Strong Greek reinforcements were brought up, but the Turkish left resisted the onslaught. During the battle the Turkish center was hidden behind a thick wood, which proved an adequate defense. In the morning two Turkish forces charged the Greek position; at first they were successful, but, meet-ing with a larger force, strongly intrenched, they suffered heavily. I visited the trenches when an attack was expected and I found all except the sentinels sleeping quietly. About 8 o'clock last evening strong Greek reinforcements were brought up from Volo and Pharsalia, so that the Turkish force is now much inferior. The distance between the right and left wings has been greatly extended and the general in command has decided to concentrate his troops on a more favorable position farther back.

REAT ESTATE CONVENTION

Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana Are Represented.

DELEGATES ARE WELCOMED TO OMAHA

Visitors Presented with Word Pictures of Nebraska's Green Fields and Streams of Clear Bunning Water.

The Interstate Land association, with delegates present from Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois GREEKS HAVE SUPERIOR FORCES, and Indiana, commenced a two-days' convention at the rooms of the Commercial club yesterday forenoon. The association was organized at Chicago last year for the purpose of procuring the investment of capital in the creation and development of lawful enterprises in the state of Nebraska and elsewhere, to aid public and private associations in developing the resources of the states of Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana by inducing the settlement of those states, and for the selling and leasing of lands to settlers.

The association has been built up largely by the efforts of the Burlington railway officlais. About 150 delegates are present and the gathering is a body of representative

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS.

John Francis, general passenger agent of the B. & M., caled the convention to order. In his opening remarks he stated that he felt, in common with the people of Ne-braska, that there was never a more favora-ble time than the present to induce immigration to this state. He believed that a meeting of the real estate agents of Ne braska with their brethren of the great middle states would serve to promote mon interests. The convention, he said, would be entirely informal. No attempt had been made to prepare an elaborate program for the reason that the men who had arranged for the gathering felt that an informal meeting would induce many of the visitors to participate in the discussion who otherwise would keep silent. He expressed the hope that the two days' convention would be productive of much good.

Mr. Francis then introduced J. H. Dumont, president of the Commercial club, who de ivered a brief address, expressing in a few happy sentences Omaha's welcome to the visitors, not only from Nebraska, but from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana.

Dument extended the freedom of the ity to the visitors. He then sketched briefly he results of the drouth two and three years ago, as affecting the prosperity of the state showing how the newspapers and writers of the easter's states had taken advantage of a temporary misfortune to malign and misrep-resent Nebraska. As a result of the misrepresentations of eastern writers Nebraska's resentations of eastern writers Neurassa; interest and credit had unquestionably suffered. He hoped that the present meeting would do much to dispel the false impressions which had been created.

Mr Dumont rapidly glanced at the resources of the state. He pointed first to the great agricultural industry, which had already placed Nebraska in the front rank of the great producing states. Speaking of great producing states. Speaking of Greek war ship to the island of Crete to vantages offered by the state and referred to the progress already made in beet raising and sugar manufacturing. He also explained the advantages offered for the culture and manufacture of chicory. The great industry of cattle raising came in for a good word and in this connection the rapid growth of the South Omaha stock yards and packing industries connected therewith was discussed. He spoke of the educational intercepts of the state gave the Transmississippi ests of the state, gave the Transmississipp ests of the state, gave the Trausmississippi Exposition a good advertisement and closed with a neat tribute to the enterprise of the Burlington system, which, he said, was doing so much for the development of the west. He also called the attention of the visitors to the new depot now being erected by the Burlington, saying that that company was the only one that ever nad the grit to erect a modern depot, large enough for own needs and for the accommodation all roads running into Qmaha if they desired to use it. JUDGE KNOX RESPONDS.

