going into the passageway Bradley says that he heard the movements of some one in the store of Icken & Co. He then noticed a light through the partition that separated the store from the other part of the building. Looking through one of the cracks he alleges that he saw a light in the candling room. Thinking that some one connected with the firm was in the place, he states that he left without investigation.

Fire Chief Redell, while he does not know whether the fire was of incendiary origin or not, does not take much stock in the stories. This is largely for the reason that he is of belief that the fire did not have its origin in the store of Icken & Co. He as series that the starting point was on the other side of the partition in the passage-way through which Bradley proceeded. He says that when the door leading into this passageway was broken open and a stream was turned in through it the fire was forced over the partition into Icken & Co.'s establishment.

The police have enough faith in th stories, however, to be working on an in-vestigation. Several parties are under sus-picion, but they do not include any member of the firm or any employe of Icken & Co. As a matter of fact, when this firm & Co. resumed its business it found itself a considerable loser from the fire after it had received its insurance.

Mr. Icken says that there was no one in the store after 6 o'clock on the night of the fire to his knowledge. He also states that the canding room had not been used for several days. While working in here the several days employes used electric lights and not candles.

DOUGLAS COUNTY HAS ITS SHARE

Supply of Copies of the Session Laws Exhausted.

Copics of the session laws of the last legis lature are in great demand and the law of supply and demand bids fair to send the price of them away above par. There is a stand ing demand in this county for about 1,000 copies of this publication, and a supply of list 150; hence the rush to secure copics. The statutes provide that each notary public shall be entitled to one copy of the session laws, and the copies are usually sent to the county clerk of each county for delivery t the notaries in his county. Douglas county has over 800 notaries in addition to the large number of attorneys who are clamoring for topies of the laws.

The secretary of state sent County Clerk Redfield 150 copies of the session laws, and sened vesterday out of police court at iners were exhausted in short order. Mr. the instance of Willard S. Best. Redfield wrote to the secretary of state for a new supply, explaining the situation in Dougias county, and yesterday he received a reply from the secretary of state, which contained an effectual quietus on any hope that more copies might be secured. The secretary wrote that the last legislature had cut down the appropriation about $10,000 $12,000, and, in consequence, the State Printing Board had ordered but 5,000 copies Printing Hoard had ordered but 5,000 copies of the session laws printed. The secretary added that he had sent Douglas county more than its quota, knowing the demand for them, but he said the supply had been completely exhausted, and that no more would be printed.

German-Americans Incorporate.

The movement among the German-Ameri can citizens of Omaha to participate in the exposition has taken form in the incorporation of a company to carry out the plans perfected some time ago, which contemplates the establishment, inside the exposition grounds, of a German restaurant and cafe, combined with amusements characteristic of the "Faderland." The articles of incorporather of this company have been filed with the county clerk. The name of the company is the German-American Transmissis-ilppi association, the capital stock being repairs that were to be made and do so without expense to the city.
