Presbyterian General Assembly Sticks to Old Form.

GUARDS THE POLICY OF THE CHURCH

Discussion of Report of Standing Committee on Foreign Missions—Missionsaries from Field Deliver Addresses.

BAGLE LAKE, Ind., May 26.—The devotional exercises of the Presbyterian general assembly today were led by Dr. Ray Ewing of India. Hon. John Wanamaker occupied the moderator's chair. A report was presented by Dr. J. D. Jones of Greenville, Tex., on the reception and licensure of candidates for the gospel ministry. After reviewing the facts in the case, the committee recommended the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the general assembly express confidence in the policy and constitution as it is now, and does not deem it wise at this time to propose any changes thereto. Resolved, That in view of the extreme importance of the policy and constitution of our church, this general assembly affirm as applicable to all theological students the declaration made by the general assembly of 1896 concerning students who received aid for their education from the presbyteries inspect their education during the course of their theological studies and teachers as they may judge proper and advantageous, and eventually to bring them to the ministry who are furnished for their work.

General Ralph E. Prime reported on the council of the Presbyterian Alliance at Glasgow, Scotland, last June. The next meeting of the alliance is to be held in Washington, D. C., in September, in New York Avenue church, near the city hall. The morning was the discussion of foreign missions. The report of the standing committee on foreign work was presented by J. Wilbur Chapman, Philadelphia. The committee recommended the adoption of resolutions directing that two collections for foreign missions be taken each year, one to be in April, and deprecating gifts to foreigners soliciting in America. Pastors were urged to counsel and exhort their congregations to contribute to their churches. Emphasis was also laid upon the propriety of allowing all gifts for missions to go through the board and not through agencies, over which the church has no control.

After the reading of the report the assembly was addressed by Frank F. Ellinwood, major secretary of the board. Other addresses were made by Missionaries Ewing and Alexander, from India; Boomer, Chiles, Corbett and Pritch, from China; Bealston, from Persia; Taylor, from Laos, and Moore, from Corea. Mr. Easestlan was particularly emphatic in denunciation of unauthorized solicitors for foreign missionary enterprises, not connected with the church, saying that many do not go back to their native countries and most of those who do are failures. A recommendation that a whole day be devoted to the cause of foreign missions was defeated.

Much confusion was caused by a recommendation that two collections for foreign missions be taken in the churches each year and the amount be reduced to one. The other recommendations were adopted and the assembly adjourned, pending a resolution providing for the publication of names of churches.

PUBLICATION WORK. The afternoon session was devoted to the work of the Board of Publication and Sabbath Schools, whose report in abstract was as follows:

The work of the board had been diminished on account of the hard times less than last year. The total number of books published during the year was 12,511. The expenditures amounted to $12,320. Operations had been carried on in twenty-two states and territories and schools organized or re-organized to the number of 185-96. The number of teachers and scholars was 50,503. The publication of business books of the board turned over $17,570 to the missionary branch, which had a present balance in hand of $23,316.

The business department reported net profits of $2,200. The missionary department as above stated. This amount was a decrease of $4,771 from last year. During the year twenty-three new publications had been issued and sixty-four volumes and 263 tracts re-issued. The board has published eleven lesson helps and four illustrated papers. Free libraries of 25 volumes, containing 14,657 volumes, had been distributed. The Witherspoon building in Philadelphia would be completed in the near future. The board expressed the hope that the next assembly would meet in it. This structure is being built for the accommodation of the boards located in Philadelphia.

The work of the board in the school branch was directed to the founding and improvement of such schools. It also distributed tracts and periodicals. The extent of 6,542,962 pages. Nearly 25,000 volumes were also given away. The agents of the board traveled in 611 cities. The business department reported sales of books, tracts and periodicals had amounted to $12,320. Nearly $1,000,000 of the Hymnal had been sold. The board's present capital is $101,622. The amount received from the denominational periodical is $113,112. The amount charged to the cost of the Witherspoon building was $280,000.

