THE KEARNEY CYCLE CO.

The Most Popular Wheel House in th One of the most popular business houses in all Omaha is the Kearney Cycle Co., located at 422 South Pifteenth street.

This assertion is brought out by the fact that almost any day of the week the sales-room is comfortably filled with bicycle habitues, classing from the "fiend" to the most prominent man about town.

It is worderful the amount of Nationals this firm have scattered over this city. It is a fact that there are more Nationals, al-most two to one, being ridden in Omaha than any other wheel. Patrolman Barnes rides : National and it is said the scorchers fear him as they fear nothing else. Barnes always catches the scorcher. The National he rides has all to do with it, although Mr. Barnes is a pretty swift pedaler himself.

Floyd McCall, Ralph Brown, L. F. Gernhardt and George W. Barnes will represent the National on the race tracks this season and Mr. McCall and Will Pixley will do the tandem act for the National.

Among professional and other well to do business men the Victor remains a prime favorite. It is certainly one of the greatest wheels of the century. The Victor people add a remarkable feature to their bicycle. which no other house has yet "coppered," that they issue to each purchaser a $5,000 insurance policy, which is payable to the nolder upon satisfactory proof of any acci-lent, by which the rider is injured, which can be laid to any defect in the wheel. Patrolman Dan Baldwin rides a truss frame Fowler, which is also one of the Kearney Cycle Co.'s most popular wheels. The Fowler will be represented on the tracks by George Meirstein and H. E. Fredricksen, both racing men of note.

The firm also handles the Orient and in ended to sell the "Kearneys" this year out it has so far taxed the capacity of the factory to supply Denver alone, to say nothing of several hundred that are wanted here. Later in the season, however, they expect to have quite a number of them.

The Kearney Cycle Co. is proprietored by George C. Sellner, a very popular young business man of this city, and F. E. Vanlenberg, known the country over as "Happy Van," and it is to this spirit of good humor possessed by Van that their immense popu-larity is due. Mr. Vandenberg is always at the head of affairs and is ably assisted by Floyd McCall and Theo Cline. They carry the largest stock of bicycle sundries in this city, being an exclusive bicycle and bicycle sundry house. All repairs for any wheel bought here can be had right on the premi-ses, thus avoiding the delay and expense of sending to the factory.

Their repair shop is also on a large scale This department is in charge of Superintend-ent W. H. Stewart, who has at least five men under him all the time. Wheels bought here are repaired. If repairing is necessary, free of charge for one year. In fact, the firm has the reputation of being the most liberal guarantee house in the country, as well as the most accommodating.

The livery or rental feature of their busi has reached such proportions that i has had to be made an entirely separate department from the rest of the business. All the theatrical people and others stopping at the hotels swear by the Kearney Cycle

Co.'s livery. Strangers in New York

The victim was Mrs. Ida Smith, whose home dead. is at Moorehead, Neb. Mrs. Smith arrived at the hospital on April 20. She was placed under treatment for a brain disease, Dr. W. O. Henry being the attending physician. She showed marked signs of improvement, stood with bared heads while the echo of when, upon the night in question, she cluded the guns sounded more and more faintly when, upon the night in question, she cluded the vigilance of the attending nurse, and wandering along the corridor upon which her room opened, went out on one of the porches on the third floor of the north wing of the building. Upon looking over the railing, the woman grew suddenly dizzy and fell the distance of the three floors to the ground. She was picked up by the hospital attendants and taken to her room, where it was discovered that she was internally injured. Mrs. Smith died on the night of May 6. The remains were taken in charge by a local undertaker and sent to Moorchead for interment. Every year since a day was set aside in which to pay tribute to the memory of the nation's dead the surviving veterans have participated in this sad, but patriotic duty, and as year by year their ranks are thinned to multiply the graves on the grassy hillsides, the ceremony brings to them a deeper meaning. Each Memorial day they find additional graves to adorn, and they strew who helped to gather and arrange biossoms the year before. that death has claimed, inverst the occasion The decoration of the graves yesterday was largely in charge of the various Women's Relief corps of the city. The city was divided into three districts, each of which was in charge of one corps. The corps attached to Crook post of the Grand Army of the Restreet. That between Cuming and Leaven-worth streets was in charge of Grant corps and that south of Leavenworth of Custer corps. The committee of each corps gathered the flowers in its district and took them to the cemeteries yesterday. The flowers were secured Friday and arranged ready vesterday except to lay them on the grave In spite of the backward season which seemed to indicate a limited supply of flowers the floral contributions were unusually lavish. The bulk of them were collected by the pupils and teachers of the various public schools, but a number of individuals als made liberal contributions. The women were fairly overwhelmed with flowers and foliage of every conclevable description, from the choicest of hot house roses and ferns to the more modest blorsome which came from private gardens. Many of the flowers had been tended for months solely for the occasion, and when they were all brought to-maging a Jewel Box. Eugene E. Brando, manager of the Na tional Lead company, 1415 Dodge street, had an entertaining session with a burglar, from his point of view, at an early hour yesterday morning. The crook is far less pleased over the result of the affair.

