MONEY LOST IN THE MAILS

Fourteen Thousand Dollars Disappears Between Omaha and Denver.

NO TRACE OF THE MISSING PACKAGE

Detectives Working on the Case Without Success - Postmaster Martin of Omnha in the Dark Concerning the Matter.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.-Somewhere between Omaha and Denver a package containing by registered package by a bank in Chicago to a financial institution in the west. Inspector James E. Stuart of the postoffice department and his men have hard at work on the case several days, but their endeavors can trace the money westward from Chicago only as far as Omaha. At that point all records of the small fortune are lost. The authorities refuse to give either the name of the bank sending the money or the one to which the package is consigned.

Postmaster Martin was shown the above telegram and said it brought the first information he had received that any such package had been lost in the mails. He thought there must be a mistake in connecting Omaha with the ioss, for he said that if the inspectors had traced the package as far as Omaha he would surely have known something of the work being done on that line. Further, he said that if the Omaha office had been connected in any way with the loss the department would more likely have telegraphed him in reference Postmaster Rowman of Council Bluffs was first informed by the representative of The Bee of the missing money package. He had received no intimation from the Postoffice department that the package had been lost and was at first almost inclined to doubt the accuracy of the Chicago report. He at once set about making an investigation to ascer-tain if the missing pouch had passed through the branch postoffice at the transfer. It did not take long to discover that it had not an he uttered a great sigh of relief when he concluded his investigations.

All of the mail that is brought in by the eastern trains is transferred at the Union Pacific transfer depot and the Postoffice department maintains an office there for the purpose of handling this mail. The office is rated as a branch of the Council Bluffs office and is under the control of the postmaster there. Deputy postmasters are on duty there night and day all of the time. During the greater part of Postmaster Bowman's ad-ministration W. C. Unthark and John Plumer have had charge of the office and are there now. The through pouches from Chicago are never taken into the office unless there is a delay in the arrival of the fast mail trains. The pouches come in on the Burling ton fast mail, which reaches the transfer at 2:40 each afternoon. If the Burlington train is so late that the Union Pacific cannot wait for it the pouches are taken into the transfer offices and receipted for, and again receipted for when they are put aboard the Union Pacific trains and consigned to the care of the mail agent. If the Union Pacific train does not wait for the arrival of the Burling-ton the pouches are kept in the branch office all night and are put aboard No. 1. Union Pacific, the following morning. When there is no delay the pouches are transferred from the mail car on the Burlington to the Union Pacific car as the two trains are standing side by side, the postal clerks ex changing their receipts as they stand in the doorways of their cars.

Postmaster Bowman's investigations dis closed the fact that for the last two months there had been no time when the Burlington failed to deliver its mail to the Union Pacific on schedule time, and the through pouches had not passed through the hands of any person connected with the branch postoffice Both Pestmaster Bowman and the deput postmasters at the branch office hold keys to these pouches, but the key at the branch office is never used unless the pouch is renumbers on the registering locks are taken and recorded in books kept for that purpose It is an easy matter to ascertain every per son who has inserted a key into the circular, self-registering lock from the time it starts until it reaches its destination.

Identified by a Trunk. May Davis, a colored girl, is held in the city to await requisition papers which will return her to Leavenworth, Kas. She is charged in that town with feloniously carrying away money, bedding and towels from the house of Gussle Merriwenther to the amount of $11.50. The sheriff of Leaven. Worth county followed the girl to this city several weeks ago and identified her trunk at the depot. Since that time the authorities have kept guard on the trunk, but not so closely that she was not able to visit the deret and extract a gown from it. She might have taken the trunk, too but that there were storage charges upon it.