WORK REVIEWED. The standing committee on this subject reported through its representative, James Yerance of New York, reviewing the work of the year. Recommendations were made calling for contributions of $200,000 during the next year for the use of the Sunday school branch of the board, urging churches to adopt the new hymnal, which is now in over 400 churches and whose sales aggregate 100,000 copies. Pending the adoption of the recommendation, the assembly was addressed by Dr. Elijah R. Craven, secretary of the board.

The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to the report of the special committee on temporalities of the church, which was read by Rev. John Fox of Brooklyn. The report recommended that the church property be committed to the boards of session and deacons of each organization as far as the same was consistent with the laws of the several states. An amendment was adopted recommending the various synods of the church to prepare a model of charters for churches and to have them printed in the form of a book. The report was adopted.

An address on "The Present Needs of Our Country" was delivered by Rev. J. D. Jones of Greenville, Tex., in the evening. The interest of foreign missions was held in the morning by Dr. Dorsett on the work in China, Dr. Ewing in India, Rev. Dr. Easestlan of Persia and Rev. Dr. Hoskins of Syria.

CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIANS.

Assembly Deplores the Holding of Church Bazaars.

CHICAGO, May 26.—Committee reports were heard today's session of the general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. A greeting was read from the Presbyterian general assembly in session at Winona, Ind.

Rev. W. H. Black of Marshall, Mo., was appointed to bear fraternal greeting to the next meeting of the western section of the Presbyterian alliance, which convenes at Reading, Pa., in October. The committee also brought about concerning a motion recommending the co-operation of the Cumberland branch of the board in the Presbyterian faith, supported the recommendation. It was opposed by Rev. A. M. McBride and Rev. H. J. Jones of Greenville, Tex., on the ground that enough benefits would not result to guarantee the additional expense in sending delegates.

It was agreed to appoint a new committee to be called the committee on pastors and supply, which will have full control of the supplying of pulpits. No minister is to take charge without the consent of the new committee.

members that members be requested to devote a tenth part of their income to the support of the church.

REFORMED PRESBYTERIANS MEET.

Sixty-Eighth Session of Synod Opens at Beaver Falls, Pa. BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 26.—The sixty-eighth session of the Reformed Presbyterian church in North America began this morning in the First Reformed Presbyterian church. In addition to delegates from all the states in the union there are a number from Canada, Syria and the Maritime Provinces. Previous to the convening of the synod the Pittsburgh presbytery of the Reformed Presbyterian church held a brief session. Rev. D. S. Wilson, D. D., of the Reformed Presbyterian Theological seminary, Allegheny, presented charges of heresy against Rev. David McAllister, D. D., of Pittsburg, on account of articles published in the Christian Statesman, an organ of the church of which Rev. McAllister is editor, which articles, it is alleged in the charges, are contrary to the principles and teachings of the Reformed Presbyterian church. The presbytery fixed the trial for Tuesday, June 15, 1897, at Pittsburg.

The synod convened at 10:30 with prayer by the moderator, Rev. J. C. Smith of Cleveland. Rev. T. P. Robb of Sharon, Ia., was elected moderator. The present clerk, Rev. T. M. Foster and present assistant clerk, Rev. J. A. Black, were re-elected unanimously. The remainder of the morning session was taken up with routine business and devotional exercises.

Christian Missionary Alliance. CHICAGO, May 26.—The annual conference of the Christian Missionary Alliance of the United States was begun today, and will continue three days. Nearly 200 visiting members of the alliance are in attendance. The service was opened with prayer by the moderator, Rev. J. B. Hall, of the alliance during the last year. Among the notables present were: President H. B. Simpson, Rev. Stephen Merrill, Rev. H. C. Gabelin, DeW. Peck and Commodore Taylor, Japan Gulick. The alliance is nonsectarian and interdenominational. It has something to offer to the many unsuccessful attempts which had been made to secure it for the United States.

