the offices on the upper floors who vished to use their desks were much exer-lacd. It has always been customary to keep one elevator running for the accommodation of such officials as might want to put in at your or two in their offices, but day everyone was compelled to toll long flights of stairs, and consequently the atmosphere in the building was perceptibly inctured with brimstone.

Set a Watch on Her Husband. Mrs. Mary DeCoto has caused a warrant t e issued for the arrest of her husband John N., or the charge of adultery. She alleges that the husband has been altogethe too gay with another woman. She says that she followed the couple one night to the barber shop which DeCote runs in the central part of the city and saw them enter the building. They remained for several Nebraska hats sell for 75c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, according to grade. We sell wool hats at 50c. Ninety-nine men out of a hundred can't tell a wool hat from a fur hat when both are new, and many stores sellwool hats for the price of fur. We don't. We can't afford to make such mistakes, Every hat we sell for 730 and up has got to give service and satisfaction, and wool hats do that sometimes and sometimes they don't. You take no chances here. The hats we sell at 75c are better than you expect. They look well, wear well and hold their color and shape. Our dollar hats are better felt, better trimmed and wear better, of course, Our $1,50 hats are as much superior to other hats at that price as Omaha is superior to Papillion or any other sidetrack, town, They are respectable hats. They have all the style, finish and appearance of most three dollar hats and they are a good sight better than people who haven't worn them can believe. Ten thousand tongues can testify to the excellence of these hats. Can you?
