For this purpose the lake was enlarged and a large amount of pipe was ordered. The big stantpipe, which is located on the hill west of the horse and mule barn, was put up for the purpose of storing water. Before the pipes had been laid to Syndicate park a contract was entered into between the stock yards people and the American Water Warks com-pany, the latter taking all the material ordered off the stock yards company's hands. In making this contract with the stock yards a contract was also made to supply the city of South On aha with water, the contract with the city being made part of the contract with the yards, and being made through the stock yards company. This contract amply protected the rights of the city, and among other things provided for a hydrait pressure of eighty pounds at the surface.

Along about the first of this year the stock yards company abrogated the existing contract with the water company, and enterod into a new one leaving out the city of South Omaha entirely, the idea being that the city was big enough and old enough to take care of itself, which was not the case when the first contract was made through the stock yards company. In abrogating this contract the city was not even notified, either by the water works officials or the stock yards people, consequently nothing was known of Councilman Barrett thinks that as long as there is an opportunity to enter into a new contract some changes might just as well be made in the rates now charged. Some months ago certain officials procured data in relation to the charges for water here and in other cities of this size. A comparison is made on the following basis: For eight rooms, bath, closet, horse and lawn, a charge of $22.25 per year is made by the Omaha Water company; Amesbury, Mass., has a population of 10,050 and for the serv-ice mentioned above a charge of $30 a year is made; Fargo, N. D., is another city of about the same population, where the tharge is more than it is here being $34 a year; in Corning, N. Y., a gravity system is in use, not a gallon of water being pumped, and yet it casts $36 a year there for the same service which is given here for $22.25; the people of Vincennes. large and the exercises were unusually interesting, consisting principally of songs and recitations, with the pastors and superintendents of the Sunday schools volunteering some words of friendly advice with reference o what the children should do in order to lead Christian lives and grow up to be good men and women. In many instances the interiors of the churches were decorated with ut flowers and poited plants, brought in by the young people. The exercises were en-joyed by the parents and friends of the children, and were declared to be most suc cessful in every respect.
