Severe Drouth in fouch Dakota Caure Stockmen Much Uneasiness.

SMALL STREAMS ON RESERVATIONS DRY

Even the Rivers Contain Very Little Water-Interferes with Cattlemen and Compels the Benver to Move.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., Oct. 21.-(Special.) -The severe drouth that has prevailed almost steelily for the last two months is beginning to cause the stockmen on the ceded Sioux lands much inconvenience. Nextly all the water holes on the side creeks lave dried up and the cattle are forced to remain along the rivers, which are also rapidly drying up. Bad river, except Arrangements for the Funeral Now for an occasional water hole, is dry its entire length, and While river, above the same condition.

In Bad river there are hundreds of beavers, which have increased targety in numbers during the past three years under the proping a killing them. The legislators that therefore prove of great benefit to stock, but this fall many of the reservoirs have become nere beds of mud, and the entrances to their caches, which are usually onderneath several feet of water, are now fully exposed. Every summer these industrious little enluais out down cords upon cords of green rettonwood and stere it away for winter use. They usually select small suplings. Com one to eight inches in small suplines. Com one to eight inches in diameter, but when this claus of timber has been killed by prairie fires or for some other reason cannot be obtained, they cut down trees of any size, it being no uncommon thing to see the stumps of trees from one to three feet through, that have from one to three feet through little creatry s. When the large trees are fallen, the beavers trim off and carry away the branches, leaving the truck lying upon the ground. When suplings are cut down the deavers first trim off the branches as nearly as if done by a skilled wood chopper, then graw off the main stock into lengths of about two or three feet, and carry it all into their caches. During the winter they into their caches. During the winter they suisist upon the bark and tender twigs, and carry the pealed sticks out into the ponds 22 of washed away by the spring freshets.

SCOTT MUST SHOW CAUSE

Great Enjoiner of Everybody is Himself Now Enjoined.

CITED TO APPEAR BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Gets a Taste of His Own Medicine and Is Restrained from Issuing More Injunctions in the Hespeler Case.

Judge C. R. Scott, who has been dealing quite extensively of late in the injunction business in various forms, has been given a dose of his own medicine by the supreme court of this state. Yesterday Judge Scott was served with writ of injunction issued from this high tribunal, enjoining him from doing certain things and citing him to appear before the supreme court on November 3 to show cause why he should not be permanently restrained and entitled. Judge Scott stepped on the toes of the supreme court in the action he has been taking in the cose of Regina Morrow against William O. Gilbert, administrator of the estate of Emily Hespeler, deceased. On two or three occasions in the last few weeks property of the Hespeler estate to satisfy a judgment secured in the district court, airough the case was appealed to the supreme During the last court vacation Judge Scott. although the case was not on his docket, issued a writ of execution ordering the therin' to sell the property. As soon as this proceeding became known to Administrator appealed to Judge Baker, who had charge of Judge Powell's docket, on which the case appeared. Judge Baker ordered the recall of the writ of execution and then fol-lowed the interchange of compliments be-tween Judges Palesco tween Judges Baker and Scott in the form of orders, countermanding each other's in-structions, which finally culminated in the arrest and arraignment before Judge Baker of the entire sheriff's corps for contempt of court. They secured their release only by giving up the writ of execution. BEFORE THE SUPREME COURT. Although he had no writ but an order to obey Judge Scott, Deputy Sheriff Lewis went ahead with the sale and did sell it. Administrator Gilbert at once brought the matter before Judge Powell, who entered an order setting the sale aside. At about the same time the atterneys for Regina Morrow filed a mation before Judge Scott that the sale a motion before Judge Scott that the sale be confirmed.

The hearing on the motion occurred before Judge Scott last Saturday. It was decidedly interesting. Judge Scott disbarred Administrator Gilbert from practicing in his court for six months, said he would disbar Judge Baker if he could reach him and spoke in a pitying way of Judge Powell. He then made a verbal order, setting aside Judge Powell's order and ordering the sale to be

OLD POLICEMEN TO GO 'ON DUTY.

Commissioners Obey the Order Issued by Judge Scott. According to the order made by Judge Scott, by 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners reinstated the sixteen policemen discharged on September 30, to reduce expenses. The reinstatement has been delayed, the members of the board trying to discover some way of carrying the case to the supreme court before the order went into effect, but they failed to find any suitable plan.
Yesterday a motion for a new trial in the case was filed in the district court. The commissioners charge error as the grounds of the motion, particularly in that the court allowed Commissioner Gregory to testify over objections and then would not permit the other commissioners to do so. The juristhe board to reinstate the men is questioned This motion will be heard by Judge Scott some time in the near future. When it is overruled the case will be taken to the supreme court.

Both in the city It was learned that Kulakofsky left the place shortly after 9 o'clock Wednesday night. He asserts that he went directly to his home, about half a block away, and remained there until he was called out of bed by the alarm of fire. There was no one in the store at the time the fire broke out. The doors were found locked, and this was also true of the wirdows, but a trap door which leads from the main floor to the basement was found unfartened. The proprietor stated that he was making alterations in the basement for the purpose of putting in a meat market, and that the door leading to the lower floor had been left open. It was through the outside basement door and by way of the trap door that the firebug evidently gained an entirely new registrates and that this is an entirely new registrates and that this sensational legal praceedings in the case. He had many patrons in the neighb rhood, and consequently, was forced to purchase a new localiton in order to continue in business. In view of the fact that the opposition firm rented all vacant buildings in the vicinity the Gilinsky store was purchased. Kulakońsky gave $3,200 as the purchase price. In order to do so he was obliged to mortging for $1,400 with a local trust company. About the same time he took out an insurance of $1,200 on stock, $200 on fixtures and $1,000 on the building.