Judge S. M. Knox of Princeton, president of the Interstate Land association, was greeted with a round of applause as he came forward to respond to the address of wel-come. He said the association of which he was the president had a great admiration for of Omaha and for the enterprise grit, push, pluck and perseverance of its citizens. He said also that the members of the association had unbounded confidence in the resources, the credit, the advantages and the future of the state of Nebraska. knew that no state in the union had a better soil or a better climate than were found in Nebraska. The state had been peopled with the farmers, mechanics and business men of the middle states. The tide of immigration the middle states. The tide of immigration was steadily westward. The tradency of modern population was to concentrate in the cities. The present rate gave the cities 4s per cent of the population of the country. The proportion should be but 25 per cent of the whole. The problem of the day was to being the surplus population from the cities. bring the surplus population from the cities of the east to the cheap lands of the west. That problem would be taken up and a solution sought for at the present session of the G. M. Hitchcock of the World-Herald was then introduced. He thought there was much to study in the ebb and flow of emigraion. He did not believe emigration was the esult of mere chance. On the contrary, he thought the great underlying motive of emigration was discontent. In proof he pointed to the fact that the tide of emigration always reached its highest ebb in the years im-mediately following great panics and periods of extreme business depression. The development of the great west, he thought, was the direct result of the great paule of 1873. He also believed that the panic of 1893 would have a similar result, and that the west was on the eve of one of the greatest eras of development in its history.

STANDS UP FOR NEBRASKA. Victor Rosewater of The Omaha Bee was the next speaker. He belleved, he said, that the stories of the depression in Ne-braska had been greatly exaggerated and braska had been greatly exaggerated and that the condition of the state itself was the best answer to misrepresentations. He said he was not surprised to hear his friend who had immediately preceded him again bring up the old "crime of '73," to which he had been accustomed to have all the had been accustomed to have all the wors of the country attributed. But he was glad to note that the he was glad to note that the speaker had at last discovered something in that much-talked-of "crime" to commend and to hear him admit that some good grew out of the panic of 1873. Mr. Resewater stated that the people who al-ready live in Nebraska had unbounded conready live in Nebraska had unbounded confidence, not only in the resources and advantages of the state, but in its future. He thought a trip of inspection over the state would convince the visitors that Nebraska's future was based upon no uncertainty. Speaking of the intimate relations between the previous and the development of a the newspapers and the development of a the newspapers and the development of a state and a city, he said that it was no part the province of a newspaper to assist in speculative development. He thought a newspaper should at all times stand out against any tendency to boom a state for mere speculative purposes, and to encourage in every way possible every legitimate en-terprise that promised to add to the wealth of a state and to furnish an honcet basis for increased population. Speaking of the city of Omaha, he said that if the visitors would look about the city during their stay they would be convinced that here was a arm and legitimate foundation for a magmificent and prosperous future.

This completed the preliminary program of introductory addresses. Mr. Francis stated, before introducing the next speaker, that in addition to being a railroad man, he had DELEGATES IN ATTENDANCE.
The following are present from Nebraska: Gilbert Faber, Schuyler; J. B. Billings, Alma; probably knew more theories about farming than any practical farmer in the country could put in application. He had become greatly interested in a new method of soil-culture and the B. & M. had taken up the work of educating the farmers of the west in the new method. His company had undertaken the experimental farms in Kansas, Nebraska and the two Dakotas. He introduced H. W. Campbell, who had been employed by the H. & M. to superintend the experimental farms. Mr. Campbell explained at length the

The discussion drew out the facts that one The discussion drew out the facts that one man could easily farm sixty acres under the new system, that the yield was nearly double as compared with the old system, that the unachinery cost no more than the old style implements and that the new system prevented the destruction of crops by hot winds. At noon the convention adjourned until EASTERN DELEGATES ASK QUESTIONS. It was not until 2 o'clock in the afternoon that the convention got down to work. Campbell, the soil culture expert, was again present and continued the discussion of the new method. In a brief statement he pointed out the fact that the new method required less seed per acre. He answered many questions put to him by the delegates from the eastern states, where the new method is not so well understood. He closed his discussion of the subject by making the some-what startling prediction that Nebraska was destined to become the greatest cereal pro-ducing state of the great middle west for the reason that it had less rain.