At 4 o'clock Mr. Brando was aroused from his slumbers by a noise. He opened his eyes and turned toward the dresser in the room. He saw a man standing upright before the piece of furniture. The stranger was apparently looking at the reflection of the had in the mirror before him. Conse-

In a few minutes, however, the burglar bent over the dresser again and appeared to be trying to open a jewel case. Then M: Brando acted. He carefully drew a revolver from beneath his pillow and took a long and steady aim at the intruder. He fired and the effect was instantaneous. The burglar threw up both hands, let out a yell, jumped a foot and then sprinted out of bedroom into the adjoining conserva-

sued the thief. The stranger clambered out of an open window. Brando reached the window just in time to see the man skirt the corner of the house. He took another shot at him, but the man kept on in his

Brando is certain that his first shot struck the man. The bullet did not lodge in the dresser, the mirror or the wall of the room and it is therefore presumed that it entered the man's body. The light of the early dawn was sufficient to allow a good aim Brando says also that the man ran as if he had been hurt. Detectives examined the premises yesterday, but failed to find any ing, but up to noon had not succeeded in locating the burglar. Brando was not able to give a very good description of him. He was of average height and average build, and was dressed in dark clothing and a slouch hat. The darkness was too great to allow the man.

The burglar succeeded in getting away with less than $1. He found this in a pocket of Brando's c'othing. He was apparently intending to carry off some clothes, however, as both men's and women's wear were found bundled together near the window of the conservatory through which the burglar escaped. He had entered through this window. He forced it and was compelled to push aside a ewing machine that stood before it in order to clamber in.

WORKED BY A CLEVER SWINDLER

Unnethorized Agent Takes Subscriptions for an Eastern Journal. Recent discoveries have brought out the fact that a clever swindler cleaned up almost $200 in this city in the ten days between April 20 and May 1. He made this raise by taking fraudulent orders for the Ladies' Home Journal, a similar "graft" to the one worked a couple of years ago by a party consisting of a man and two women, who proessed to be solicitors for the same paper The swindler boarded at the house of Mrs. Tucker 102 North Eighteenth street. He was one-legged and walked on crutches. The physical infirmity assisted him considerably securing subscribers for the journal. He succeeded in getting a list of about 200. majority of the subscribers paid him $1 each, and the remainder, 50 cents. When he departed, the stranger left an unpaid board bill. Thousands of Trousers at $4, $5 and $6 at Nicoll's, the Tallor, this week. Worth just about double, but they're moving sale prices

BEAR THIS IN MIND.

We have no extravagant rent to pay. We furnish no music on Saturdays. We have no "palma" for our customers to set under while they drink soda water. Neither do we give away roses or perfumes to entice people to our store. But there is one thing people do do-save you money on your prescriptions. We can do this because we don't pay a commission or office rent to any Doe to plug for us. This is a gentle reminder to the big middle in the block stores and the korner stores that we are still doing business at the same old corner—listh and Chicago.

great preparations have been made through-out Great Britain and elsewhere for the proper celebration of such a notable reign. The queen has expressed a desire, however, that all funds raised be expended for char-itable purposes, and so a number of Omaha people of British birth have gotten together and formed an association here to raise funds to permanently benefit the charities of Omaha and South Omaha. Inasmuch as the object is a most worthy one and is not con-fined to any class or nationality, they are
