

We've Been Soak Planning a Summer

When the sun's rays were at the hottest we were preparing for cool and cold days. We were first to pick and buy and to have made for us special novelties. If your desire is to see the only really new productions then we'd like to show you these cloaks and capes.

We are agents for McCall's Patterns—10c and 15c.

FABRICS FOR TAILOR MADE SUITS.

We have just received two qualities of these scarce goods, and if you want them you must come quick, as the colors are choice and the quantities are small.

CLOAKINGS Don't despair if you can't find a cloak that suits you—have one made just as you want it.

We have a large line of novelty cloaks—ings that were bought to please—and will save you money besides.

NEW BLACK DRESS GOODS

We have just received a beautiful line of fancy all wool dress goods to retail at 75c.

FANCY NECKWEAR

We have been waiting for neckwear arrived and we are now prepared to show you of the finest and most complete lines in the city.

UNDERWEAR

Misses' ribbed Union suits in sizes from 3 to 6 at 25c each.

ADULT WEAR

Ladies' heavy fleeced vests—finished collars—$1.00.

RIBBONS

A special lot of four-inch moire taffeta silk ribbons, black, white and all colors at 25c per yard.

ROANOKE

In light, medium and dark SUITINGS colors. When made up they have very much the same effect as a wool material.

LINES

The easy duty linen stock is melting away, lots that were hurried through to escape higher tariff prices will soon be yours or somebody's.

HOSIERY

We have a very good heavy cotton hose for boys with a three-thread knee, three-thread foot and four-thread heel and toe, made from selected long staple domestic cotton, only 25c a pair.

THOMPSON, BELDEN & CO.

ent points of view the commission united in declaring that a level spot just north of the Nebraska building and nearly on a line with it was the most suitable site for the Illinois building.

an exhibit that could not be equalled by any other state.

President Wattles called on Manager Rosewater, who said he wished to make acknowledgment in the name of the people of Nebraska for the excellent and royal treatment which the people of Chicago and the legislature of the state had extended to the delegation which visited Illinois during the last six months and had been greatly pleased to see the manner in which the people of Illinois had received the delegation.

WATTLES EXTENDS A WELCOME. President Wattles of the Transmississippi Exposition called on the delegation to the Illinois building and welcomed the visitors to the city in a short business-like talk.

After this question was disposed of the party mounted the coaches and were shown over the north tower of the exposition through this Twenty-fourth street, from where the return trip was made to the hotel.

At 2 o'clock the entire party of visitors, together with a number of the exposition directors, sat down to a dinner in the private dining room at the Millard. A most delicious and dainty repast was served, and over the coffee and cigars the hosts and guests exchanged compliments, mixed with matters of local business.

President Wattles of the Transmississippi Exposition called on the delegation to the Illinois building and welcomed the visitors to the city in a short business-like talk.

After this question was disposed of the party mounted the coaches and were shown over the north tower of the exposition through this Twenty-fourth street, from where the return trip was made to the hotel.

At 2 o'clock the entire party of visitors, together with a number of the exposition directors, sat down to a dinner in the private dining room at the Millard. A most delicious and dainty repast was served, and over the coffee and cigars the hosts and guests exchanged compliments, mixed with matters of local business.

WATTLES EXTENDS A WELCOME. President Wattles of the Transmississippi Exposition called on the delegation to the Illinois building and welcomed the visitors to the city in a short business-like talk.

After this question was disposed of the party mounted the coaches and were shown over the north tower of the exposition through this Twenty-fourth street, from where the return trip was made to the hotel.

At 2 o'clock the entire party of visitors, together with a number of the exposition directors, sat down to a dinner in the private dining room at the Millard. A most delicious and dainty repast was served, and over the coffee and cigars the hosts and guests exchanged compliments, mixed with matters of local business.

WATTLES EXTENDS A WELCOME. President Wattles of the Transmississippi Exposition called on the delegation to the Illinois building and welcomed the visitors to the city in a short business-like talk.

After this question was disposed of the party mounted the coaches and were shown over the north tower of the exposition through this Twenty-fourth street, from where the return trip was made to the hotel.

At 2 o'clock the entire party of visitors, together with a number of the exposition directors, sat down to a dinner in the private dining room at the Millard. A most delicious and dainty repast was served, and over the coffee and cigars the hosts and guests exchanged compliments, mixed with matters of local business.

WATTLES EXTENDS A WELCOME. President Wattles of the Transmississippi Exposition called on the delegation to the Illinois building and welcomed the visitors to the city in a short business-like talk.

After this question was disposed of the party mounted the coaches and were shown over the north tower of the exposition through this Twenty-fourth street, from where the return trip was made to the hotel.

At 2 o'clock the entire party of visitors, together with a number of the exposition directors, sat down to a dinner in the private dining room at the Millard. A most delicious and dainty repast was served, and over the coffee and cigars the hosts and guests exchanged compliments, mixed with matters of local business.

WATTLES EXTENDS A WELCOME. President Wattles of the Transmississippi Exposition called on the delegation to the Illinois building and welcomed the visitors to the city in a short business-like talk.

After this question was disposed of the party mounted the coaches and were shown over the north tower of the exposition through this Twenty-fourth street, from where the return trip was made to the hotel.

