eratic Gang May Remain in Power.

lly the use of the most arbitrary and highhanded methods that have been employed in a political convention in Omaha in years, the Herdman Gallagher machine yesterday captured the democratic county convention, which most of the time was more like a howling mob than a political meeting, and named a detegation to the state convention that will carry out the plans of the gang that had been repudiated at the polls of the primaries. The manner in which this was accomplished was characteristic of the ring by which it was planned and executed, The South Omaha delegation, which was solidly opposed to the machine, was summarily ousted from the convention. Even then it was accemary for the gang to seat a delegation from the Seventh ward that the affidayl's submitted to the committee on credentials and the substance of which was after-ward brought out and substantiated in de-bate showed had been elected by the most to the Seventh ward be adopted.

ginring frauds.
The evidence showed that E. E. Howell, as chairman of the county central committee, had refused to put the names of the contest-ing delegates on the official ballot to be voted on at the primuries, but had afterward con-sented to allow them to use a rubber stamp to stamp the names on the ballot. During the afternoon of the primaries the stamp was stolen and voters who wanted to vote for the anti-machine delegation were compelled to write the names on the ballot. When the ballot box was opened twenty-one bogus balballot box was opened twenty-one bogus bal-lots were found and counted for the delega-tion put up by the gang. These ballots had never been folded or voted, but had been tossed into a bunch and were sail there when the box was examined by the committee on credentials of the convention. In addition the judges and clerks, who were all creatures of the machine, had thrown out thirteen votes for the anti-machine delegation because the names had been written. Even then the machine delegation was only elected by 61 to 49. These facts were admitted by the Howell crowd, though they asserted that the twenty-one bogus ballots had not been

In the face of these facts the machine delegation was seated. It gave the Herdman crowd just the votes needed to control the convention, and made the anti-machine delegates a minority. And the way that the iron was inserted and twisted around in the flesh of that minority was something awful to contemplate. The gang ruled with an on hand, and their opponents were not allowed the slightest voice in the proceed lngs, Charley Kosters, Charley Fanning, Ed Howell, Lee Herdman, Dan Houin and other conspicuous strikers of the gamblers gang had things all their own way, while Charley White and Jack Morrison, late pro prietors of the Diamond gambling estab-lishment, sat with the delegates and contributed a hunch for their friends now and then when it was needed. The result was that a large portion of the minority boited the convention in disgust and left the gang undisputed masters of the field.

Not twenty-five delegates were presenand voting on the list of names presented to represent the Douglas county democracy at the state convention at Lincoln CRACKING THE WHIP.

During the day the Herdman pluggers had been actively at work. Money and promises of places on the police force and in the fire department were used in cases where the police commission club could not be brought to bear. By these means a pumher of the delegates in the Sixth and Eight) wards were whipped into line and by the time the convention riet the gang had recovered some degree of the confidence that had been lost after the returns from the primaries were received.

t was generally understood that the Herd man crowd would put up J. E. Riley as their candidate for temporary chairman and that Dick O'Keefe would be named by the oppost-The vote on temporary chairman would be the first test of strength and it was anticipated as indicative of the complexion

About 2 o'clock the delegates began congregate in the hall and with them a large lobby of outsiders, who were attracted by the prespect of an old-fashioned democratic row. The hall was a veritable hubbub both factions were determined to fight to the last ditch, Chairman E. E. Howell of the county central committee called the delegates to order. It required ten minutes to secure order and then Chairman Howell briefly addressed the convention. He said that last year a harmonious and united democracy had elected the entire county and state tickets at an expense in this county of only $2,200. He said he was able to show from whom every dollar had been received and where with the exception of amounts that had been drawn on vouchers

Howell declared that the charge that the fund of the committee had been misused was a malicious lie and he wanted a com-mittee appointed to audit the books. He then went back to the last city campaign and declared that his defeat as a candidate for mayor had been due to false affidavits circulated by the republican committee. This had led to a factional fight, which had been aggravated by the fact that Martin White had not been elected chief of police, and which had lasted to the present time. He declared that it was all the work of Rosewater, who wanted to break up the democratic party. He then declared that after the primaries thirty or forty of the anti-machine delegates had gone to Mr. Rosewater's office. J. J. O'Connor arcse and denounced the ttatement as a falsehood. The chair refused to recognize him, and for five minutes the first symptoms of the fight developed. This was tempororily headed off the reading of the call by Secretary

RILEY TALKS OF FAIRNESS After thanking the convention, Mr. Riley expressed the hope that the proceedings would be harmonious. There were some serious questions to be met, on which it was proper that there should be full and free discussion. The party should not retired to consider the contests from South Omaha and the Seventh ward. This seemed to be a difficult task, for it was an hour and a half before the committee reappeared. In the first place the committee voted to seat the South Omaha delegation insemuch as it brought the proper credentials, and there was no protest. But afterward Ed Howell appeared with a protest and the vote was reconsidered. Some time was occupied in discussing the Seventh ward contest, and finally the com-mittee began the tedious task of counting the ballots in executive session

It was nearly 5 o'clock when the convention re-convened and J. J. Mahoney was recognized to read the report of the committee. The majority of the committee found that no regularly authorized primary election had been held in South Omaha, and recommended that the delegates be not seated. A minority report, signed by J. A. agee and F. M. Crawford, recommended that the delegation be seated.

