CHEROKEE, Ia., April 26 .- (Special Tele gram.)-John Cadden, aged 25 years, of Dubuque was instantly killed here today, while laying sewer pipe in a ditch eight feet deep, by the dirt caving in on him. The remains were taken to Dubuque tonight. John Morrissy of Danbury, who was assisting Cadden, was probably fatally injured at the same time. He is injured internally, but how seriously cannot be determined yet. The coroner's jury found that Cadden's death was accidental. The verdict does not seem to give general satisfaction, as it is said by men who were on the ground that Cadden asked to have the walls of the ditch propped, but the boss said they were safe. committees. AFTER THE MARCH WAS OVER. In the conclusion of the long march at the head of Fourth street some very pretty evolutions were noted. The Council Bluffs antonment and subordinate lodges had led the line throughout the march, but when the end was reached they formed double line or each side of the street, through which the officers rode. The other lodges took the same formation further down the street, and when the carriages containing the grand master and other officers reached there they rode through solid lines extending a distance of three blocks. This arrangement permitted all of the visiting lodges to pass between the Council Bluffe delegations and receive the graceful salutes of their hosts, and it also permitted all of them to enter the temple building in advance of their entertainers. The exercises were held in the large public of the hall was originally covered with 800 chairs, but to accommodate as many as possible of the visitors the chairs were crowded a little more closely and room was made for

The building was dedicated by the officers the grand lodge of Iowa, Grand Master S. Bellamy of Knoxville, Grand Marshal Jasper Jones of Shelby, Grand Warden C. Koonz of Burlington, Grand Heralds E. Tucker, D. W. Selby, Louis Harris and George Wilson and Grand Chaplain C. W. Foster of Council Bluffs. The ceremonial of dedication in accordance with the ritual of the order is beautiful and expressive, and given as it was before the magnificent audience, composed wholly of members of the order, it seemed to acquire new expression of the great principles of Odd Fellowship. The chairs were arranged in the hall in the form of a cross, leaving the four aisles open. In the center was built the temple block by block by the grand officers. The hall was handsomely decorated with flowers, palms and ferns. On the platform besides the officers were seated the venerable D. Bloomer, who announced the program, Rev. D. C. Franklin, Rev. John Askin, John Evans, past grand master of Omaha; John Hamlin of Omaha, past grand master; A.

come. He said:

Master of Ceremonies, Ladies and Gentlement Thirty-five years ago the 12th of last March Captain Doane of company A. Twelfth Indiana infantry, gave us an account of your order in the matier of patriotism, devotion to duty and love of country. His company was deployed as skirmishers in the advance upon Winchester, Va. His command captured two South Carolina confederates, who were conducted to the captain. One of them sainted him with a signal of the order. The stern old captain answered in substance: "No, sir; Odd Fellowship does not recognize or protect traitors." You can imagine the thrill of approval that touched the heart of every man as his strong words passed along our line of battle.

touched the heart of every man as his strong words passed along our line of battle. It was this spirit that moved your committee to bave local government represented on this occasion. You have brilliant, able minds in your order to instruct and entertain you, and to fill the spice alloited in your exercises on behalf of the public requires but a moment of your time. I can truly say that all the people rejoice with you upon this happy event. They know something of your long cherished hope, now so fully realized in this magnificent temple. Your progress was watched from the time the ground was broken until the last stone brick and timber were laid in place. Like the craft that built the great temple at Jerusalem, there was neither far nor discord, nor was there any contention except that noble contention of vying with each other as to who could do the most to push the good work along. While you do not proclaim your work from the house tops, the spirit that moves you is diffused. The weak and lowly see in you the good sammaritan; while the household of the faithful is first to receive your care, to bind up the wounds of the afflicted and comfort the widows and orpeans.

Even those outside the order have a share of your bounty and sympathy. How grand it would be if all humanity could be brought in touch with the tender ties that bind you, with every heart attuned to the blessed words of the Great Master. "Love one another."

To the visiting officers and members attending here today, on behalf of the cilizens of this city I greet you, not only as Odd Fellows, but as fellow cilizens and neighbors. We know airsady that you are at home with your brethren and while you tarry we wish you a pleasant, happy time.

