POLICE ARE ALL AT SEA NOW

Two Days Spent in Fruitless Search for Tiedeman's Murderers.

STILL PURSUING PARTIES OF FLEEING MEN

No Evidence that the Suspects Under Arrest Had a Hand in Killing of Tiedeman and Wounding of Glover.

Will the police, with the comparatively scanty evidence they have now in their possession, be able to forge a chain of circumstances sufficiently positive to apprehend the burglars who killed Patrol Conductor Tiedeman and shot Police Officer Glover Wednesday morning and sufficiently strong to drive home their guilt, if apprehended?

The question is now forty-eight hours old and the result of the work of the authorities in that length of time has been decidedly unsatisfactory. The police are at sea. The unsatisfactory condition of the case is shown by the fact that there are now eight suspects under arrest and several more are being pursued. There were three of the

Two theories were advanced Wednesday and are still being held. One is that the murderers are the three men who are apparently fleeing northward. This theory is held by Chief of Police Sigwart and by Captain Haze, but is not considered of much worth by the men who have been actively working on the case. The evidence is decidedly unsatisfactory. The other theory is that the crime was committed by three of five men, one of whom is at large and is being pursued. The other four are under arrest. They are August Kosiner, Joseph Kesiner, Louis Kestner and Ralph Messer-schmidt. Robert Bruton, who has been taken into custody a number of times as a criminal, is also under arrest as a suspect, but there is nothing against him so far. No evidence exists against Messerschmidt either but he was arrested on Officer Tiedeman's ante-mortem statement.

EVIDENCE AGAINST THE KESTNERS. The evidence against the Kestners, who are in jail, is purely circumstantial. A portion of it is found in the fact that the gunnysacks found in the saloon are of the same kind that were found in the Kestner stable when the latter was searched yesterday. Three or four pieces of rope and cord found on the saloon sacks are similar to coils of rope and cord dug up in the same stable. The finding of the wet coats, cap and sweater of the Kest ners on the dry walls of the barn is another point of evidence. The police figure that these clothes were on the backs of the Kestners when the latter were engaged in the burglary, if they were so engaged. The prisoners say they got wet when they cared for their horses early Wednesday morning and when it was still raining. Then there are the wagon wheels along Emmett street from the direction of the scene of the tragedy and leading over the sidewalk into the stable. These wheel marks are like those discovered in the rear of the saloon after the occurrence of the crime.

The Kestners were asked about the absence of their shotgun. One said they disposed of it two years ago. Another said it had not been on the premises for a year. All three stated that no weapons had been kept in the house for a year. The police allege that they can disprove these statements and can show that revolvers and guns were seen in the house in the last three months. Detective who have searched the place for stolen prop-erty maintain that they always found a gur on the wall. The Kestners were put in the sweat box yesterday. They divulged nothing of a suspicious nature. They were very non-committal, particularly the father. Joseph He had lived in the northwestern part o Omaha for seventeen years, but stated that he did not know the names of the streets and additions near his residence. The old man stated that while the police were look-ing for them he and his son were in their buggy in the country, just south of Walnut Hill. The son easts they went to the state

THEORY OF THE POLICE. The evidence heretofore detailed is all that the police have implicating the Kestners As mentioned before, however, Chief of Po lice Sigwart and Cap'ain Haze have faith it the theory that the murderers are the mar who were seen going northward in the morning. This theory is in more unsatisfactory shape than the other.

The pursuers came upon a camping outfit twelve miles northwest of Tekamah. It was in charge of three men, who were found cooking breakfast. They were at once arrested. One of the men is known in this city as "Three-fingered Jack." The other two men were unknown. The men were taken to Tekamah, where they succeeded in proving their innocence. They were then of Police Sigwart said yesterday that the officers had not struck the right outfit. This appears to be a fact, for inoutfit. This appears to be a fact, for in-formation from Tekamah is to the effect that the pursuing officers have set out to hunt for another rig that is supposed to have passed through from Omaha. There is trouble in locating the party, as reports of the number composing it differ. Some people say it consisted of three men. Others say there are two men, and still others affirm that there is a woman in the party. OFF THE SCENT AGAIN.

was received early yesterday afternoon from the searching party to the north that all trace of the outfit they were after has been lost. The party is at present at Craig and appears to be making that town its headquarters. A band of about twenty men have been gotten together and divided into several squads, and are searching the surrounding country for the suspected men.

