Mail Business in New Orleans Has Gone to Smash_Two More Deaths Reported from the Scourge.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30 .- President Oliphant, Dr. Carter and Dr. John Guiteras reached the city early this morning. They left yesterday to meet Dr. Swearingen and other health officers with a view to the raising of the quarantine embargo agains: freight and had a very tough experience. At Raine a mob with shotguns prevented their further progress and they were ordered to parn back, compelled to do. During the trip they had gathered up some twenty-four representatives of health boards and held a meeting at Cade, at which place they fully discussed the sitnation here and elsewhere and adopted resolutions tending to relieve the congestion of Chairman Lemuel E. Quing, freight. A committee was appointed to comfreight. A committee was appointed to communicate with the authorities on the lines of the Texas and Southern Pacific with a view to securing an amelioration of the present eppressive conditions. All those in the party in great good. Dr. Guiteras takes his experience good naturedly, although surprised at the terror that is evident in some of the country districts. He will stay here and await orders before making any attempt to proceed to Beaumont.

The authorities today are busily engaged in making arrangements for moving more patients into the yellow fever hospital on Canal street. There are more than a dozen patient, there now, but several others will be moved in today.

CRUELTIES PRACTICED BY BARRIOS

American Citizens Thrown Into Jail on the Charge of Plotting Against the Ruler Now in Power.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—The steamer Sau Blas arrived from Central American ports today with the following authentic detalls of a revolution in Guatemala: The revolution broke out on September 6 and was participated in by seven departments, viz.; Son Marcos, Quesaltenango, Huebutenango, Tatonicopan, Mazakenango, Ouchie and Salola. The revolt was opened with an attack upon the outpost of Quezaltenango and other districts, which proved eminently successful. The revolutionists, however, withdrew to gather reinforcements from the surrounding country and three days after the first shot was fired the government sent the following army into the field: General L. G. Leon, with 1,500 men; General S. Toledo. with forty-two pieces of artillery and 2,000 men. One battery promptly deserted to the enemy after leaving the city. On September 9 J. L. Castillo, aide to Morales, arrived on the scene with an immense force of malcontents from neighboring provinces and after a sharp engagement took the city of Quezaltenango.

In the meantime Barrios was carrying matters with a high hand among the within the citadel. Needing money he ap-plied to Don Apriclo, a well known capitalist, through the medium of General Reque Morales, who is noted for his cruelty. Knowing that the loan would mean his financial ruin. Apricio hesitated and was promptly taken to the castle and strung up by the thumbs. Upon his refusal to accede to the demends made upon him Apricio was lashed until he fainted from the torture and still being obdurate when he recovered his senses. Morales cursed him and shot him dead. His many friends, however, had their revenge shortly afterward, for when the city of Quezaltenango was taken Roque Morales was shot without the courtesy of a trial.

Grave accurations of cruelty to women, the wives and daughters of men who had joined the revolutionists, are made against Dictator Barrios

The San Blas brought a party of fourteen Americans up from the scene of the revolu-tion, all of whom say it will be a long time before peace is again restored. They state that Americans are thrown into Jall on the elightest pretext, upon the ground that they are plotting sgainst Barrios, and say that nine Americans were in prison at Quesal-tenango when they left. Even the stars and stripes were not allowed to float from their

Fifteen minutes later the second stage, the egular four-horse vehicle, came along and he driver was ordered to halt. As he did not pull up fast enough, the robbers shot one of the lealers and killed one of the pole horses, frightening the other two animals to such an extent that they dragged the heavy coach and their dead companions several hundred yards. Meantime the robbers fired one shot with a rifle into the hood of the stage, evidently for the purpose of frightening the occupants. The bullet struck one of the male passengers in the arm and passed on into the side of another man who sat beside him. Not in many years, certainly not since the dawn of the financial depression which has passed over this country in recent years, has there been such a brilliant social assemblage of Omaha bankers as there was last evening in the handsome banquet hall of the Omaha club to do honor to the guest of the Omaha Clearing House association,

WHAT THE EAST DOES KNOW.
"The east is not ignorant of the number of political factions which exist in the state of Nebraska and in the state of Colorado and in other equally rich and important commonwealths, even though it may be ignorant of the richness of the soil here and of the agricultural and mineral recourses of your siter state. No political conditions can be to the advantage of any people where there are so many factions as have been bred in these western countries within the last few years. The interests of these states demand more of a consideration on the part of the people of business interests than a continual perturbation of the contentions of political factions.