James N. Clarke, president of the Nebraska

Loan and Trust company at Hastings, Neb., next spoke on "The Advantages of Immigration from a Western Standpoint." He said that the history of the past few years had emonstrated the wonderful recuperative powers of Nebraska under great disadvanages. The state was the stronger today from ts experience of the last four years. one important problem to solve was, how to convince the homeseekers from the east of the advantages of Nebraska. The plain truth should in all cases be told; but even the truth about Nebraska sounded like exaggeration to eastern ears. Ho thought that two facts should be prominently set forth to the people of the east: first, the opportunities of-fered by Nebraska for the attainment of health; and, second, for the acquirement of wealth. The two, he said, ran along parallel lines. The climate offered every advantage o the man, the health of whose family is afected by his eastern environments. As to the equirement of wealth, he said that the same industry and frugality practiced in the east would make men rich in Nebraska without question. Nebraska was the only state in he union where a capable farmer could from single crop pay for at least half of his farm, if prices are only fairly good. He said a great deal also depended upon the people of Nebraska. The question of taxation was an mportant one and with it went the question of the credit of the state. In order that both could be solved it would be necessary to elect ionest men to office, men who instead of tealing public funds would use them to pay off the state's indebtedness. Men sent to ongress should be broad minded representative men. The credit of the state should be upheld. With the honor and credit of the state maintained and the truth told of its soil and its climate, the immigration to Nebraska would largely increase the population in the immediate future. REAL ESTATE MEN CAUTIONED. Assistant Land Commissioner Ernest of the B. & M. company gave a practical talk. He believed in advertising the state; but he cautioned the real estate men not to lay too much stress on the new system of soil culture, irrigation, etc. He said Nebraska was one of the greatest agricultural states of the union, even with the old fashioned styles of farming and, while the new ideas were all well enough, if they were pushed too prominently the impression would be created that special forms of cultivation were absolutely necessary. P. S. Eustis, general passenger agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, woke up the delegates in a spirited talk in which he indulged in a great deal of good natured criticism over the shiftless methods of some real estate men, both in Nebraska and Il-linois. He then told of the plans formu-lated by the Burlington for advertising Nebraska this year. At least fifty exhibits of Nebraska products would be arranged and sent to state and county fairs in the east. A large number of men from the middle state when the crops were ripening. Several mil-lion papers and pamphlets would be sent where they would do the most good. The balance of the work rested entirely in the hands of the real estate men themselves.

R. R. Randall, the old time real estate agent of Nebraska, next gave a rousing tall and awakened considerable enthusiasm said what Nebraska warted more than anything else was witnesses-men who would come here front the east, see the state as i really is, and go home and tell their friends and neighbors what they have seen.

B. F. Ferguson of Rensselaer, Ill., was the last speaker of the afternoon. He said that something more was necessary than to merely sing the praises of Nebraska's healthful climate and productive soil. Persistent work in one direction and along a single line. The croakers who unfortunately infes every community should be crowded into the background so far as possible by the truth told about the state. He agreed with the former speakers in thinking that Nebraska was just entering a remarkable period f development.

The convention then adjourned until 8 o'clock. The balance of the afternoon was given up by the delegates to a private interchange of views. Real estate men from the east took advantage of the opportunity to introduce themselves to the Nebraska men and there was an active interchange of views until the supper hour approached.

EXPERIENCE MEETING. Last night a batch of the delegates held a sort of "experience meeting" for the benea soft of the Nebraskans, who were invited to tell what they could of the advantages and the beautics of the Nebraska farms. A con-siderable number of delegates assembled in the dining room of the Dellone hoted for this purpose and were very informally talked G. W. Whiteaker of Kearney spoke many good words for the lands in his county. Most of the farms are improved and near railroads and are selling at from $10 to $40 an acre on an average.

Gilbert Faber of Schuyler stated that the liands in Colfax county were also of first-class quality, but sold at from $25 to $60 an acre. Both the delegates invited the eastern dealers to visit the counties.

J. B. Piper of this city spoke highly o Nebraska farming lands which are now sup-posed to be only fairly good. He stated that the soil in Buffalo, Greeley, Custer and other counties was a trifle sandy, but that it has been found that this sort of earth is the best for sugar beets and chloory, which Mr. Piper said would furnish Nebraska's greatest crops in time to come. He also put in a good word for the Transmississippi Exposi

J. B. Billings of Alma, a resident for twenty five years of Harian county, highly praised his county. He said almost all the soil was fertile, and all the farms were located within eight or ten miles of a railroad. They sold at from $5 to $15 an acre, although some of the best alfalfa lands brought as high as $60. He spoke of many people who had settled on Harlan county farms in straightened circumstances and are now doing well.

A delegate from Fort Morgan, Colo., sang the praises of eastern Colorado land under irrigation, and especially of its slialfa crops.

