Delegates Are Chosen Envorable to A. T. Flickinger.

The republican primary conventions were held in the various wards and precincts last evening. As far as could be learned a large *majority of the delegates selected will vote in the convention for state delegates favorable to the nomination of A. T. Flickinger. In the Second ward there were a few Byers delegates chosen and in the Third some Harlan men succeeded. All of the reports from the country precincts that were re-ceived last evening indicated a decided predominance of Flickinger men, making it reasonably certain that Mr. Flickinger will go into the Cedar Rapide convention with a solid Pottawattamie county delegation that show of his nomination. Too Much Whisky. William Kane, an 18-year-old boy, is lying in the city jail in a condition that may yet end in death. The boy was picked up in the park late yesterday afternoon in a stage of intoxication that bordered closely on com-plete collapse. He was taken to the station In the patrol wagon, and after being carried in he suddenly revived and began to fight like a maniac. He seized Officer Anderson with his teeth and had to be choked almost into insensibility before he would relinquish his hold. It required several officers to sub-due him and get him into a cell. A few moments afterward he was scized by a series of terrible covulsions, and the officers feared that he would die before the city physician could reach the building. The worked over him for several hours without succeeding in controlling the rprema. At 8 o'clock it was determined to administs chloroform. The boy rallied again when the attempt was made, and it required several officers to hold him. At 11 o'clock he was lying in the corridor in charge of a special officer and very ill. It was found that the young man drank during the day about two quarts of whisky which he claimed to have bought in Omeha.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Aspinwall were moving yesterday into their new home at 126 Benton treet. Among the household treasures wer a baby boy 18 months old and a box of medi-cines. The medicines were carefully packaway in a cigar box and the lid tacked down. The box was left on the bureau while the furniture was being set in its place, and in course of time the boy discovered it.

With the aid of a pair of scissors he pried off the cover and began to investigate the contents of the first bottle his fingers touched. This happened to contain carbolic acid. No one was in the room at the time, and it went into that universal receptacle of a baby for everything, his mouth. The little fellow was standing upon a swinging rocking chair at the time and some of the burning acid touched his lips before he had an opportunity of drinking it. This caused him to drop the bottle and begin a lament that instantly brought the mother. She lost no time in getting a physician. An examination showed that a small quantity of the deadly acid had came in contact with the little fellow's tongue, but not sufficient to develop any toxic symptoms. It was a very narrow e-cape for the little fellow, and when he realized it he seemed to be very proud of it.

The terrific heat of the sun was show by its effect upon the tails on a number of the sidetracks that were favorably located to receive its full effect. The expansion of the rails was sufficient to lift the ties from their bedding and throw the track a foot out of line. The tracks were lying below the general grade and adjoining banks and buildings prevented the circulation of the air. Overcome by Heat. Nicholas Lasch was found yesterday lying n an unconscious ecudition in a passageway between the Monarch Manufacturing com pany's building and the gas works. He had been overcome by the heat. At the instant he fell he was smoking, and in the fall the stem of the pipe was driven down his throat, severely lacerating the back part of the mouth and the throat. A number of other painful wounds had been inflicted by the fall. He was taken to his home and physicians summoned. His condition las evening was very serious, and his friend, feared he would die.

POPULISTS ARE NOT PLEASED. Nomination of L. R. Bolter for Senator

May Cause a Bolt.
ONAWA, Ia., July 31.—(Special.)—The populists of Monona county are dissatisfied with the result of the fusion senatorial con vention held at Missouri Valley yesterday Dr. H. A. Evans of Monona county, the populist candidate, went into the convention with a strong following, and his friends say that Monona county's delegation, consisting of twenty-six delegates, was arbitrarily cut down to fourteen votes, in direct opposition to justice and precedent, and was done for the sole purpose of giving L. R. Bolter an abs lute cinch on the nomination. The methods employed, while in keeping with the forkings of practical politics, savored entirely too much of machine work to please the populists. Mr. Bolter is now nominated, but in order for him to be elected the populists of the district will have to vote the demo-cratic ticket at the polls. Mr. Bolter is a smooth politician and no doubt will do all in his power to placate the populists, know-ing full well that in order to be elected he must have the support of the populists at the polls. Indications at present are tha Mr. Bolter will not receive a very cordial support from the populists and especially in Monona county. The rank and file of the populist party of the district believe that in view of the unjust division of the offices on the state ticket, the democrats of the Thirty fourth senatorial district should have cor ceded the senatorship to the populists as matter of mere justice. And now that Mr Bolter's nomination was forced through by machine methods and wire pulling, it would not be surprising if there should be a bol at the polls that would end in his overwhelming defeat.

