not be cured except by this improved nothod.

There is this to say for general public application; There is no longer room for doubt that in the great majority of cases the practical mastery of catarrh and all kindred diseases has been achieved.

The new treatment of Drs Copeland and Shepard will cure, even where the most costly methods of other doctors may have failed. This is the crowning work of the lives of these physicians. It is the perfection of their united experience. It is the rock on which all the treatment of the future will be based.

THIS BEGAN WITH "TICKLING IN THE THROAT."

It is not upon simple heresay that Rev. E. E. Hunt, pastor of the Methodist church, Elgin. Neb., now commends the Copeland and Shepard system to the sick, but as the result of his own experience of that system. He writes:

REV. E. E. HUNT, Elgin, Neb.

"I had catarrh of the head, throat and lungs for 20 years. My nose was tightly stepped and my sense of smell about de-stroyed. My eyes were inflamed, watery and weak, giving me constant annoyance and suffering.

and suffering.

My voice was greatly impaired by the catarrhal inflammation spreading from the head into the larynx and wind pipe. I also had frequent and severe attacks of head-nebe, which would come on by taking the least cold.

least cold.

"Though I began the mail treatment with little hope of benefit, I very soon realized that I was getting well. Perhaps the best comment I could make on the treatment is to say that it has been of untold benefit to me. The distressing symptoms I have listed above are practically gone. I find myself in re-established health. Under the old methods of treatment nothing seemed to give me any relief, but there is no doubt in my mind that the new treatment of Dr. Shepard justifies all the praise it has received."

JACKSON AND WALLING HANG

Pay Extreme Penalty of t'e Law for Murdering Pearl Bryan.

BOTH DROP FROM THE SAME SCAFFOLD

Jackson Makes Another Confession, Saying Walling is Not Guilty, but that Does Not Save Him_No Credence Placed in It.

NEWPORT, Ky., March 20 .- Scott Jackson and Alongo Walling were hanged here today for the murder of Pearl Bryan in 1896. Although the two men were hanged simultaneously from a double trap that fell on pulling the same lever, there were no special incidents at the gallows. The scenes were those that ordinarily take place on such occasions. Both men were cool and nervy to the last and they died protesting their innocence and declaring that their confessions were false and made for effect on the governor. The morning hours preceding the execution were, however, full of exciting scenes. The plan to gain time for Jackson and possibly a respite for Walling was worked from early morning up until the men started to the gallows. In the morning Jackson made another confession, in which he said Walling was not guilty of murder and Governor Bradley was telegraphed accordingly. Many false reports were soon circulated about a respite being granted Walling and these reports caused much excitement among the large crowds assembled in the vicinity of the jail.

At times there were apprehensions of trouble, but the local police force and the deputy sheriffs were assisted by a large force of militia and order was maintained throughout the forenoon. When it was an-nounced that Governor Bradley had ordered the execution of both men to proceed and that there would be no interference what-ever, there were continued shouts of ap-proval. The scaffold was in the court yard, where it could be seen by many thousands of people from the surrounding buildings, and there was a great demonstration when the black flag was hoisted as a signal that the execution was over. These signals were also hoisted in Covington and Cincinnati this Letter from a Distant Lady Pa-tient Shows How Chronic Invalids May Be Cured at Home Through the being respited for four days. As soon as the execution was over the crowds dispersed and the bodies of the men were taken away by their friends, but the large number of visitors remained in the city and were in groups expressing their satisfaction over the result. Quite a large party of friends of the Bryan family were present from Green-castle and they were very much exercised over the suspense of the forenoon.

STORY OF THE CRIME. In the early morning of February 1, 1896, a boy going to work discovered the dead body of a girl in an obscure part of John Lock's farm, adjoining Fort Thomas, Ky. The mur-derers had cut off the girl's head to prevent identification, and removed it to some place that has never been discovered. The only garments on the body were a union under-suit and a cheap checked wrapper. A pair of choes lay near, also a kid glove, two hairpins and a few strands of blonde hair. The shoes were a woman's No. 3, and on them was an opera toe rubber, well worn. Inside the shoes, which were of the needletoe decription, was the stamp of Lewis & Hayes Greencastle, with a Portsmouth, O., firm as the makers. Nearby was a white corset, spotless except from bloody finger prints. At the top of the bank where the feet lay was a pool of blood. This spot was in the gap of a private hedge on which remained dead leaves. On both sides of these leaves, above and below, were drops of blood. At the foot of the bank near the neck was nother pool of blood. On that morning these few garments were the only clows to the identity of the dead girl. Blood-hounds were taken to the spot, and they followed a trail to the Covington reservoir and could be induced to go no further. The reservoir was drained but the head was not ound. All subsequent search for the head has been fruitless. Greencastle, Ind., by her parents as belonging well-to-do farmer living near Greencastle. This identification of the girl was brought about by Sheriff Jule Plummer of Campbell county, Kentucky, who had followed the slender clews furnished by the shoes and garments to a successful issue. This discovery also identified Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling as the perpetrators of the crime. These young men were roommates and fellow students in the dental college at cincinnati. Scott Jackson spent several months of the summer and early autumn of 1895 at Greencastle, Ind., as a member of the family of his brother-in-law, Dr. Edwin F. Post, a professor in the DePauw university. There he became acquainted with Will Wood, a lad 20 years old, the son of Rev. Delos M. Wood, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church, residing at Green-castle. Through Will Wood, who was a secand cousin to Pearl Bryan, he obtained ar introduction to her and visited her She was a graduate of the Greencastle High school, was vivacious, pretty, fond of society and very popular. Jackson when absent kept up a correspondence with her, which was continued until within a ortnight of the day of per murder. The last two or three months of this correspondence was carried on clandestinely. Will Wood was the medium at Greencastle by which these letters were passed to their destina-