In regard to the Seventh ward contest, the ntire committee recommended that the Herdman delegation be scated. J. B. Hunter moved the adoption of the majority report, and Ed Howell moved as an amendment that that portion relating

O'Connor offered a substitute favorng scating the contesting delegation. eclared that there was uncontradicted evdence before the committee that the Herdman delegation in the Seventh ward had been fraudulently elected. He detailed the evidence as it was presented to the com-mittee, and declared that it was enough to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of any democrat. If such fraud was to be tolerated it would make the democratic party a minority party for the next gen-

Ed Howell declared that seven names on the petition of the contestants were forged He said that the twenty-one fraudulent votes were not counted, and that the rubber stamp was not stolen until 4 o'clock. Martin Langdon said that if the evidence before the committee was true, and it had not been denied, one of the most damnable frauds that had ever been perpetrated in Douglas county had marked the primaries in the Seventh ward. If, as was admitted twenty-one fraudulent ballots had been found n the box, then the entire election was void When the committee on credentials was appointed it had been constituted entirely of the machine delegates in order to disfranchise South Omaha and seat a fraudulently elected delegation. By this time the fighting blood of the del-egates was up and the convention merged into disorder. A dozen delegates were clamoring for the floor and the debate was spasmodic and continually interrupted.

Some semblance of quiet was secured when J. Smyth was recognized. He declared that if fraud had been perpetrated in the Seventh ward or any other it could not have his sanction. He did not know what the facts were and he wanted to be informed before he voted. He wanted to know whether twenty-one fraudulent ballots had been found in the ballot box and why it had been necessary to reject thirteen other ballots. A dozen men wanted to answer his questions and the confusion was renewed. Mr. Smyth moved that some person con-versant with the facts be allowed to make a statement, but the chairman ruled the motion out of order.

J. A. Agee, as a member of the committee on credentials, stated that the twenty-one fraudulent ballots had been found in the box by the committee, but that in his opinion the election board had acted fairly in rejecting the thirteen ballots that had been written in with the names of the contesting delegation. GAG RULE APPLIED. A dozen speeches added no new informa-tion and J. B. Kitchen moved the previous question. Calls for a roll call were ignored of Elkhorn and Millard precincts had been the chalmin, as were also demands for so derelict in their duty as to fail to hold division previous to the announce the vote. Finally a roll call was ordered or the motion to adopt the report of the committee. Here the chair again violated al parliamentary usages by ruling that the con tested Herdman delegation from the Seventl ward could vote on the question, while the contesting delegation was ruled out. These acties were continued through the ballo Charley Kosters was appointed sergeant a arms and he urged the secretary to 'em right." He proceeded to show what this meant, when a poll of the Third ward was demanded. Two members of the delegation were absent and Kosters voted "yes" both of them and it went. When South they could not vote, thus reversing the rul ing by which he allowed the machine dele gation from the Seventh ward to vote to seat These were fair samples of the methods that were pursued and when delegates en eavored to protest they were summarily or dered to sit down. Even Ed Howell pre ended to protest against such manifest in justice, but his voice was drowned by onfusion raised by his colleagues.

After the rest of the call had been com leted and the secretaries' figures showe that the South Omaha vote could do no damage, that delegation was considerately allowed to vote. Then the machine delegation was declared scated and the roll was called on the motion to adopt the majority report shutting out the South Omaha dele-

The same tactics were pursued on this bal ot. The chairmen of the county delegations were allowed to cast the full vote for the machine, but if they voted against the report they were only allowed to cast the vote of the delegates present.

DELEGATES WALK OUT. After vainly endeavoring to get the floo protest against these high-handed proeedings, the South Omaha delegation the room in a body and were followed by a number of the other delegates. Then majority report was declared adopted by 88½ to 60½. On motion of Ed P. Smith the temporar: organization was made permanent, and Charley Fanning moved that a committee of seven be named to select delegates to the state convention. An amendment made it a committee of nine, and another amendment provided that each ward and precinct should select its own delegates. The amendment various wards were announced in the midst of tremendous disorder and if they cast for the amendment it was translated into "yes" by the voices of the machine pluggers before it reached the chair. As the bolt of anti-machine delegates had eft the Herdman crowd in undi-puted conrol this did not affect the result and saved ime. The amendment was declared lost by 36 to 122, a total of 158 votes, or ten more han were cast before any of the delegates

SLATE DELEGATION GOES. The chair then appointed Charles Fanning, Waiter Brandels, Adam Shoup, Dan B. Honin, White, W. F. Campbell, George Lee, W. T. Johnson and Dr. Harvey Link of Waterloo to select the delegates to the state convention. n the committee Charley Fanning started off by swearing in several different languages that John A. Creighton, whose name had been presented by the Eighth ward delega-tion, should never, with his content or that f the Herdmanites, whom he represented, be permitted to go to the state convention. After considerable trouble he was forced into including Mr. Creighton's name as the one peace offering from the gaug. All the other anti-Herdmanites were ruthlessly cut out, while every one of the gang leaders who had been turned down at the polls were placed on the state delegation. The committee recomnended the following list, which was ap-

The bulk of the delegates had left the hall when the committee retired to manufacture the slate, and when it returned there were scarcely a dozen left in the room. These included the leading spirits of the gang ex-clusively and the subsequent proceedings were delightfully harmonious.