HULL WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE.

Prefers to Take His Chances for Congress to Running for Governor. DES MOINES, July 31 .- (Special Telegram.)-Captain J. A. T. Hull late tonight gave out a final statement with reference to his candidacy for governor, for which there have been many rumors in the last few days. He came home from Washington two days ago and declined to immedi ately announce whether he would be a can didate. He said he had assurances of sup-port from all quarters of the state and be-lieved he could be nominated if he should enter the race. Tonight he announced that he will not be a candidate. "I have conferred with a number of my rlends," he said, "and it was simply of question whether I wanted to give up a place in congress at the opening of a new term. I have friends who have worked hard and carried me through a fight for the congressional nomination and the question was whether it would be fair to withdraw from the position in view of my obligations to them. I decided not to do so. Some news papers have printed a story that I was being forced out of the contest by Mr. Cummins on account of his senatorial aspirations. This is not true, He assured me that he would support me if I should be a candidate and we have had a perfect understanding, and our relations have been nothing but the most Surf Swimming for Women. If a woman is ambitious to swim in the surf, she would better be satisfied to attain that end gradually, says Harper's Bazar. (This, by the way, is taking for granted that she is already a good still water swimmer, for a rough sea is not the place in which to learn conveniently the first principles of the exercise.) It is better, then, for the first two or three days merely to accustom one's self to enduring the merciless pounding of the waves; to make little swimming trials when there is a brief lull in the surf, and to learn to face the breakers fearlessly and plunge into them head-first as they approach. For this is what must be done when one starts to swim out toward the buoy-line starts to swim out toward the buoy-line starts to swim out toward the buoy-line.

The only way to mange it is to stand in the water a little way out, facing the open sea. Watch the approaching "comber" and dive into it resolutely just as the foam begins to curl along its edge, indicating that it is about to break. Once through this wave you will barely have time to shake the water out of your ever and take breath before you will barely have time to shake the water out of your eyes and take breath before a second one is upon you. This must be met in the same way, and perhaps a third one. Two or three are usually all you will have to stand, because by the time these have broken over your head your strokes will have carried you beyond the point where the waves break. After that you will rise on the swell and ride the waves like a feather; but it is necessary to remember to swim with the head and shoulders as high as possible, to avoid swallowing water when the crease of the incoming waves meet you. sible, to avoid evaluouing water when the crests of the incoming waves meet you. This is contrary, to the best principles of still water swimming, and those who have been accustomed to swimming low, with just the nostrils above the water, will perhaps the product of the same of of the sa haps find it easier, because one is borne along by the rush of the sea; but when well inshore one is likely to be submerged once or twice by a breaking "comber."

THE OWNER OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF TH City Engineer Beal has received from C G. Kemper, acting supervising architect of the Treasury department, a request for some information in regard to the site of the proposed federal building. The architect desires to know the established or desired levels from the top of the curb stone at Twenty-fourth and M streets, on M street at the corner of the alley and on Twentyfourth street at the northeast corner of the property. The question is also asked as to whether the established grades between such points are continuous. Further, the officials desire to know if it will be necessary to erect a wooden fence along the north lin of the property from Twenty-fourth stree back to the alley. Inquiry is made as to the location of gas mains and what is the esti-mated rate of fall per toot for sidewalks from the building line to the curb.

Grading the Boulevard. The Board of County Commissioners of Sarpy county, in company with the county engineer, inspected the extension of the Thirteenth street boulevard Friday and made ar rangements for the work agreed upon by Sarpy county to commence this week. The commissioners went over the road from the ounty line to Fort Crook, and decided upon he amount of work necessary to be done. Profiles have been made and arrangements for the grading will be completed at a meettog of the commissioners to be held at Pa-pillon Monday. The new road will be sixty-six feet wide, and a 6 per cent grade sixty-six feet wide, and a 5 per cent grade will be established. The grades on the boulevard are 5 per cent, but the commissioners decided that a 6 per cent grade was all that was necessary now.