The police in the city are searching the country west of the Kestner premises in the effort to find some shotguns belonging to the Kestners. The authorities believe that the trip of the two Kestners from home Wednesday foremon was for the purpose of concealing the weapons somewhere. In another search of the premises Wednesday night half of a shotgun and a half of a rifle was found in the house.

Information has been received by the police that four men armed with shotguns tried to hold up a saloon keeper of Benson on last Tuesday. Detectives Dempsey and Shoop have been sent to Benson to investigate the Wednesday the police gave it out that the fleeing men were Burt Cramer and Charles Davis. If these are the parties the pursuers ultimately capture, there is no doubt but that they have been following a false but that they have been following a false clew. This is the conclusion that must be reached as a result of an investigation made yesterday by Detectives Dempsey and Shoop. These detectives learned yesterday that Burt Cramer and Charles Davis did leave the city at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. They rode in a canvas-topped wagon, drawn by a team. The other Cramer, David, the father, was not in the party, because he left the day before for Logan, Ia. If there was a third man seen in the wagon north of Florence it was some one the two north of Florence it was some one the two boys picked up. The Cramers live at 3230 Emmett street, and bear a good reputation. Cramer, the elder, has lived in this city for

Mrs. Cramer was seen yesterday. said that Charles Davis resided near Bosford, postoffice, near Decatur, in Burt county. He had come to her house by team for a visit. Wednesday morning he decided to return home, and the Cramer boy went with him. The most suspicious thing about the fleeing party, in the opinion of the police, was the speed they kept up during the day. Mrs. Cramer explains this. The Davis' farm is about sixty miles from this city. When Davis left he said that he intended to be nome by 9 o'clock Wednesday night. I rder to cover the distance in that time h had to drive rapidly.

Yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock Chief Sigwart received a telephone message from Sheriff Claus Minge at Blair, stating that he had at length located the right trail of the escaping burglars. Clews were located on the road midway between Blair and Tekamah which lended to show that the three men in the wagon for whom the police have been in hot pursuit had taken a westerly route. Chief Sigwart directed Detectives Sullivan and Hulson to Join Minke at Blair and to overtake the men if possible. They left at 6:30 last night.

Secure Permits. Building Inspector Butler has decided to maintain a, more rigid enforcement of the building ordinance than has heretofore been who contemplate small buildings and im provements to go ahead with the work with out filing a plan with the inspector of build iogs, as required by law. In some cases they come in and secure a permit after the work is nearly done, and too late to correct any details in which it does not comply with the ordinance, and in others they neglect to apply for any permit at all. It has been impossible for the building inspector to personally look up all these cases, and Inspector Butler now proposes to invoke the aid of the police department to put a stop to the practice. Chief of Police Sigwart has agreed to instruct the patrolmen to look out for violations of the building ordinance on their beats, and with their assistance it will become nearly impossible for anyone to erect a building until the ordinance has been com-

lied with Terrible Accident—It is a terrible accident to be burned or scalded; but the pain and agony and the frightful disfigurements can be quickly overcome without leaving a scar by using De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve

Requests that He Be Taken There for Treatment.

Ex-Councilman Robert D. Duncan is still confined in the jail of this county on the charge of insanity. He was examined by the insanity commission Wednesday afternoon and declared to be insane. He saked the commission to have him sent to Lincoln, where he could receive proper medical treatment and better quarters. In accordance with this request the commission will order him re-moved to the State asylum at Lincoln and will make room for him there, if necessary, by bringing back to this county some incurable who is in better physical condition than Duncan to bear the accommodations afforded by the county hospital. Duncan is not at all violent and is perfectly rational on most

"False in one, false in all," is an ancient legal maxim. Remember it to the disad-vantage of any trademan who tries to subtitute one article for another.

Disclaims Any Relationship. Ralph Messerschmidt, the lad who is under arrest because of the dying statement of officer Tiedeman that he thought Messer Officer Tiedeman that he thought Messer-schmidt was the one who shot him, is not the son of J. H. Messersmith of this city. This statement is made because of the fact that the Messersmith family has been caused much concern during the past two days by being confused with the Messerschmidt family. The fact that Halph Messer-schmidt's name has always been written "Messersmith" in police circles is responsible for the confusion.

Testing Validity of Bonds. Judge Munger is now listening to an argument on the validity of an issue of bonds voted by the township of Grattan in Holt county. The township includes the city of O'Neill. In the fall of 1890 the township voted $35,000 in bonds in aid of the Nebraska and Western railroad. The validity of the bonds is now questioned by some of the taxpayers on the ground that the issue excessed the 10 per cent limit provided by exceeded the 10 per cent limit provided by the constitution of the state,