At the suggestion of Ab Waggoner of the Seventh ward a committee consisting of Waggoner, J. J. Mahoney and Martin Langdon was appointed to audit the books of th county central committee and report at the next meeting.

A set of resolutions were submitted by Ed Howell and adopted. They instructed the delegation to the state convention to "use all honorable means" to secure fusion between the democratic, populist and silver republican forces, endorsed the administration of Governor Holcomb, eulogized Attor ney General Smyth and declared satisfaction with the appointment of C. V. Gallaghe as chief of police. Incidentally the action of The Bee in opposing Gallagher and the gamblers' gang was denounced.

At the opening of the county convention f the populist party vesterday afternoon at Knights of Labor hall nothing but harmony seemed to prevail. As the primary election which chose the delegates were without contests, this was not unexpected. It was nearly 2:30 o'clock when F. B. Hibbard of irvington, chairman of the county central mmittee called the convention to order M. Nelson, secretary of the committee, read the call. The business of the convention was the selection of 121 delegates to the state convention, and the only problem before the meeting seemed to be the selection of that many members of the populist party to at tend the state convention. Notwithstanding the defeat of John O. Yeiser by the middle-of-the-roaders, he was on hand prosecutleg an active canvass for his initiative and referendum scheme. There were four nominations for the posi-tion of chairman of the convention. On the roll call of wards and precincts the contest settled down to a fight between A. A. Perry of the Ninth ward and Louis J. Ihm of the Eighth. The roll call showed a conspicuous absence of the country delegates. Perry was elected chairman by a vote of 65 to 61.

M. Nelson was the only candidate for secretary, and his election was by acclamation. S. P. Groat of Waterloo was elected assistant secretary.

John Jeffcoat of the Eighth ward said that as Elkhorn and Millard precincts were not represented he moved that the populistrepresent from those precincts be admitted as delegates. This motion was seconded, but drew forth a vigorous opposition in the dis-cussion that followed. Some of the delenot deserve to be represented. Peabody offered a resolution embodying he suggestion of Jeffcoat, but it was defeated two to one, and the precincts re After a half hour's heated discussion ompromise was reached. It was resolved o allow the populists present from Florence Elkhorn and Millard precincts to vote fiv votes from each of these precincts that had failed to hold their primary elections. Not having much real work to do, the onvention started in to manufacture a figh between the country and the city delegates. The report of the central committee recom-mended this division of the delegates of Douglas county to the state convention: or each ward in Omaha, twenty for South

Omaha, and forty-seven for the country precincts. This division wasn't a little popular with the convention, and went down n a storm of hisses. Then V. O. Strickler of the Ninth war offered this substitute, which he declared provided for a fair division of the delegates even delegates for each ward in Omaha twenty for South Omaha, and thirty-eigh for the country precincts. Forty-three dele-gates protested against this division, many speaking at the same time, and a few waiting till they could have the floor to themselves. When a vote was reached Strickler's substitute prevailed, 74 to 67, and there was a great shout of glee from the country camp, whose delegates had been fearful les their representation should be cut down to less than thirty-eight. The "hig thirteen" are owners of the different mines where the most bitter fight against the demands of the miners is being made and they practically control the coal trade in this part of the country.

> DEMONSTRATION FOR THE MINERS Strikers Turn Labor Day to a Good

Account. WHEELING, W. V., Aug. 28.-Today is Labor day in Wheeling, and it is being made in reality a demonstration in favor of the striking coal miners. In the parade, which moved at 10 o'clock, the miners were given ng at the Omaha Business College hall, over the head of the column and there were over 1,000 of them in line, with representatives from all the mining districts of the upper panhandle and eastern Ohio. Their banners of their declaration being against the pluck me stores and government by injunction. Throughout the parade, which included all the trades unions in the middle Ohio valley

Mr. Van Wickle, who has been aping the summer at Newport, has not yet re-turned and his ultimatum cannot be accured until he communicates his reply to the de-mands of the strikers. Last night eighteen men struck at Janesville colliery, which is operated by the Lehigh Valley company. The English speaking miners are not in sympathy with the movement and they are becoming reative, which may result in a clash. More Miners Join Strikers.

DUBOIS, Pa., Aug. 28.—The Eleanor miners joined the strikers this morning and with the Reynoldsville miners are marching 600 strong to Walston and Adrian. The Reynoldsvine miners camped at Eleanor last night, and the marchers left there early this morning. The Walston and Adrian miners will probably strike today and this will preclude the possibility of the miners here holding a meeting Monday to recon-sider the question of returning to work.