Denounces the New Theology. CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 26.—After the opening exercises, the assembly today heard the report on Sabbath schools, which was docketed. The report on home missions was read and, pending its disposition, the convention considered the New York Presbyterian. Dr. Smith of Columbia, S. C., delivered a masterly address on "Westminster Standards and Popular Surveys of Theology," in which he was an able setting forth of the absurdity and shallowness of the "new theology," which may be summed up in the question, "What is the chief end of man?" "The chief end of man is to glorify man and develop him forever." His defense of the conservative theology was popular and well received.

Women's Mission Conference. DAYTON, O., May 26.—The second day's session of the tenth biennial convention of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Evangelical Lutheran church of America was an interesting one. The president tonight was Mrs. A. G. Bond of Salina, Kan. The topic for discussion was "Home Missions." The speakers were Mrs. Laura Snyder, Council Bluffs, Ia.; Mrs. G. Burnett, San Francisco; Rev. W. S. Tedrow, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Rev. G. A. Treaster, San Jose, Cal.

United Presbyterians. ROCK ISLAND, Ill., May 26.—The thirtieth annual meeting of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church of North America commenced in this city this evening. The meeting was devoted to devotional exercises, the retiring moderator, Dr. James White of Kansas City preaching his annual sermon. The assembly adjourned after the constituting prayer by the moderator, the calling of the roll and the election of the moderator being deferred until tomorrow.

EXCHANGE COMPLIMENTS. President Lawrence presented Mr. Bayard to the convention. Mr. Bayard expressed his great pleasure that he had been able to exchange with the representative of the people who are entitled to his custody. He added that the Late Ambassador to England Performs a Pleasant Duty.

GIFT OF ENGLAND TO MASSACHUSETTS

Bradford History of Plymouth Colony Presented by Thomas F. Bayard—Address by Senator Hoar.

BOSTON, May 26.—The Bradford manuscript history of the "New Plymouth colony," the document for the possession of which Massachusetts had long been anxious, was formally presented to the commonwealth of Massachusetts by Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, former United States ambassador to England, before a joint convention of the legislature today.

The ceremony of delivering the manuscript took place in the spacious chamber of the house of representatives and was very impressive. Besides the members of both branches of the general assembly many prominent officials of the state and other distinguished citizens were present. After President Lawrence had called the joint convention to order Governor Wolcott, accompanied by the executive council, Mr. Bayard, Senator George F. Hoar and several Massachusetts congressmen, entered the chamber. Formal proceedings were opened by Clerk Coolidge of the senate, who read the decree of the consistorial convention of London, entrusting the manuscript to Ambassador Bayard, to be delivered by him in person to Governor Wolcott of Massachusetts.

The actual presentation was prefaced by an address by Senator Hoar, in which he expressed appreciation of ex-ambassador Bayard's efforts toward establishing upon a broader foundation the feeling of brotherhood between Americans and Britons. The senator gave in detail the story of the Bradford narration and of the many unsuccessful attempts which had been made to secure it for the United States.

MOST PRECIOUS MANUSCRIPT. On the 21st of December, 1885, I was appointed to deliver an address at Plymouth on the occasion of the 275th anniversary of the landing of the pilgrims upon the rocky shore of that city. I read deeply, with renewed enthusiasm and delight, the noble and touching story as told by Governor Bradford. I felt that this precious history of the pilgrims ought to be in no other custody than that of their children. But the case seemed hopeless. I found myself compelled by a serious physical infirmity to take a vacation and to get a rest from public cares and duties, which was impossible while I stayed in the city. I was, however, successful in my attempt to visit the locality on the borders of Lincolnshire and Yorkshire, from which Bradford and Brewster and Robinson, three leaders of the pilgrims came, and where the manuscript of Bradford at that time, in Amsterdam and Delft Haven, where the colonists spent thirteen years, especially to see the manuscript of Bradford at that time, which then, as now it seems to me, the most precious manuscript on earth, unless we could recover one of the four copies as it came in the beginning from the pen of the evangelist.