He declared that he felt great pride in calling attention to the strength of the order in Iowa, which embraced more than 70,000 members, who were living up to the principles of Odd Fellowship, visiting the sick, burying the dead, and caring for the widows and orphans. Alluding to the magnificent temple about to be dedicated, he declared: "Like the place we occupy in fraternal orders, the place where we meet today, your magnificent temple is bright and cheerful. The reception of Odd Fellowship which your people have accorded today is all that we could conceive and all that we could desire."

BUILDING THE TEMPLE. The solemn and expressive dedicatory ceremonies were begun by the grand master calling upon the audience to rise and sing the opening ode. In a brief address the grand master explained and extelled the principles upon which the great order rests. with Many Objections. The inquiry into the citizenship of J. M. Hardin, elected by the council to the position of street commissioner, promises to be a genuine Pickwickian trial, and the dignity of Mayor Carson and the veteran members of the council will be sorely taxed to prevent it assuming farcical features. For two and a half hours last evening the council as a committee of the whole wrestled with the problem raised by the petition of the Sixth warders, who asked the council to reconsider its action in electing Hardin on the hall on the second floor, the regular lodge room on the upper floor being entirely too small to accommodate the crowd. The is the only one of sufficient importance to prevent it being disposed of by the usual method of receiving it and placing it on file. This petition was referred by the council at the meeting on last Monday night to the committee of the whole, which was called last night. The council chamber was

France and Germany will, it is understood, give their petition. After the petition had been read again and the clerk had stumbled through the long list of names, Vien began his address. He said Hardin was not a citizen be-cause he had moved his family from the city last December and that they were now residents of Carson, and that Hardin had come back for the purpose of getting the job of street commissioner, bringing nothing with him but the clothes he wore. He declared that he had looked up the law carefully and had discovered that the fact that Hardin was not a citizen did not interfere with the legal right of the council to ap-point him; that there was no law to preven the aldermen appointing any man they chose, even though he was not a citizen of the United States. While there was no law against the appointment of a non-resident, he declared that it was against public policy o do so. He made an earnest appeal to the council to consider the petition of the citizens, because as citizens they were en-

Alderman Casper hotly resented the imputation that the members of the council were numbskulls, and he proceeded to roast Colonel Lindt in a most vigorous manner. Casper asserted that the petition itself contained the charges necessary, and that it was the duty of Hardin to prove that he was a citiduty of Hardin to prove that he was a citizen. After a good deal more partisan skirmishing, it was decided to require the petitioners to present the evidence in the form

Mrs. Margaret Tiernan, Dunlap, In., is sixty years old. She came to Omaha and was treated by Dr. Shepard for Bronchial Catarrh, Asthma and Weakness. She had tried the oldfashioned ways of doctoring, with no benefit, and wanted something new As soon as she did this she got all

As soon as she did this she got all right. She says:
"I am 60 years old, and when I went to Dr. Shepard last September I thought could not live two weeks. I was prostrated by a terrible cough and sore lungs and with wheezing from asthma night and day. I was sick, sore and weak, with monetile, and my veins seemed burstin. CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., April 26.-(Special today. WHY PHYSICIANS ENCOURAGE THE

Scores of the most eminent of the medical profession in this and other countries well understand and make use of this wonderful agency in their practice. Hundreds of general practitioners all over this country have the utmost confidence in its efficiency, and are too honest and generous to withhold that which is for the best interest of their patrons, and are wise and good enough after exhausting their skill and all the means at their command, to direct them to some specialist who is better equipped and qualified to successfully treat in chronic diseases. Dr. Shepard herewith tenders his thanks to those physicians who have in the past sent him patients, and when he does so he believes he also voices the thanks of the patients thus sent. USE OF ELECTRICITY.

Elder J. R. Speck, 602 Hazel St., Council Blaffs, the noted evangelist of the Christian church, says: "I was tapidly developing a case of catarrhal consumption as a result of the insidious poisoning of catarrh, Wasting of flesh, an incessant cough, with lack of appetite and strength, marked my decime. Dr. Shepard cured me sound and well and I deem it my plain duty to my fellow men to tell them where they can get help from the ravages of lung disease,"
