

DOUGLAS COUNTY REUNION

Veterans' Association goes into camp near Waterloo.

RUSTICATE ON BANKS OF THE ELKHORN

Spot is Named in Honor of Commander-in-Chief of G. A. R. and Many of Old Guard Are Present.

CAMP CLARKSON, WATERLOO, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—The fourth annual reunion of the Douglas County Veterans association is in full blast and promises to eclipse in point of attendance any encampment heretofore held under the auspices of the association. In honor of Commander-in-Chief Clarkson of the Grand Army of the Republic, the camp has been christened "Camp Clarkson." The camp is situated on the eastern border of the town in a cool and shady grove on the banks of the Elkhorn river. The local communities and members of the local Grand Army of the Republic post in preparing the camp grounds spared neither labor nor expense.

The festivities were inaugurated this afternoon and from the time until Friday evening the camp grounds will be the scene of much pleasure. This afternoon the members of the Waterloo Grand Army of the Republic post and the members of the association who arrived early marched to the camp grounds, where they were welcomed and honored by the camp committee and their guests. In response to the mayor's address President Gilmore, for the association, accepted the proffered hospitality and announced the intention to look their chicken houses around. Comrade Gilmore received bright bouquets from the ladies of the association, he object, etc. Following the president's address Chaplain Corey prayed fervently for the good of the old guard and their guests, a quartet of local singers came on and then the encampment was in full blast.

The various auxiliary branches of the Grand Army of the Republic have headquarters on the grounds, among which are Sherman circle, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo; George A. Custer Women's Auxiliary, Omaha; Officers' Auxiliary, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Omaha, and John M. Thurston camp, Sons of Veterans.

At the business meeting held during the afternoon letters were read from James H. Russell and Judge Fawcett, stating that on account of important business matters they would be unable to attend the meeting.

The by-laws of the association were amended so that the general election of officers would be elected the forenoon of the second day of the reunion and installed on the afternoon of the last day. Heretofore the officers were elected and installed on the last day of encampment.

Upon motion of Comrade Aspinwall, Captain E. L. Plumb, the tenth-second United States Infantry, was elected as honorary member of the association.

A feature of the afternoon was an address by Rev. W. G. Whittemore of Valley City, North Dakota, who presided over the affairs of Comrade Culver, who presided over the conference of the Grand Army of the Republic, was the first speaker introduced. For the benefit of the young people present, who were the descendants of every old soldier, it is the privilege of participating in these meetings and being permitted to relate portions of the unwritten history of the war of the rebellion.

A quarter of the camp, Com. Clark, whom Chairman of the program, the "Battalion of the men of contention of the late war," sang a number of southern melodies, and after they had responded a number of others were the recipients of a purse of fifty proportions contributed by the audience.

Com. Clark took his coat from and took up the thread of the story where it was dropped off by Comrade Culver, and contributed several pages to the story of the war yet to be written. Comrade Clark's speech was the proudest and most eloquent of the great deeds and shortcomings of a number of the prominent Grand Army of the Republic men present.

Colonel R. L. Livingstone was the last speaker of the evening and to the audience of the regular army he paid a glowing tribute.

The usual number of camp followers are on the grounds and are patronized liberally. The chief attractions however, seem to be the pavilion, where dancing is indulged in, the carousal and the "old army blues."

IMPERIAL, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—The Grand Army post at this place had an interesting meeting here last Saturday. There was a large attendance present, the occasion being the induction of two new members into the post.

CANDIDATES SHOW THEMSELVES.

Aspirants for Office Bob Up All Over the State.

MERCE, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—Tall about candidates for the county offices is heard by the leaders of the political parties. County Treasurer Nick Wecker will be renominated without opposition. R. A. Tawney, county clerk, who has had that position for six years, will not be a candidate for renomination on the populist ticket. Some of the populist leaders say Isaac Turner, now county superintendent, will be the nominee for sheriff. He may be chosen it as he has been Mr. Tawney's efficient deputy while Tawney held the office. Last week it was announced that R. E. Foreman would be the populist nominee for county judge. Mr. Foreman has been in the general merchandise business for many years. The election of Foreman was mentioned last week for the office of sheriff. Another candidate for sheriff is H. G. Hanner of Osmond. He was the populist candidate two years and was the third man in the race. The democrats and populists with them. They have called their county convention on the same day as the populists—August 25. The democrats will certainly nominate E. C. Hess for sheriff and William H. McDonald for county judge. Harry L. Smith of Osmond and Charles E. Stahl of Waterloo will be candidates for county clerk. H. H. Norup, the free silver orator of Pierce county, wants to be nominated for county sheriff. The republicans have not compromised to take a stand on county offices. Only one man has announced himself for office, and that is Charles Rohrbach of Osmond, who wants to be candidate for sheriff. There will be plenty of good timber for the party to choose from.