But the desire to get it back grew and grew during the voyage across the Atlantic. I did not know how such a proposition would be received in England. A few days after I landed I made a call on John Morley, asked him whether he thought the thing could be done. He smiled carefully, and the story, told down from his shelf, the excellent, though brief, life of Bradford in his church and the places in Lincolnshire and Yorkshire, which he had thought it ought to come back to us, and he should be glad to do anything in his power to help.

Mr. Hoar then recounted his own efforts while in England to merely get a sight of the precious manuscript and told how he first viewed it in the library of the lord bishop of London and made the first request for its return to the United States. He referred in complimentary terms to Mr. Bayard's success in recovering the volume after so many others had failed and assured him that it was an achievement for which the country would ever hold him in grateful recollection.

EXCHANGE COMPLIMENTS. President Lawrence presented Mr. Bayard to the convention. Mr. Bayard expressed his great pleasure that he had been able to exchange with the representative of the people who are entitled to his custody. He added that the action of the city of Philadelphia some 100 years ago in returning to England certain documents under the reign of James I had great weight in securing the return to us of this valuable document. In closing Mr. Bayard said to Governor Wolcott: "Your excellency, I have fulfilled the task which was committed to me and now place in your hands the manuscript of Governor Bradford. I submit this book in pursuance of my obligations to the bishop of London and gladly undertake under the decree of the court. May it find a fitting resting place in this commonwealth." Governor Wolcott, after thanking Mr. Bayard for the faithful manner in which he had executed the trust imposed upon him by the decree of the consistorial and episcopal court in London and gladly undertook under the decree of international courtesy which is now completed, spoke of the esteem in which the document is held by the people of Massachusetts, pledging the faith of the commonwealth for all time that the manuscript should be guarded in accordance with the terms of the decree which it was delivered into her possession as one of the chief treasures."

The closing exercises of the eighth grade of the public schools occur at the First Methodist church, Twenty-third and N streets, this evening, fifty-six pupils graduating. The program is as follows: Invocation, Rev. C. C. Smith; class song, eighth grade; oration: "The Black Horse and His Rider," Roy Tow; essay, "Shams," Gertrude Honey; recitation, "Jimmie Brown's Sister's Wedding," Mollie Goldstein; violin solo, "Garden of Eden," Vera Holmes; Mabel Keener, Laura Kerr, Vera Holmes, Nettie Mann, Vera Morton, Minnie Morton, Grace Miller, Leda Mitchell, Florence O'Neill, Mary Powell, Clara Reusch, Alice Rafferty, Katie Roberts, Albertina Suter, Nora Smith, Essie Shank, Kate Tombrink, Hattie Whiteley, Charles Carlson, Corry Bala, John Clark, Edna Gray, John Gomez, Vera Holmes, Will Burns, Fred Connor, Samuel Hammerstrom, Ferdinand Krebs, Hyman Levy, Henry Michalski, Louis Money, Frank Pierce, Chester Reed, Andrew Scott, Roy Tow, Lloyd Winslip, Vernal Hall and Thomas Wright.

Complaint of the Garbage Master.

Complaint has been made to the authorities that Garbage Master Peter Lenagh has been in the habit of emptying the contents of cesspools into the sewers. Not long ago Lenagh opened the head of a sewer in the north part of the city and dumped in a couple of loads of stuff. He says it was the contents of cesspools, but persons living in the vicinity assert that it was night soil. At any rate the sewer is stopped up and it will be necessary to have it flushed by the fire department. Lenagh insists that he is permitted by the ordinance to empty cesspools in sewers. Sanitary Inspector Carroll doubts the truth of the assertion and called upon the city attorney for some information. If Lenagh persists in this violation of the city ordinance he will be arrested and tried the same as any other violator of a city ordinance would be. Complaint is made almost daily that Peter Lenagh does not half do the work he is ordered to do and for which he charges seven or eight prices. This matter of overcharges is to be brought before the council in an attempt to have something done that will relieve the taxpayers and residents from extortion. An ordinance has passed first reading which is intended to reduce an improvement on the ordinance now in force governing the sanitary inspector and the hauling of garbage, etc. Opponents of the ordinance assert that this new affair is no better than the one now in force and that a reduction of charges can be made by resolution, thus saving the cost of printing a long ordinance.

