WHY NOT RECOUNT ALL?
The decision of Judge Keyser denying the application for an injunction to restrain the clerk of Douglas county from delivering the constitutional amendment ballots to the secretary of state...

and the demoralizing plays that disgrace the stage? Is our decadence traceable to the illiterate sons of Italy, Russia, Austria and Ireland, who come to this country to better their condition, or to the rich Americans who spend abroad fortunes amassed by their ancestors at home and whose children are raffled to princelings and countesses?

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.
Wise and Fitting Suggestions.
The new president's inaugural address has the special merit of being short, but it is pregnant with wisdom.

The man for the emergency.
Dignity with humility, confidence with modesty, courage with caution, are the impressions conveyed by the first utterances of our new president.

Temperate and Sensible.
The tone of the entire message is temperate, sensible and reassuring. There is no doubt that it is the deliverance of a man who has courageously assumed the magnitude and solemnity of the responsibilities he has assumed.

MISPLACED PUBLIC CONFIDENCE.
Norfolk Journal: If Joe Bartley knows where the missing state funds are he ought to be willing to tell, and if he isn't willing to tell, he ought to be made to.

A Good Tempered Address.
The message of the whole is a well-written, good-tempered address, such as might naturally be expected from a conservative man upon assuming an office of such vast responsibility as the presidency, but even more so in view of the new administration can hardly regard it as a great state paper when compared with many of the best that have gone before it.

Frank and Clear.
His first official utterance as president will confirm the public opinion as to his eminent soundness on these questions, and his forecasting of policies will undoubtedly contribute to the growth of confidence.

Pence and Prosperity.
We do not know how the president's words will be construed by the freetraders in congress, but they should reflect that Mr. McKinley comes direct from the people and that his lofty address of peace is in sense the expression of the will of a vast majority of his fellow citizens.

THE BEE ON TRAINS.
All railroad newsmen are supplied with enough Bee to accommodate every passenger who wants to read a newspaper.

Urgency has at last concluded to maintain its reputation by having another little revolution of its own.

When the council is required by law to levy all the school taxes the school board may see fit to make requisition for the annual tax rate will be high enough to stop the High school clock.

Before the season of wolf howls is over it might be well, in view of the condition of the finances of Douglas county, to devise some feasible method of keeping the wolf from the door of the county treasury.

The prospect that the long pending vindict case may be advanced on the calendar of the United States court will furnish cheering news to those who are hoping to live long enough to see the vindict once more in safe and passable condition.

Only 100 presidential nominations to postmasterships unacted on by the senate before the adjournment that caused them all to lapse.

There are lots of laws on the statute books now to punish bribery at the polls and corruption in elections, but the penalties are too seldom enforced.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.
The next few days promise to be most eventful in European affairs. It will probably be determined before the end of the present week whether peace is to be preserved or a war inaugurated.

The reason why the agreement to drop Mr. Covell and make Mr. Meyers attorney for the school board was broken is now apparent.

It is probable that a great majority of the people, regardless of politics, desire the success of the new administration, not so much because they desire the success of the republican party, but because they desire a return of prosperous times and of that feeling of security which is the basis of general prosperity.

South African Republics.
The diplomacy of the largest nations is not unskillful of the movements of the smallest, and the announcement that President Steyn is expected to visit President Steyn of the Orange Free State, with a view to discussing a closer union of the two republics, is expected to attract the attention of both England and Germany.

A Golden Nugget.
Major McKinley gave another illustration of his special ability for expressing the gist of a controverted question in homely, lucid and convincing terms.

It looks as if the treasury of Spain were going down for the third and last time. The "populista" loan of $50,000,000 raised last fall, but which was not repaid, is the next lift coming from the sea.

Pushing a Good Thing Along.
Only three members of the Michigan house voted against a bill to pay a bounty of $1000 on the catch of the time fish coming from the $100,000,000 spent for foreign sugar will be kept at home.

Triumphs of Public Life.
President Cleveland leaves the presidency immeasurably richer than when he first assumed it. Who can estimate the value of his long and happy life?

Checked on to Success.
It is probable that a great majority of the people, regardless of politics, desire the success of the new administration, not so much because they desire the success of the republican party, but because they desire a return of prosperous times and of that feeling of security which is the basis of general prosperity.

Trust in the Most High.
The most striking feature of President McKinley's inaugural is the deep reverence for God and the firm reliance upon divine help which permeates it.

Favorable Impressions.
Rigid economy in government expenditures, debt-paying instead of debt-making management, and the offering to the people of the public needs and chiefly from a protective tariff on imports, the revival of Blaine's reciprocity, American ships again on the ocean, an American policy for the honor of the flag and the protection of American citizens, a respectful and friendly attitude on the part of the executive toward the legislative department of the government, and unity and good feeling between north and south—these are the McKinley program as announced Thursday.

A Great Disappointment.
The president's treatment of the tariff is a great disappointment. Not that his position is wrong, but that it is not what we had hoped for.

Spain's Stranded Again.

ONE IS NOT SAFE TO GO WITHOUT AN OVERCOAT THESE DAYS.
HE OUGHT TO HAVE TWO OVERCOATS, IN FACT, AND WHERE CLOTHING IS AS INEXPENSIVE AS OURS IS, THERE IS NO VERY GOOD REASON WHY NEARLY EVERY MAN SHOULD DENY HIMSELF THE LUXURY OF A MEDIUM WEIGHT COAT FOR STREET WEAR AND AN ULSTER FOR STORMS.