L. H. Jones of Strang boomed Fillmore county. He showed specimens of plums raised on his cwn farm. He stated that he raised 250 bushels of the fruit to an acre, and sold it on an average of $1 a bushel. As a specimen of the development of the farms in his county, he stated that be had purchased his quarter section for $11 an acre thirteen years ago, and recently refused $7,000 for his farm. Mr. Jones maintained that Ne-bracka land could not be beat by any state in the union, and that its soil was equal to his farm the best in Ohio. The delegates who were not in attendance at this meeting entertained themselves in the new system of soil culture. In brief the new system is as follows: The soil is first plowed in the ordinary manner. A packer is then run over the ground, by the use of which the soil was closely packed beneath the surface, leaving about three inches of loose pulverized soil on top. Gorn is planted the usual way and cultivated only to a depth of three inches, thus permitting the strong roots to grow deeper. Small grains are drilled in rows twenty inches apart instead of being sown broadcast, and are cultivated.

The discussion door out the first the soil is first placed.

MOUNT PISGAH BAPTIST CHURCH

Investment Company Takes Posses sion for Arrears in Rent. The Mount Pisgah Baptist church, which has for many years housed a colored congregation at the corner of Twelfth and Jackson streets, is no more. Yesterday a notice was posted on the door to the effect that the Garneau Investment company, through its ocal agents, the Omaha Loan and Trust company, had taken possession of the prem-ises for non-payment of rent. The church has been the scene of many a hotly con-tested battle, when "razabs" hurtled through the air, and chairs were used for skull reakers. The church is a little old weather beaten edifice, perched high up on a clay embankment. Around about it is a brick wall fast tottering to decay which has kept the fast tottering to decay which has structure from pitching headlong into the street. It was in this church that a buxom colored lassie startled the congregation, one bright Sunday morning, by walking up the bright Sunday morning, by walking up the aisle and depositing a lusty infant upon the pulpit, declaring that it was the unlawful offspring of the minister, who but a few minutes before had been preaching of the wrath to come. This was the "Rev." Hoff-man. He has since departed for other fields. For about a month past Rev. January has attempted to straighten out the tangle which the congregation appears to be constantly get-ting into but with poor success. About half the congregation were against January's methods, while the rest insisted that he was all right. It has therefore frequently happened that the insurgents secured a preacher of their own, and the unusual spectacle of two preachers expounding holy doctrine a Chandler is Reinstated. CHICAGO, May 5.—The board of appeals of the American Trotting association finished its session today after hearing and deciding over thirty cases, most of which were unimportant. The most important case was the reinstatement of J. B. Chandler of Wichita, Kan., whose expulsion caused considerable talk three years ago. Chandler had been temporarily reinstated at a former meeting, but was returned to full membership today.

BEDRIDDEN.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF SUFFERING

The Doctors Wanted Seven Hundred

Dollars to Attempt the Case. The following is a letter we received a ort time ago from Mrs. M. C. Hinkley, 602 North Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind.: Gentlemen-While suffering intensely from piles. I became interested in your advertise ment in one of our daily papers and procured a package of your Pyramid Pile Cure from our druggist. Contrary to my expecta-tions, the relief was instantaneous. I used two boxes of the Pile Cure and one of the Pills, and am convinced that they are the only sure cure for piles on the market. I have been a sufferer from piles for fifteen years, and have been confined to my bed about one-half of the time, expecting and wishing for death, for the pain was so great, went to the college here and the doctors said my case was a new one to them, the great pain having brought on a large rupture, which they wanted $700.00 to cut out I was very much afraid that death would result from the blood-poisoning, which they said would result from the operation. I feel as though I can't praise the Pyramid Pile Cure and the Pyramid Pills too highly, as I am convinced that they saved my life. Before using your cure I weighed only ninety pounds, and now I weigh 150 and feel as well as I ever did in my life. You are at liberty to use this testimonial in any manner you may see fit, as I want all sufferers from this terrible disease to know that there has at last beed compounded a remedy that will ure piles. MRS. M. C. HINKLEY. There is no need of the danger, pain and expense of a surgical operation for any form of piles. The Pyramid Pile Cure does the work without pain and is the safest and best. Remember also that the Pyramid Pills are a certain cure for constipation, acting withut griping and restoring natural action to the bowels.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by drug-gists at 50c and $1.00, and the Pyramid Pilis 25c, or by mail from Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich. AMUSEMENTS.
