General Woodford has declined to be interviewed on the subject further than to say that his conference with the duke of Tetuan, the foreign minister, was of the most satisfactory character. The unexpected bitterness of the press and of public opinion has painfully impressed him, but he hopes that will soon be allayed, as he believes his mission favorable to Spanish interests and cannot comprehend that Spain could reject ing war. He has not named a time at which the war must be terminated, but he hopes, as the result of his tenders, that it will be ended quickly. He believes the war is inflicting incalculable less upon the United States and that it is impossible to prevent the organization of filibustering expeditions. Unusual measures were taken to protect Minister Woodford on his journey from San Minister Woodford on his journey from San Sebastian to this city, but the trip was quite uneventful. A party of gendarmes, com-manded by a sublicutenant, guarded the southern express, on which he was a pas-genger. Secret police were posted at the station and the prefect of police was in waiting to excert him to his hotel. The drive through the streets was marked by no drive through the streets was marked by no special incident, though several people saluted him, receiving a bow in return. Some comment has been caused by the fact that Minister Woodford's family has not accompanied him, but remains behind the French frontier. Minister Woodford expleins that his party is a large one, requiring commodious home and prefers spending a pleasant October at Biarritz until a suit-able residence can be secured here. The legation cannot be used as a residence. PREMIER IS WOUNDED IN A DUEL. Count Badeni Fights Dr. Wolff with the Emperor's Approval. LONDON, Sept. 27.-The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail says this morn

The duel between Count Badeni, the Austrian premier, and Dr. Wolff, the German nationalist leader, has caused the wildest sensation. It rose out of the riotous scenes at the opening of the Reichsrath, when Count Badeni with arms crossed and head on his breast listened unmoved by the clamor and gesticulations of the German party. His attitude was most irritating. The whole left formed a threatening group around him, conspicuous among them being the great lean face of Wolff as he pressed forward and thrust his fist into Count Badeni's face, saying: "If this is your policy it is miserable chicanery." Some declare that Wolff called him a "Polish pig." He was pulled back by his colleagues, but continued uttering menaces Early on Friday Count Badeni sent his seconds to Dr. Wolff, who accepted the challenge. The premier sent a telegram to the emperor asking permission to fight the duel and at the same time tendering his resignation. In reply he received not only permission to fight, but also the imperial Count Badeni then made his will, after which he spent the evening at the Jockey club and a pleasure resort. His wife and family knew nothing about the affair until

The combatants met at the military riding school. .Count Badeni's seconds were Marshal Count Texkull-Guyllenband, command ing the Vicnna garrison, and Colonel Resch a former adjutant of the emperor. Dr Wolff's seconds were two German deputies. The conditions of the duel were three shots at twenty-five paces. At the first dis-charge the premier's ball struck the ground fifteen paces from his antagonist. The latter's ball struck Count Badeni in the right arm. He staggered back to his chair and was then taken home, where the bullet was extracted. There are no symptoms of was extracted. fever and Count Badeni is conducting affairs

It is thought that, as the premier has set the example with the emperor's approval, there will be a serious epidemic of dueling. The Arbeiter Zeitung points out that Count Badeni is liable to imprisonment for from one to five years.

Mr. Burns agrees with what was then said as to the excellence of American workmanship. He denies, however, that this is due to the wages paid and the long hours, but escribes it to the fact that the imployers had fewer deadheads to carry about. He says:

"The American employers are more inventive, adaptable, less hidebound in their conceits, more versatile in inventive and initiative efforts. If American engineering excels the British it is not because of the shortcomings of the British mechanics, but because of the wooden-headed and often pigheaded chareter of the employers, managers and foremen. for the first lynching in Hancock county.

In the meantime Busherede was given an opportunity for confession and prayer. His confession was complete. He stated that he was guilty and this was the third offense, one successful effort having been made upon his 60-year-old aunt. After offering up his last supplication, a long and fervent prayer on bended knee, the signal to haul away was given, and with pinioned arms behind and legs beneath, he was dangled between brick and tree. The applause as he went up was deafening. It only showed the determination of the people.

In about four minutes he was pronounced dead and Coroner Mitchell, viewing the cut it down and summoned a jury, who sevdeath at the hands of unknown parties.

OFFICIALS WERE POWERLESS. During the day, and at the critical time the county officials did what they could for the prisoner's protection, but public opinion was too well defined. Judge Adair advised nothing came of it. Identification of the accused was complete. He was taken before the girl last night and no doubt remained, Four others also added their strength to identification. After the lynching the mob's leader, an Indiana man, made a little talk,

"Here is the protection we offer our wives and daughters." After a great deal of idle curicsity was gratified the crowd quietly dispersed, and there are not tonight three men in Hancock county that are ready to say that a wrong has been done. No action by the authorities against any members of the mob is likely. During the entire time of the lynching not less than 200 women were on the hill and hillside overlooking the public square, and when his dangling form went up cheers from