HARRISON, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—The republican county central committee of Sioux county met here today and decided to hold only one county convention this year, and fixed its date for September 16. A straight county ticket will be put up, with fair prospects for its success, as the fusion of the two parties is not likely to be popular. The republican is not going to be as harmonious as desired by its promoters. Several of the leading populists are known to be against fusion.

SPRINGFIELD, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—The popular county central committee has issued a call for a county convention for Saturday, August 25, and the democrats have called a mass county convention on that day. This is apparently an attempt on the part of the democrats to force the populists to fusion with them on local matters. The fusion is a good sized majority in the county and do not need the democratic assistance in order to elect. A lively time is anticipated.

Franklin County Teachers.

BLOOMINGTON, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—Franklin County Institute commenced here yesterday and will continue one week.

STATE EPWORTH ASSEMBLY

Closing Session of the Campers Devoted to Business and Music.

FORT CROOK BAND SCORES A KNOCKOUT

People Pleased that the Concert Was Given Instead of a Lecture.

OFFICERS FOR NEXT YEAR ELECTED.

RAIN PICKS OUT THE DRY SPOTS.

Showers Fall Where They Do the Most Good to Corn and Pastures.

SCHUYLER, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—Late yesterday afternoon this immediate vicinity received a copious fall of rain, the total fall being 1.06 inches. Schuyler seemed to have been the center of the life of a heavy cloud that traversed the country from north to southwest, the western half of which was highly satisfactory to the teachers, considering exclusively of methods of teaching the various branches. The teachers are prepared for this by having attended the summer school lectures and entertainments have been arranged for the whole week.

CAMP CLARKSON, WATERLOO, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—The fourth annual reunion of the Douglas County Veterans association is in full blast and promises to eclipse in point of attendance any encampment heretofore held under the auspices of the association. In honor of Commander-in-Chief Clarkson of the Grand Army of the Republic, the camp has been christened "Camp Clarkson." The camp is situated on the eastern border of the town in a cool and shady grove on the banks of the Elkhorn river. The local communities and members of the local Grand Army of the Republic post in preparing the camp grounds spared neither labor nor expense.

The festivities were inaugurated this afternoon and from the time until Friday evening the camp grounds will be the scene of much pleasure. This afternoon the members of the Waterloo Grand Army of the Republic post and the members of the association who arrived early marched to the camp grounds, where they were welcomed and honored by the camp committee and their guests. In response to the mayor's address President Gilmore, for the association, accepted the proffered hospitality and announced the intention to look their chicken houses around. Comrade Gilmore received bright bouquets from the ladies of the association, he object, etc. Following the president's address Chaplain Corey prayed fervently for the good of the old guard and their guests, a quartet of local singers came on and then the encampment was in full blast.

THE CAMP, Waterloo, Aug. 10.—(Special)—This section of the country has been favored with rain every day for the last week. Corn and grass are in excellent condition. Real estate is beginning to move and newcomers are arriving in Nebraska, where the people are prospering.

IMPERIAL, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—Sioux county was visited last night by another splendid rain. From all over the country reports are coming in that the fall was about two to three inches, and hardly anyone has had a fall of water, except perhaps those thoroughly saturated. A marked difference in the appearance of the corn, millet, cane and grass crops can be observed, and these crops will be much heavier than was estimated ten days ago.

COREY, Aug. 10.—(Special)—Corn and grass are looking splendid in this vicinity and the wheat will be bought by the railroads.

NORTHWARD THUS FAR THE CLOUDS ARE DARK AND THE RAIN IS HEAVY.

WHEAT NEARLY PAYS FOR HIS LAND.

FARMER GOES INTO DEBT FOR EIGHTY ACRES AND IS NOW ALMOST CLEAR.

MICCO JUNCTION, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—The Sioux County Agricultural society met yesterday evening for the election of officers for the ensuing year. The election was held in the hall of the Agricultural society, and the election was a success.

CHAMBERS, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

DURING the afternoon concert, the band responded to a request for a solo, and at the close of the concert, Prof. E. Reichardt, the organist, played a variation on the national anthem.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while it was certain that some failed to attend because Jones would not speak, others came to hear the band whom Jones would not have attracted. During the afternoon and evening concerts, the amphitheater was packed and all the available space around it was filled by people who brought chairs and by people who stood up. They were said to be two of the largest audiences ever assembled in the city. The appearance of the band in the stand was greeted with great applause, and each selection of the program was enthusiastically applauded.

CHAMBERS, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The annual picnic of the Grand Army of the Republic, Waterloo, was held yesterday evening. The band, which was the principal attraction, did not appear, but the band of the Twenty-second Regiment band, while