There were a half dozen different proposiof which were the following:
By Senator Frye, to leave it absolutely to the president to say what shall be done with the treaty and providing against any interference with the provisions of the treaty pending any action he may take.

By Senstor Allison, a proposition very much in the same line as Senator Frye's, but intimating more clearly to the president the opinion of congress that the treaty should By Senator Perkins; a provision giving notice that unless something more is done within a year to continue the treaty in force that it shall be abrogated. By Senator Nelson, to abrogate the treaty absolutely after one year's notice and giving the notice as a proviso in connection with the sugar schedule. Senator Nelson of Minnesota led the fight n favor of the abrogation of the treaty. In support of his proposition Mr. Nelson pre ented many figures showing that the imports from Hawaii to this country were much than the exports to Hawaii and he asserted that the reciprocity was in favor of the Hawaiians. He took the last report of the minister of finance for the year ending December 31, 1896, and said that the business of American vessels with Hawaii was abou one third as much as that done at the port of Duluth in Minnesota. Mr. Nelson declared that the whole treaty was a very one-sided bargain for the United States. Taking the sugar imported from Hawaii in 1896, he said that under the Wilson law the exemptions from duty, by reasons of the treaty, would be $4,533,294; under the house bill $8,163,962, and if the new senate schedule was equivalent to 75 per cent ad valorem, and it was possibly 80 per cent, the ex-emption would be $8,504,023. This, said the Minnesota senator, was a donation to the sugar men. For the fiscal year ending June 1894, the last year of the McKinley law the importations from Hawaii had been $10. 065 317, while the exports to Hawaii from the United States were $3,306,187.

United States were $3,306,187.

Mr. Nelson said that the claim that we owed it to Hawali to continue the reciprocity treaty because of the acquisition of Pearl Harbor was not well founded, as Pearl Harbor had been acquired under the first treaty and an ample price had been paid for the harbor. He said that the United States paid $15,000,000 only for the Louisiana purchase, yet in tariff remissions on sugar alone there has been paid out $31,000,000 for Pearl harbor. He said that the gift of $8,500,000 that would be given to the Sugar trust under the present bill had better be given as a bounty to the sugar producers of the country, which would soon enable this country to produce its own sugar, as Germany and France were doing. Senator Nelson said that an attempt had een made to show that the Sugar trust was trying to have the treaty abrogated. This was contradicted by the fact that the senator from Maine (Frye), the most earnest advocate of the retention of the treaty in the previous caucus, had moved that the differential in favor of refined sugar be made 14 cent, the highest differential advocated by any one.

Senator Frve emphatically resented the inerence of the Minnesota senator and said that the two subjects could in no way be coupled

WILLING TO COME HALF WAY. Senator Frye said that the provision was ample on the Hawaiian question to meet the demands of equity, with an additional provision authorizing the president to enter into negotiations for a modification of the treaty. He stated that President McKinley was prepared to enter upon such a negotiation and added that the Hawaiians were willing to meet him balf way. He made a vigorous defense of the treaty and of the policy of maintaining the closest sort of relations with Hawaii, which had been settled and civilized by Americans. Senator Davis also spoke in defense of the treaty, going into a detailed argument to show that the relations between this country and the Hawatian islands should be main-tained upon the present reciprocal basis. He especially deprecated the effort practically abrogate the treaty in any but the prescribed form of proceeding in such cases. Mr. Davis' went into the relations be-tween this country and Hawaii at some length, and contended especially against an effort to legislate upon the subject in con-nection with the tariff. He held that the president should be empowered to act in the matter and that beyond this no action should be made. In the meantime the existing treaty should be continued in full effect. In discussing the treaty of 1875. Senator Davis said that Pearl harbor was a special consideration given by Hawaii for which we gave no equivalent, and another special consideration was that Hawaii agreed not to dispose of territory or grant any special privilege of reciprocity to any other power. The value those considerations had increased from the date of the treaties. NO FOREIGN FLAG IN HAWAII. This government could not allow any foreign government to acquire Hawaii. I was necessary for the United States to con-trol it. He entered upon the geographical position of the islands and the strategic importance of them to this country.

He said that since the treaty American capital had been going to the islands and that they were destined to become American ould not be doubted. In fact Hawaii allowed Americans to become citizens without losing taeir American citizenship. If we abrogate the treaties absolutely by statute we are guilty of bad faith. American capital to the amount of $50,000,000 had been invested on the faith of the permanency of these treatics. Neither should the United States be obliged to throw away the stipulation that no similar privileges or territor; shall be granted to other countries. If the United States was honorable it would be obliged to give back Pearl harbor and allow Hawaii to transfer all these rights to England or any other nation. The United States would be obliged to give up every policy enunciated by successive president from Tyler to the present time. The treat had thrown the carrying trade into ships of the two nations, the greater part being ships of the United States, and its abrogation would be an injury to this nation

Senators Chandler, Hoar and others also spoke for the maintenance of the treaty. At 12:15 the consideration of the tariff bill Senator Perkins spoke at some length was resumed, the pending amendment being of his proposition, which as presented provided for givsupport that of Senator Jones of Arkansus, to strike riginally out in line 20, page 63, the words 'on all ing the Hawaiians a remission one-third of the duty on their portations. ## DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Hesults Sometimes Follow Its

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was neves intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it. OMAHA HEARD FROM. At the afternoon session the report of the board of trustees of the Tressler orphan home, at Loysville. Pa., submitted by the president, Rev. Dr. W. H. Dunbar of Balti-more, showed that during the past two years sixty children have been admitted, making the present number 149. Owing to low finances the home was compelled to make a temporary loan, and is now in need of immediate financial assistance. President Dunbar stated that there is no provision for taking care of orphan children under 6 years of age and consequently they could not be received. He further said that it was his opinion that a similar institution should be established in the west, as the home was Ex-Mayor Charles A. Schieren of Brooklyn, N. Y., jumped to his feet and said that he was the trustee of three institutions of a similar nature, all of which received infant orphans and he felt that this institution at Loysville should be enlarged so that children under six years of age could be taken care of. To this end he notified the synol that would subscribe any amount designated for the addition of a nursery to the institu-

Judge Sends the Jury Back. BLOOMSBURG, Pa., June 12.-The monwealth against S. L. Wintersteen, which retired at noon yesterday, was still out at noon today, being unable to agree on a verdict. One of the jurymen, named Levi Weaver, was taken sick and a physician asked for, Judge Ermentrout was consulted and after notifying counsel on both sides, Drs. S. J. McKeivy and F. W. Redicker were summoned and sworn. They examined the patient, and agreed that Mr. Weaver was suffering from indigestion, but not to such an extent as would prevent him from continuing on the jury. In spite of the protests from some of the jury, Judge Ermentrout ordered them back to their room with the admonition to agree, if possible.

Large Building in Which Bodies o NEW YORK, June 12-The sanitary committee of the health board has approved the plans of the new mausoleum company for the establishment of a sanitary mausoleum near High bridge to have a capacity of from 10,000 to 12,000 bodies. It is proposed to en-tomb the dead in cement receptacles. The podies are to be exposed for several months to a current of air made chemically pure by passing it over sulphuric acid, the air to be purified afterward by fire. When the body is thoroughly desiccated the receptacle is to be made airtight. The sanitary committee believes the new method is eminently sanitary. The mausoleum is to be 270 feet ong, seventy-five feet deep and three stories rete, four inches thick, without seam or