Yesterday the officers were more fortunate and happened upon the girl in the very act of carrying the trunk away. She insisted that she was a waitress in a Douglas siree restaurant and that her name was Leelic Stages. She said she had gotten the trunk at a friend's request. On the way to the station the officer noticed that the woman was saluted by an employe of a bicycle store. Inquiring at the place in er, he was told that the girl's real name was May Davis of Leavenworth, Kas., and the authorities there were notified. return her to Leavenworth, Kas. She i

NEEDS OF THE HOME A! D FOREIGN FIELD

Missionary Frontier in This Country Passes Out of Existence_Opposition to Work in Henthen Lands,

! Nebraska last evening a large congregation nearly filled the auditorium of the First Presbyterian church. After brief devotional exercises and a well rendered anthem by the quartet choir, Rev. Samuel J. Niccols. D. D., of St. Louis, a member of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, was introduced and delivered what was esteemed by many preachers and laymen to be the best address delivered before the Nebraska synod in several years. Dr. Niccols spoke without the suggestion of a note or other aid and in such a pleasing manner and fine voice that the ordinary rules of the sanctuary were suspended and he was warmly applauded.

In his introductory remarks Dr. Niccols said that this was the first time he had had the pleasure of looking the synod of Nebraska in the face. The stories of the hardship on the frontier and of suffering on the plains had prepared him to find in the Ne-braska synod the stalwarts of the faith. He had previously formed a high opinion of the Presbyterians of Nebraska and he should not change that opinion until some very strong evidence to the contrary were presented. GOD IN OUR HISTORY.

He said the field of the home missionary ever been. But its physical magnitude was not the greatest feature of mission work in America. The American people now number nearly 75,000,000, and the majority are of the Anglo-Saxon race. "The carly history of this country is that of isolation and religious freedom. Hie who falls to see God in our history fails to read our history aright. The time of Columbus and Cabot was about that of Luther, Knox and Calvin. The discovery America was contemporaneous with the formation. When the formative period of our history had been passed, when this coun-try had emerged through the trial of fire and blood of the awful civil war, the isolation that had characterized its earlier history had disappeared, and it was in close contact with the most enlightened nations of the arth. Gladstone has said that America holds the key to the world's history. So it does. It is a power in the commercial world. It is in the best missionary position for evangelizing the world. When the spread of the gospel ceases, when this land of ours becomes Christless, its doom will be sealed and will go down under a load of materialism. "One hundred years ago the church in the ast was sending its missionaries to the fron ier, which was then located about the head waters of the Ohio river. Fifty years ago the frontier had moved westward to nearer this locality. Twenty-five years ago the mis sionaries who went out to the frontier were sent to the Rocky mountains and beyond Now there is no frontier. Gradually pushed westward, it has disappeared altogether. Now there is as much missionary work in the east as in the west. Today nearly every netropolitan pastor is compelled to be a city alssionary. There is no greater missionary field in the world today than in our great cities. They are the stormcenters of the country. There the vicious and the gather. To the great cities are pressing the discontented classes of this and other na-tions and there is where the church must do its great missionary work today."

MORMONISM A DISGRACE. Dr. Niccols spoke briefly of the missionary ork among the Mexicans, the Mormons, th foreign immigrants and "the mountain whites" of the south. He spoke of Mormon ism as a disgrace to the nation and termed its marital practices as a bold affront to mor In speaking of the work among that peculiar class of southerners, "the mountain whites," he said their condition was almost pathetic. Sprung from parentage that had borne a noble part in the revolutionary war and participated in the war of the rebellion, these people, he de-clared, were today estranged to all forms of civilization and Christianity and were in sore need of missionaries. Among all these classes, Dr. Niccols said, the missionary's work compared favorably with that related in the Acts of the Apostles. During the last year over $700,000 had been spent by the board he represented in the work of home missions, and 1,824 missionaries had been supported. There was more work to be done in the future, and with the evident return of prosperity he believed greater contributions should come into the board's treasury luring the coming year.