At 2 o'clock the entire party of visitors, together with a number of the exposition directors, sat down to a dinner in the private dining room at the Millard. A most delicious and dainty repast was served, and over the coffee and cigars the hosts and guests exchanged compliments, mixed with matters of local business.

ARGUE BROATCH-MOORESCASE

Matter Finally Submitted to the Supreme Court for Decision.

FOLLOW LINES OF THE PRINTED BRIEF

State Board of Transportation is Enjoined from Enforcing a Lower Rate on Express Companies in Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Oct. 20.—(Special Telegram)—The case of Broatch against Moore was submitted to the supreme court this morning.

Attorneys Sheehan and Wright making the argument for Broatch and Attorneys Boucher and Wharton for Moore. The argument of the latter was on the line of the brief submitted yesterday.

The State Board of Transportation has been enjoined from preventing the action of the case brought against the express companies. The case was originally brought on the complaint of F. Q. Feitz that the rates were 33 1/2 per cent too high. Today A. R. Talbot, attorney for the Pacific Express company, secured an injunction in district court and notices were served on the members of the board and the secretaries. They are required to answer on or before November 22.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

The brief in a case of much interest to banks and county treasurers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the attorneys for Benjamin D. Mills, president of the State Republican Club. The case was originally brought in district court by Harlan county, where Mills was charged with aiding and abetting the treasurer of the county in embezzling the county funds. The jury brought in a verdict that Mills was guilty of embezzling $8,000, and he was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. A new trial was asked for and refused, and the case was appealed to the supreme court on numerous specifications of error.

MR. J. D. BUTLER, GEORGE M. ENTEN, V. W. MORRAN, AUGUST MEYER.

S. WRIGHT BUTLER ON MEN'S CLUBS.

CONGREGATIONALISTS AT YORK WHY

YORK, Neb., Oct. 20.—(Special)—The Congregational association yesterday afternoon the discussion of the relations of associations and congregations elicited quite a diversity of ideas, which were warmly presented by their respective champions. M. W. Morse and H. A. French opened the discussion and a general participation followed.

The evening session was taken up with a missionary address by A. N. Hitchcock, western field secretary of the American Board of Christian Missions. The address was of foreign mission, from the attacks of those who are inclined to regard the foreign field as without the scope of the work of the church. He said that he would like to hit with his audience when he compared the attitude of some church members toward foreign missions with that of the men who were here to-day in the city of Omaha.

The opinion that the people have of that matter was that it was a "futile remark." "Is that either way," he asked, "is it a very much mistaken regarding the moral and spiritual condition of St. Louis."

The great work that was being accomplished by the workers in the heathen lands. The spread of Christianity in China, India, Persia and other Asiatic countries, as well as two of the most important of our day, is remarkable. Even the priests of Hindooism are acknowledging the religion of Christ by sending their boys to the mission schools and by converting to the Christian religion.

The business session this morning was devoted to the report of the executive committee. P. C. Taylor was elected as a delegate to the national council of Congregational churches, which is to be held at Denver at the month of South Dakota. The report was read by the secretary, and a lively discussion over the place of holding the next state meeting, David City and Franklin were candidates, and the supporters of each were present.

The vote resulted in the selection of David City.

The report of the finance committee embodied the important recommendations to the local churches of the state. They are as follows:

1. That the local association which is in arrears be urged to settle its account within each year, paying one-third of the amount due at least the second third of the year, and the balance at the end of the year, and more if possible; and that such associations as have not paid in full the first third due the last year be urged to pay such balance this year in addition to the second installment.

2. That to the duties of the finance committee be added those of considering any claims for compensation for their services, as usual.

3. That the stated clerk be allowed $100 as compensation for his services, as usual.

4. That the assessment for the coming year be made on the basis of the last year's contribution, and that the entire amount be paid in full at the end of the year.

The address on men's clubs and Sunday evening services, which was to have been given yesterday, was given at this morning's meeting by Mr. Butler.

The doctor gave his experiences with the club which he organized among the men of his church some time ago. This club, by the way, is the only one of its kind in the city.

After a short address on men's clubs, the meeting adjourned until the evening of the 22nd.

Books in the Safe Endangered.

DAKOTA CITY, Neb., Oct. 20.—(Special)—The state of the Dakota County Abstract company, which went through the fire of the night of the 19th, has been found to be in a very bad way.

The contents were found well preserved, and the only damage suffered was to the binding of the books.

New Enterprises at Juniata.

JUNIATA, Neb., Oct. 20.—(Special)—Juniata has a new grocery firm, a new meat market, a new wagon and implement firm, a new hardware and tin shop, and a new real estate office.

Work on the Asylum Wing.

HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 20.—(Special)—The work on the new wing at the asylum is being pushed along to the satisfaction of the board of trustees.

Bound Over for Trial.

BLOOMINGTON, Neb., Oct. 20.—(Special)—In the county court yesterday C. Lundberg was bound over to the district court for trial on a charge of larceny.

Nebraska News Notes.

The Stromberg schools have been closed on account of scarlet fever.

The mayor of Lexington has notified the owners of slot machines that they can no longer be operated in the city.

There isn't an idle man in Gordon except for choice. All have work who will work.

John Deere of Hardy had the misfortune to burn up his chicken house while attempting to rid it of vermin.

At a special meeting of the Holt and Boyd county commissioners Wednesday the contract for the bridge at Badger was let for $175,000.