McCarty Said to Be Arrested. Vic McCarty has been located again. This time he has been found out on the Pacific coast and placed in fall pending some action by the officials of Sarpy county. Sheriff Sam Statzler of Sarpy county received a letter a few days ago from police officials on the coast saying that they had the much wanted man in limbo, and asked for instructions The sheriff did not like to take such long trip unless he was sure the man in custody was McCarty, and he has written for a photograph of the prisoner. A reply to this letter is expected by Monday, and if the man in jail is McCarty arrangements will be made by the county commissioners to have him brought back at once.

Yesterday Inspector Swift of the Postoffice department concluded his investigation of point. The first day Mr. Swift was here he was shown over the district of one letter carrier, which contained 700 houses. Yesterday he was taken into another carrier's ter ritory, in which 745 houses are located. Following this came an inspection of a large territory in which there is no free delivery system. The inspector was impressed with the necessity for more carriers and it is understood he will make that recommenda tion to the department officials at Washing-

As a matter of fact, says a medical writer, not one woman in a hundred breathes normally. The respiration of the average woman varies with every change of mental state or physical condition, and it is a rare thing for a woman to use her lungs to the best possible advantage without a previous knowledge of physiology and an appreciation of the merits of physical culture. De-sirable as is a thorough exercise in breathing, it is not safe to experiment in the matter. A very little instruction on the subject will enable any woman to comprehend the precise art of filling and emptying the lungs on scientific principles. After this has been acquired the chief thing is to breathe in as much sunshine as possible and to be-lieve in the efficacy of oxygen as a remedy for nearly all the ills that are fashionable. The following are some excellent rules for improving the respiration and bringing it up to a normal condition: Stand at an open window or recline on a couch, with the waist and chest unconfined; hold the chest walls high and inhale in slow, long breaths, exhale as slowly, three times only at first. Gradually the number of times may be increased and the time lengthened for the breathing exercises. Fifteen minutes, twice a day at least, should be devoted to this exercise to accomplish the desired result. Mrs. Emma Eames-Storey, whose full and generous outlines are a beautiful example of the results of vocal and breathing gym-nastics, is not only fond of outdoor life, of walking and horseback riding, but the re-continue to be populist.

CROSS BREEDING OF WHEAT

three hundred grains would ripen into enough to plant a fiftieth of an acre. The next year a twentieth of an acre would be planted, yielding two bushels of good seed wheat. These two bushels would be sufficient to seed two acres of ground. Allowing that they would yield but fifteen bushels of good kernels that year, at the springtime of the fifth year there would be enough grain to produce a harvest of 450 bushels. The next year the increase would be fifteenfold, and from the increase would be fifteenfold, and from that point on the ratio is one of enormous progression, reaching nearly $0,000,000,000 bushels at the end of the sixteenth year. These figures are not, of course, to be den onstrated in any actual experimentation, but they indicate the enormous possibilities of a new species of wheat when once it is found to be better than the wheats which have preceded it.

In addition to all the tests for larger yields a careful record is kept of the flour-producing qualities of the wheat. All the nutritious constituent parts of a first-class wheat are of course at hand, and the new wheat is measured up alongside of this standard, in order to see, if it should prove to be a large: yield whether it will be able to make a superior brand of flour. Substations have been established in the state where these experiments have been conducted, where, on a larger scale than would be possible at the college itself, the new wheats which are all the time being created can be tested in acre or ten-ore plots, or even in still larger and more roomy quarters. The work began in the year 1886, under the direction of Prof. W. M. Hayes of the chair of agriculture of the State miversity, and agriculturist in charge of the work of the agricultural college proper. He has given to the work much attention, and has given to the work much attention, and has added to his knowledge gained in much original investigation a strong desire to improve the wheats of the world. I am indebted to him for data in use in the preparation of this paper.

The possibilities of such a decade of investigation as this are enough to bewilder

one. While the work of creating new kinds of this staple product of the world is at-tended with much that is of a peculiar interest, to scientist and layman as well, it is yet work of the most practical nature. It is not too much to say that it promises to provide one of the most important and val-uable contributions which science will have made to the coffers of commerce.
