MOTHER OF QUEEN VICTORIA Debt of Gratitude Great Britain Owe to a Devoted Duchess. EDUCATION OF THE FUTURE RULER A Young, Pleasure-Loving and Handsome Widow Consecrated Her Life to the Work—A Mother's Recompense.

Britain, comparatively little was known of her nature and capabilities, owing to the seclusion in which her girlhood was passed, and the leading statesmen of the country feared that this inexperienced young woman might prove to be as frivolous in disposition and as undecided in character as most persons of her age.

The proper education of her child, the duchess shut herself up in the old palace at Kensington, where, for seventeen years, she and the youthful princess passed a life of almost complete seclusion. The household was regulated in a severely simple, but judicious manner. The family breakfasted at 8 o'clock, the Princess Victoria, or Brina, as she was then called, having her dress and health, in knowledge and in the principles of virtue and common Christianity. In Victoria's 15th year George IV. died, and was succeeded by William IV., and then she became the heiress presumptive to the throne. Even under those circumstances her careful mother did not permit Victoria to be present at the coronation, ostensibly because her health necessitated a trip to the on June 20, 1837, when the message was brought to Kensington palace that her daughter and pupil was queen of England, that daughter was ready and prepared for the occasion, and she was with her mother thus laid upon her young shoulders. A MOTHER'S RECOMPENSE The duchess of Kent gave up everything in order to qualify her daughter for her exalted position, and she was repaid in that which a mother most prizes—filial reverence and affection. A gratifying proof of this filial love was the fact that the queen paid all her father's debts out of her first year's income, and from her second she discharged all the financial obligations which the duchess of Kent had incurred in raising the young princess. The duchess of Kent had a heavy call upon her as the mother of the future sovereign. The queen's affection for her mother was always intense. In 1840, when an attempt was made upon her life, the queen altered the course of her drive, and went at once to inform her mother that she was unharmed, before the duchess could be needlessly alarmed by the rumor of the shooting.

RELIGIOUS. The Japanese Methodists, with some help from their countrymen in Hawaii, raised recently $1,000 for a new church. The Rev. Samuel Vincent of Plymouth, Boston, who was soon to be made president of the English Baptist union, lived in Milwaukee from 1854 to 1861. The Bishop of Meath, Ireland, who has just been chosen archbishop of Dublin, is a member of the west with evangelical tendencies. He is a total abstainer from liquor and tobacco. The Bishop of Connecticut, who has occupied that office for nearly half a century, is the senior prelate of the Episcopal church in this country and has for some time been presiding bishop. Eighty thousand children representing the Sunday schools in Brooklyn, marched in line on May 28 in commemoration of the sixtieth anniversary of the Brooklyn Sunday School union. Dr. John Lewis Smith is the patriarch of Methodism in Indiana, and he wrote, in his 82d year, a book of 450 pages, containing anecdotes of pioneer preachers and their charges in the west, together with a treatise on Indiana Methodism. Mrs. Newman, wife of Bishop Newman of the Methodist Episcopal church, supported a little woman in Norway last year, which ended March 13, who made 1,682 visits and 510 among the sick. A number of conversions were among the results. The Rev. Chancey B. Brewster, who will probably be selected as bishop coadjutor of Connecticut in June, is a direct descendant of Elder Brewster of the Plymouth colony. He is a native of Connecticut and a graduate of Yale, and has been rector of Grace church, Brooklyn, since 1888. President Harper of the University of Chicago and Prof. Rush Reeves of the Newton Theological Seminary, F. K. Sanders of Yale, D. A. McClenahan of the United Presbyterian Seminary of Allegheny, Penn., and W. H. Marple, will give courses of lectures on the Bible at Chautauqua this summer. Congregationalists in California have increased in the last twenty-five years from 2,486 to 14,881. In the Sunday schools the membership has increased from 5,693 to 16,972; benevolences to the churches from $6,295 to $43,529. During that period Rev. Dr. J. K. McLean has been pastor of the First Congregational church of Oakland and the anniversary was fittingly celebrated by special services April 25. In these twenty-five years 2,500 persons have united with his church. Mrs. Lewis, who discovered valuable palimpsest manuscripts of the Gospels in a Syrian convent on Mount Sinai some time ago, has just completed a fourth exploration of the convent in company with her sister, Mrs. Gibson, and has found some more valuable manuscripts. She also examined the libraries of the twelfth century and written in the dialect that was probably spoken by Christ. The text of these lectures is now in the hands of the printers and will soon be published. A French ecclesiastic has written to the London Times saying that the next great change in the Roman Catholic church will be the repeal of the law of clerical celibacy. The movement, he thinks, might well start in this country, under the lead of Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ireland, but will take time. The present pope will hardly endorse it, nor can the French ecclesiastic take it up just now. When it does come, however, the writer prophesies a large exodus of Anglican clergymen to join the church of Rome. During the year closing March 1, 1897, the American Sunday School union has received more from living givers than in the year preceding, and there has been an increase of $60,000 from funds inherited by direction of the donors. But $12,400 less has been received from legacies, so that as the net result there has been a reduction in the receipts of the society of $10,343. There have been in the field 127 men under commission. As one result of their labors 1,603 new Sunday schools were organized, with 61,609 teachers and scholars; 387 were reorganized. The large number of 5,523 hopeful conversions has been reported as resulting from the work of the missionary workers. In hot weather the blood becomes sluggish and depression results. If "always tired" try Hill's Anemic Pink. Made only by the Mercor Chemical Co., Omaha. The retail dealer who advertises "We always give just what you ask for," and lives up to his promise, is certain of a good trade.

VICTORIA'S MOTHER AND THE YOUNG QUEEN.