> AUTHOR OF HER RUIN. Jackson's last visit to Greencastle was in the holidays of 1895-96. A few persons at Grencastle, confidants of Jackson, knew hat Pearl Bryan was in a de leate condition To one of these, Dr. Gillespie, a dentist with whom Jackson worked, also a relative of Pearl Bryan, Jackson admitted that he was the author of Pearl Bryan's trouble. Gillespie during the holiday vacation ad-vised Jackson to marry her. He said that he would not do anything of the kind. There were others who knew about the affair among them Will Wood and Mr. Early, elegraph operator at Greencastle. Through Will Wood, some time in December, 1895 Jackson had sent Pearl Bryan a letter, containing a prescription of ergot of rye and other ingredients intended to produce an abor The girl never got the prescription Jackson visited her in the vacation and destroyed the letter and the prescription Meantime Jackson and Walling were arrested in Cincinnati. In their possession were found letters, chiefly from Will Wood to Jackson in regard to Pearl Bryan. Pearl Bryan's pocketbook and her valise, which was stained with blood, were found where Jackson had secreted them. Walling's pantaloons were taken from his locker at the dental college and they were muddy and spotted with blood. Jackson's coat, flecked all over with blood, was fished out of a sewer in which it was found by Walling's lozen handkerchiefs, which were afterwards dentified as the property of Pearl Bryan. PRISONERS ACCUSE EACH OTHER. In the examination by Chief Seitch the orisoners admitted that Pearl Bryan had ome here Monday, January 27, and that both of them had been with her until Wednesday afternoon, after which each charged the other with having her in his are, and each declared that he had seen nothing of her afterwards. Both admitted that on the Saturday night following the murder they had gone to the suspension bridge on the river and dropped her bloody clothing into the river to hide it and to conceal the crime. On Friday night at 7 o'clock Jackson was seen to leave Days Wallingford's saloon in the tenderloin listrict with Pearl Bryan in a hack, and a the same time Walling was seen near the saloon. A stranger, who gave the name of Lentz, alleged that he was robbed Friday while in a disorderly house. He says he lost a gold watch and chain and $87 in money. As Lentz, on his own statement, has been on a protracted spree during the past week, the police are inclined to believe that he spent the money and disposed of the watch.

Some unknown persons Friday unlocked the back door of the house at 1135 North Seventeenth street and went into one of the hedrooms. They broke into a trunk and secured $15 in money. Mrs. Margaret S. Higbee, Burdette Kan., writes as follows:
"I received this month's medicine promptly. The entarrhal secretion is much thinner, there is not that thick, tenacious mucus, and the dripping of phlesm from the head to the stomach is less frequent. I am very much elated over this, for I rather doubted your ability to conquer that in me, as I have had it so long. My voice for singing is also returning. The alteration in my appearance is very noticeable. The leaden load of physical suffering is gradually being lifted from my brain, for I now have hopes of being well and strong once more. The Home Treatment is simply wonderful. Yours respectfully.

If S. F. B. Morse, the general passenger and ticket agent of the Southern Pacific's Atlantic division, or any of his subordinate officers should wander into the passenger department of the Union Pacific headquarters they would not be at all kindly received.

He had paid for a ride to Carson in a through car, without change, and he was determined to have it, and he did. When the train arrived at Fort Worth, Tex., Mr. Curtis was the sole occupant of the car. The agent there informed Curtis that owing to the small number of passengers traveling he would have to move into another car, as the one occupied by himself would be cut out at Fort Worth. Curtis refused flatly to budge an inch and the car was per-mitted to remain in the train. Several at-tempts were made between Fort Worth and oust Curtis, but he would not be All sorts of schemes were resorted to, but without avail. Curtis was going to Carson and in that car. The railway officials, fearing that the company would be liable a damage suit if the car was set out, permitted it to proceed. Union Pacific Company Makes a Comparative Statement. About a fortnight ago The Bee printed a brief interview with General Manager Dickloson of the Union Pacific, in which that official said that the business of the road was running considerably ahead of what it had been a year ago. The report of the republished by The Bee, bears out the statement of Mr. Dickinson. The increase of $164,974 in the net earnings for January was almost entirely due to larger freight transportation. The increase in freight earnings to the month compared with the same month last year was 12 per cent. The improveresulted from a large movement of live stock, which was brought into Nebraska and Kansas to be fed, on account of the large available amount of corn in that region. The larger carnings were also attributable, to an extent, to the fact that the more north-