A few weeks ago Schultz offered a resolution which was passed regulating the prices to be charged by the garbage master. This resolution provided for the reduction of charges for cleaning cesspools from 15 cents to 10 cents per cubic foot. Each dead animal weighing over 500 pounds is reduced from 25 cents to 20 cents. Reductions are also made in the charges for removing manure and garbage. The changes in this resolution were indicated in the ordinance which was passed in effect should the ordinance fail to pass, as is now predicted.

Speculating on the Assessment.

Assessor Cross stated yesterday that he expected to finish his field work on Saturday. After that date he can be found at his office. Any persons who desire to look up their assessments will be accommodated by the assessor. It is a difficult matter to tell just at this time what the total valuation will be, but it is not thought that it will fall below the valuation of last year, which was about $1,600,000.

Mayor Cross has reduced the assessment on small holdings of real estate; that is to say, the owners of small homes will not be assessed so high as they were last year. In some instances the personal property valuation has been lowered and in others it has been increased. In regard to the corporations, Assessor Cross said that he did not care to make any statement. He, however, gives the assurance that no reduction over last year is to be made.

Will Take Up Unruly Ralls.

At last the Omaha Street Railway company has ordered the old unruly rails at the east end of the 12 street viaduct taken up. The council has for months been passing resolutions and making threats in an attempt to have these dangerous obstructions removed. It has no purpose. A short time ago Councilman Mott of the Fourth ward was driving past that locality when he noticed a buggy which had been broken by being caught in the uneven surface. At once resolved to prevent any more accidents of the kind and has succeeded in having the company order the work done.

Magic City Gossip.

Tomorrow is the last day of school for this term. Mrs. William Ryan has gone to Milwaukee on a visit. Bernard McGinty, Neola, Ia., is the guest of Henry C. Murphy. A body of the Royal Highlanders is to be organized in this city. Arrangements are about completed for the Memorial day celebration. The Yellow Kid club Friday night. The old settlers will hold a meeting in the council chamber this afternoon. W. G. Melson, Minden, was a business daily the week yesterday afternoon. The shipments of dressed pork have been the largest this week of any week in recent years. Fifty-one saloon licenses have been issued so far and seven applications remain to be acted on. The Q street stub motor line was started yesterday afternoon after an intermission of two months.

A delegation from the Grand Army post here will pay a social visit to Crook post in Omaha tomorrow night. Joe Koutsky will have a preliminary hearing in police court Friday afternoon on the charge of assaulting J. M. Tanner. The dinner served yesterday by the women of the Episcopal church was exceptionally good and was well patronized. Timothy Ryan, an employe of the Cudahy Packing company, was taken seriously ill while at work yesterday and was taken home.

L. Eaton, Edison, an old-time Kansas City shipper, was here yesterday for the first time. He was so well pleased with the

PREPARE FOR DIAMOND JUBILEE.

Local Celebration by Former Subjects. The movement toward a local celebration on June 22 in honor of Queen Victoria's sixtieth anniversary of her accession to the throne of Great Britain has already advanced so far that its success is insured. This was brought out at a well attended meeting of the executive committee representing the Britishers of Omaha and South Omaha, held in the Paxton hotel last evening.

The work of the committee last evening was principally to take an invoice of the expected funds that will be contributed by loyal subjects of the venerable queen. In commemoration of the event some memorial will be established here by the Britishers. What form this memorial will take has not yet been decided upon, but the endowment of a bed in one of the hospitals, or a substantial subscription to some other charitable institution, is not unlikely.

The question of what the memorial will be will be decided at a general meeting of the Britishers at the Paxton hotel on Friday evening. Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs will be represented at the open session. At that time plans for the appropriate celebration of the event will also be perfected.