After the hearty singing of "God Bless Our Native Land" by the congregation, Dr. John Gillespie of New York was introduced, and for thirty minutes spoke eloquently of the needs of the foreign missions of the Presbyterian church. He said that Voltaire had once remarked that an educated man was one who was not willing to survey the universe from his own parish belfry. So he thought with regard to missions—it required a very broad view to comprehend the field. He said there was no adequate belfry which did not have its center in Gethsemane. OPPOSITION IN INDIA.

Dr. Gillespie then spoke of the opposition the Christian misisonaries encountered, especially in India. The opposition of the cults, the maintenance of colleges in India attended by over 1,000 pupils teaching neo-mohametism brought up to the needs of the nineteenth were present from thoughout the state. Mrs century, were all cited to show the activity of D. B. Perry of Crete presided, and the open taught by the Christian misisonaries.

NEW MODERATOR ELECTED. Yesterday morning the time of the synod was entirely devoted to routine matters, including reports from the various departments of work which were referred to the committees. After the devotional exercises which opened the session Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. of Bellevue was elected moderator to succeed Rev. Sloan. Thomas Darnell of Lin-coln and Rev. W. R. Williams of Pawnee City were elected clerks. The reception of reports occupied the time until 11 o'clock, when Rev. W. P. Kane, D.D., of Blocomington delivered an address on "College Aid." This was more properly a report of the work of the Board of Aid and afforded some interesting information in regard to what had been accomplished by this branch of the general work of the church. Rev. Kane stated in introduction that the published ac-counts of the financial difficulties of the board had been materially exaggerated and that while i had encountered some disasters there was never more reason for satisfaction with the past or a brighter outlook for the future than at the present time. The speaker briefly sketched the history of the origin and development of the work and said that during the fourteen years that the board had been in existence it had assisted fifty-seven institutions, scattered through twenty-four states and territories.

The Satisfactory Store.

WE want you to know this as the satisfactory store. We want you to associate it with all that is fair and honorable and pleasant and satisfactory and good. We want you to feel that every single dollar you spend at "The Nebraska" will be well spent. In these days of many-sided merchandising there should be satisfaction in trading at a store where you don't need to be sharp. There should be comfort in knowing that there is one store where you can trade safely even with your eyes closed. We want to be known as such a store, We know there are thousands who want to trade at such a store and we mean to fasten them to The Nebraska with bonds of mutual satisfaction and good faith. Today, our fourth day in the new store, finds us much better prepared to greet our friends. New goods are being opened hourly and every department is in better shape. Such of our friends as have not yet called on us will find one of the pleasantest stores in the world. Pleasant to look at, pleasant to trade at, pleasant to keep in mind.

Loyal to the Ticket. A fair crowd attended the regular meeting of the Third Ward Republican club last night at its hall. Thirteenth and Dodge night at its hall. Thirteenth and Dodge streets. The matter of the exposition management was discussed and dissatisfaction was expressed with its methods of operation. Considerable feeling is prevalent among the members regarding the action of the county central committee in throwing out their delegation. This will not be allowed to interfere, however, with the harmony of their action, and the whole republican ticket will be endorsed by them and the cooperation of their membership of 2% itames will be piedged. A list of well known speakers will be provided for the meeting next Wednesday and a large crowd is expected.

Qualifications of Electors. OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 13.—To the Editor of The Bee: Owing to the fact that I am not The Bee: Owing to the fact that I am not familiar with the election laws of Nebraska, I write for information in regard to the same. I came to Omaha May 7 at 320 p. m. and have resided here since that date. On November 2 at 3:30 p. m. I will be here 180 days or six months. What I want to know is, Will I hava a legal right to vote on November 2? Some teil me I can't vote because I will not become a citizen in time to register. Please answer in The Bee. W. C. M'C.

Ans—Under the election law of Nebraska six months residence within the state makes a man an elector if he has the other requisite qualifications. If he is an elector on the day of election he is entitled to vote The case cited is similar to that of the man who becomes 21 years of age on election day, and is thereby enabled to cast his first vote at the election.
