Presbyterians Congregate in Indiana for Their Annual Gathering.

SERMON OF THE RETIRING MODERATOR

Makes a Plea for Harmony and Points Out Stumbling Block in the Way of Evangelizing the World.

EAGLE LAKE, Ind., May 20.—Alternate rain and sunshine today greeted the opening of the 19th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America. At the hour appointed for the opening session the auditorium was occupied by a long line of commissioners waiting to be assigned to permanent seats. This feature, by which delegations were seated together, was an innovation. Fifteen minutes later, the assembly was opened with prayer by Dr. Arthur J. Brown, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions. The devotional exercises were conducted by Dr. John L. Winthrow, the retiring moderator, who also preached the sermon. The scriptures were read by Dr. George L. Spangling of Orange, N. J., and the assembly was led in prayer by Rev. Dr. "Father" Bryon Sunderland of Washington.

The platform was occupied by a number of prominent divines, besides those already mentioned, the clerks of assembly, Drs. William H. Roberts and William E. Moore, Dr. Wilson of New York, Dr. Logan of Scranton, Dr. Worrall of Danville and several others. The subject of Dr. Winthrow was "The Chiefest Grace of the Christian is Love." His text I Peter, iv, 8: "And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves."

He first examined the nature of grace, saying that not a few confined the idea of charity to almsgiving. But there was more than alms dealing meant by the Holy Spirit when he said "above all things have fervent charity among yourselves." The substantive term in the original, translated charity in the text, was one that implied a love for and in our language. It was not love as defined in Tucker's philosophy, nor as described in Tennyson's graceful verse. It was not such love that holy scripture would have us put upon us to have among ourselves. The line of definition must be dropped many a fathom lower to touch the bottom sense of this divinity. The distinction which the soundings in the depths of scripture what riches were found reposing in that one little word "Love." For it and it alone of the words of the language, was an emotion to comprehend, complete and crown our conception of God, for "God is love." Eliminate from the gospel the love which concerns the love of God and nothing left would remain human heart more than an empty cupboard would a hungry man. To make the message of God's love unconvincing, was the supreme responsibility of those who knew it more than to do anything else.

Here then was discovered the source and spring of the charity which the text demanded. It was the deepest pulse of the life of the Deity, which must be kept beating in every one who would hope to pass the great crisis which were yet to be met by Christians and the visible church. It was but as we "loved one another" that "God abided in us." The love of God, the tolerance towards others of opposite opinion, practice or principles was made a criterion of Christian character.

THIS GRACE IS ESSENTIAL.

He next considered the greatness of the need of this grace, and the possession alone proved one to be a member of the Lord's body. Eloquence of Christian profession did not prove the possession of Christian principles. The distinction which the soundings in the depths of scripture what riches were found reposing in that one little word "Love." For it and it alone of the words of the language, was an emotion to comprehend, complete and crown our conception of God, for "God is love." Eliminate from the gospel the love which concerns the love of God and nothing left would remain human heart more than an empty cupboard would a hungry man. To make the message of God's love unconvincing, was the supreme responsibility of those who knew it more than to do anything else.

We live in the most restless age our earth has had since Adam came upon it. Everywhere there is disquiet and dissatisfaction with existing civil, economic, social and religious conditions. The world is in a state of unrest and is succeeding in heathen states because nothing better than the discarded beliefs are offered in their stead. And in countries where the cross of Christ is an supremacy over all other insignia of religion there is a withholding of acceptance of Christianity, and a loosening of loyalty in many who did accept with gladness and awaken apprehension for the future. And there is enough evidence to indicate that the intelligent and thoughtful are apprehensive, and that the plainest devices were used to induce the unenlightened to come into the fold. Even the sobriety and solemnities of religion are sacrificed to the unknown, when such catching the careless. But the body does not succeed more than fairly well with such as show a studied shyness of the church. What will attract the thoughtful and the sharper criticism of creeds multiply the followers of Christ? With all the service that learning has rendered to Christianity it has never been able to attract more than empty pews on Sunday, nor greatly multiply names on the sacramental rolls. Still, it is a most common remark, that something is wanting, more than that, we have not the right, the religion they profess to those who are passing it by. Is there any reasonable grounds for doubting that the topic pointed to the supply of the need, and all things have fervent love among yourselves.

EFFECT OF EXAMPLE.

Could any one estimate the salutary effect it would have upon those making no claim to the Christian faith, if from this time there should never be heard one harsh word between those who profess to be brethren in Christ? Divergence of views there must be arising out of constitutional and hereditary causes. But what is needed is such fervent belief among them that conflicts between Christians would be unknown, when such a condition should prevail among Christians of the world would not mock at the text, "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell in unity." For they would no longer see faction pulling the hair of faction as soon as the "Amen" ended the prayer and the song. In that happy and halcyon time when they might hope for the world outside the church, tossed as the world was with troubled thoughts and civil convulsions, would see such conditions of amity and calm within the communion of saints as would make multitudes rush admiration as ever a sailor did a safe harbor. Thus could the world be won, and by no other means. The poor heart of humanity never became so hopeless as not to believe in the power of charity and the felicity of fervent love to lift it to a better life and make it happy there. And this it expects first and most from those who claim to be His, who said: "I command you, that ye love one another."

JACKSON FOR MODERATOR.

There were but two candidates for the moderatorship when the election occurred this afternoon. Dr. Sherman Jackson, the home missionary, and Dr. Henry C. McInture of the San Francisco Theological seminary. Both represented the rank and file of the Pacific coast, but the rank and file of the commissioners rallied to the standard-bearer of home missions. The politicians of the assembly were treated to a great surprise and the election of Dr. Jackson, by a vote of 313 to 238, was characterized by many delegates as "a breaking of the machine" and was claimed as a victory for the more liberal branch of the church. The new moderator, on taking the chair, disclaimed any personal element in his election, but charged it to the desire of the chair to forward the home missionary work, of which he is an exponent.

The meetings of the assembly have been arranged to begin at 9 a. m., with a half hour devotional service and to continue till noon. The afternoon session will last from 2:30 until 5.
