WRANGLE OVER TEXT BOOKS

They Had the Right of Way at the Board of Education Meeting.

QUESTION IS HELD UP WITHOUT ACTION | makes the following reference to Omaha:

Van Gilder Attacks the Motives of the American Book Company, Which He Alleges is Responsible for the Trouble.

The text book question was a live issue at the regular meeting of the Board of Education last night and oratory was the feature of the evening. The committee on text books reported with a recommendation that the matter, so far as it related to geographies, be made a special order for the second regular meeting in July, and the war began on a motion to suspend the rules and adopt the

The bids received on geographies were called for and read. They were from E. H. Butler & Co., Ginn & Co., the Omaha School Supply company and the American Book company. In reply to a question Superintendent Pearse stated that the geographies now in use were out of date.

Dennis and Van Gilder wanted new books selected at once, and Van Gilder openly declared that the American Book company was behind the desire of other members to delay action. He declared that this company proposed to have a new geography in three months and the delay was for the purpose of bringing their new book into competition. declared that the bid of the Rand-Mc-Nally company, through the Omaha School Supply company, was the only legitimate bid before the board and it should be accepted at once. He was against the American Book company and he didn't care who knew it. The vote to adopt the report was seven for and six against and as it required ten votes to suspend the rules it was declared lost. The committee then made a similar recom-mendation in regard to histories and this was also turned down; This left the whole subject before the board, and later in the session Sears moved that the bid of the Rand-McNally company on geographies of 75 cents each be accepted. FACTIONS REST ON ARMS. Lunt moved as a substitute that the board meet next Monday night to settle the text book question and this was lost by 6 to 7. Sear's motion was laid on the table by a margin of one vote, and the controversy was left unsettled. Superintendent Banker presented a list of the repairs which he considered necessary on the various school buildings. It was re ferred to the committee on buildings and Treasurer Edwards reported that the balance in the school fund was now reduced to

The resignation of Mrs. Jessie S. Durbin as a teacher was accepted.

The next teachers' examination was dated to begin June 15. A long petition from the "School Board Employes' club," which consists mainly of the janitors, demanded a restoration of the fanitors' salaries that were in vogue before board carried out its ideas of retrenchment. The petitioners contended that they were getting smaller wages than were paid for the same services in other cities and detailed at length the ardu-ous duties and tremendous responsibili-ties that devolved on the public school janitors. The petition was signed by Thomas Falconer, president; J. M. McDowell, secretary, and J. Armstrong, J. Kalino, L. Peterson, J. Cothrow, George Kelley and J. Nobes, Lunt moved that the petition be placed or file. He thought the wages now paid were fair in consideration of the times and the finances of the board.

Van Gilder won the approbation of the tion to the committee on salaries, but he was voted down by 8 to 5, and Lunt's motion prevailed.

WILL BUY TWO FLAGS. The committee on supplies was authorized to purchase flags for the Ambler and Forest schools at a cost of not more than $8 each.

ited This City. L. C. Irvine, San Antonio, Tex., who visited this city recently in the interest of the In- New City Council Holds Its First Meeting terstate Drill association of his town, has written a letter to a home paper, describing his trip and the reception accorded him. He makes the following reference to Omaha;

At Omaha I found the Thurston Rifles in daily practice for the drill in order to be ready in ease the Texas cup, now held by them, shall be challenged. Captain Foye was as grim as a veteran in maintaining his purpose to rewin the cup, but expressed surprise that a challenge had not been made. Steps were at once taken by the Drill association to cover this oversight, and unless some misfortune overtakes the Thurstons they will be with us fifty strong.

Much depends upon the railway rates in all these cases, because the companies have all these cases, because the companies have always had a favorable rate to Texas drills solute mutual interdependence of Texas and the west.

Considering these facts, it behooves us to begin in time our work for representation at this exposition next year. The Omaha people as one man appreclate Texas ports and look upon their development as their salvation. They are going to lend every assistance incidentally to our drill by sending the Thurston Ridles down to capture San Antonio first and then with that as a base of operations conquer the great republic for their exposition.

They are selecting a strong delegation to attend the Housion deep water convention, and Texas will find in these men stronger enthusiasm than can be found even in our deep water cranks of Texas.

all these cases, because the companies have always had a favorable rate to Texas drills, and if a low rate is not secured now they are likely to consider that our event is not as important as were those wherein very low rates were given.

Every entry secured so far has contained the condition that as low rates must be secured as were given before. So it will be seen that our local railways will be able to make our drill the largest interstate event for many years by securing favorable company rates. The importance of the event determines the volume of local traffic they will enjoy, and hence they are as deeply interested as we are in bringing these crack outside companies.

You would be astonished at the revival of business in Omaha due to the Transmississippi Exposition. I have been impressed with the importance of our attitude in this matter. Omaha newspapers have been the first, most persistent and powerful advocates of the north and south trunk line development, of the value of gulf ports to the grain fields of the west and of the absolute mutual interdependence of Texas and the west.

Considering these facts, it behooves us to local rained as provided as permanent business, but under the local retailers of the council was held in committee room A yesterday afternoon and it proved to be the most business-like session of the kind that has been held in the last twelve months. All the members of the council were present but Mercer, and a number of semi-important matters were considered. Councilman Bechel presided, and each chairman of a committee was given an opportunity to present such matters as he had in hand.

A large delegation from the local retailers' association, headed by George Munro, entered a protest against Bingham's peddlers ordinance, which was introduced at the previous metallic previous matters as he had in hand.

They asserted that this communication failed to please the board. would be satisfactory to the peddlers who had a permanent business, but under the proposed ordinance outsiders could come in and take out a license for the summer months and thus get the cream of the business, while the people who lived in Omaha were compelled to pay for a license during the full year. The matter was discussed at some length and the council decided to recommend that the ordinance be placed on file and that a resolution should be adopted by which the peddlers who had already aken out a license for six months before he ordinance now in force was passed should e allowed to have a license for the remainng six months for $15.

ASK FOR COURT ROOMS. Judges Magney, Burnam and Ware of the municipal court appeared before the council to ask for quarters in the city hall. They stated that they had qualified and would present a formal request for offices at the regular courcil meeting tonight. They had appeared before the committee in advance n the expectation that the matter might be onsidered and immediate action taken to-light. They argued that it was necessary that they should be fixed out at once, as when they qualified the jurisdiction of the other courts was ended and litigants could

City Attorney Connell stated that there was serious doubt in regard to the constitu-tionality of the new law. He had not had time to investigate the matter thoroughly, but was inclined to believe that the law would not be held good. He suggested that the best way to settle the matter would be for the judges to make a formal requisition on the council for quarters and then bring mandamus proceedings to compel the coun-cil to act and incidentally bring the question of the constitutionality of the law be fore the courts.

Judge Magney intimated that the judges said that when they had qualified and asked the city to provide them with quarters they had done their duty, and they did not propose to invoke the courts to test the consti-tutionality of the law. They were satisfied with the law, and if any one else was not it was for them to take it into the courts. Judge Magney added that they were will-ing to put up with any kind of quarters until the law had been tested. They were willing to use such furniture as the city had willing to use such furniture as the city had on hand, and the only expense that they proposed to put the city to at this time was the cost of a seal and the necessary dockets. at this term.
