Confined Transactions Largely Professional Operators.

MOST DEALERS PREFER THE BEAR SIDE

No Important Changes in the Prices Stocks Are Noticeable-Few Care to Risk Large Sales,

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.-Henry Clews, head of the banking house of Henry Clews &

We have had another ragged week in Wall street, though with no important net change in the prices of stocks. Transactions have been confined very largely to professional operators, most of whom, for the moment, seem to prefer the "bear" side as best suited to the current mood of operators. One feature in the operations of the pessimists deserves attention as a significant symptom. They do not care to risk large sales and refrain from anything approaching an oversoid condition of the market. There is reason for his, as there are still "bulls" whose interests are large enough to induce them to make reprisals upon a "short" interest big enough to make it worth the powder.

It worth the powder.

The condition of the market is a natural result of the happenings of the last three weeks. The great realizings of influential operators have produced a timid feeling, which, in spite of the conviction that the prices of stocks are intrinsically moderate, causes hesitation and the postponement of buying. Many operators are discouraged and enfeebled at the loss of their previous profits; and, beyond the continuance of the recovery of business and the increase of railroad earnings, there are no new elerecovery of business and the increase of railroad carnings, there are no new elements to revive "bull" enthusiasm. Moreover, there have been causes for the deferment of operations, which have appealed to the "bulls." great and small, perhaps especially to the former. The election has been a diverse element, and some people have been led to think that its result may have an effect upon confidence in financial interests. The new phase of the Cuban question has given occasion for new fears that we might be drawn into serious emprollments with Spain. Some have attached have an effect upon confidence in financial interests. The new phase of the Cubin question has given occasion for new fears that we might be drawn into serious embroilments with Spain. Some have attached an undue influence to the Nebraska rail-road suit, although it directly concerns only state inverses. Others have looked with mistrust to the opening of congress, though just for what reasons has not been made clear. In rone of these things has there been any sufficient ground for real apprehension, but, put together, they have sufficed in the late timid and unsettled state of the market, to afford an excuse for the deferment of transactions. Large opera ors, however convinced that values are on a scale that would admit of an upward movement, are naturally always disposed to start a campaign in the presence of a cloud on the horizon, though it may be no bigger than a man's hand, and especially when there is, as it present, an absence of any new inspiration. Thus it has easily come to pass that we have had a spiritless and neglected market for the last three weeks, and the "bears" have not been slow to turn it to account. This, however, is bur a natural after-phase of a great realizing movement, and it takes time to recover from the effects of such a reaction.

The recent drift of the market has, however, shown more recuperative force than is generally acknowledged. In our financial review of two weeks ago it was shown that prices at that time averaged twelve and one-quarter points below the highest figures of September 17, when values were at the highest. The following list of the same stocks, showing the highest prices on September 17 and the lowest on October 27, will indicate he change that has occurred within the last two weeks:

Sept. 17. Oct. 27. Decline.

ntral of New Jersey. 101\(\frac{3}{2}\) Sept. 17.

The present average decline in twenty stocks since September 17 is 8½ points; and as the fall on October 13 was 12½, it follows that, within the last two weeks, there has been an average recovery of 4 points. This has happened pending a dull and unhopeful condition of the market and therefore has been little noticed; but it is not the less a fact; and it shows that, through all the late prevailing misgivings, there has been a substantial recovery going forward.

Conditions appear to be drifting gradually Conditions appear to be drifting gradually toward further recovery, though the movement may be gradual and attended with considerable irregularity in prices. The sentimental influences we have noted as having held the market in timid suspense for the last three weeks are becoming state and losting their effect. The result of the election, whichever way it may go, is not expected to produce anything more than a slight temporary flurry. The misgivings in respect to the opening of congress are so intangible or imaginary that no one cares to mention them as a serious factor affecting securities; and the feeling resolves itself into one of curiosity rather than anxiety. The yellow fever is now a measured quantical content of the security of the securities of the security of the securities. Becurities; and the feeling resolves itself into one of curiosity rather than anxiety. The yellow fever is now a measured quantity, affecting a few railroads, but of no general importance, and verging toward extinction by the approach of the period of frost. The great financial settlement connected with the Union Pacific railroad, which has been looked to as possibly involving a sharp disturbance in the money market, it is now found will be disposed of without any such inconvenience, and the final net increase of cash in the treasury will not exceed $2,000,000. The decision on the Nebraska case has been postponed, it is supposed until after the elections; from which it is inferred that the verdict of the court will be in favor of the railroads. The latest developments in the Cuban situation are, taken as a whole, construed favorably. The text of the reply of the Spanish government to Minister Woodford's representations has not been made public, and apparently is not likely to be published until the document is presented to congress. From such press reports as have come from Madrid—which, however, were based upon the first draft of the reply and not on the final document—it seems probable that the answer is firm and candid, yet courteous and moderate in tone and contains important explanations as to the political reforms which, it is proposed to intains important explanations as to the courteous and moderate in tone and contains important explanations as to the political reforms which it is proposed to introduce immediately in Cuba. The statements just made by the Spanish minister at Washington, however, are more authoritative than foreign press surmises; and it is to be supposed that they harmonize with the spirit of the reply of his government to Mr. Woodford. His explicit statements as to the system of local government, which it is proposed to grant to Cuba, are very important and have produced here a more favorable impression as to the disposition of the home government to deal liberally with the colony than anything that has yet been forthcoming from Spain. The terms offer more to the Cubans than the conservative cabinet has ever tendered, if not as much as the colonists could reasonably expect. This is an attitude which the American people will respect and with which they are already much gratified, as suggesting new possibilities of a settlement of this harassing question. It is possible that some time may elapse before the Cubans can be brought to accept anything short of absolute independence; but so long as our government sees Spain willing to grant a really large measure of sci-rule, it is not likely to be unreasonable in allowing a due interval for inaugurating the proposed new order of things. From these new developments it is fairly inferable that the next step in our relations with Spain will be to assume a waiting attitude rather than next step in our relations with Spain will be to assume a waiting attitude rather than a hastening policy which might precipitate needless quarrel. This question is therefore likely to become less acute in its bearings on Wall Street interests than it has recently been.

CONDITION OF NEW YORK BANKS

Three Institutions Show Big Loan Inerease_Others Unchanged. NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Financier The bank statement for the week can be interpreted to mean what the totals the loan and deposit items reflects actua transactions, which have involved only one or two of the largest banks. The loan increase of $5,625,100 for the week is covered by the expansion reported by three banks, laving the total of the other sixty-three clearing house banks practically unc anged. What the increase will be is rather difficult to determine, but it is perhaps connected with the loans on sterling bills in this market and by domestic inquiry for funds. The increase in the deposits of one bank alone has been $5.961,100, which is of itself larger than the aggregate change for the week, or, to put the matter in another way, the deposits of fithe remaining banks have fallen off since October 23. The expansion in loans accounts for part of the deposit increase, but the banks, despite the heavier reserve called for through the swelling detransactions, which have invoived only one

CHICAGO GRAY AND PROVISIONS

Prices on Saturday. CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Wheat was very bres ular today within a range of 156. May has harrowed its discount to 25c under Deman record its discount to 25c under December. The features of the session were the charging from December to May and heavy buying by Allen and Grier. The close was strong at a net gain of $\frac{1}{2}$c for May. Corn, oats and provisions all closed at a slight net gain compared with last night.

Wheat was quiet for an hour, except that there was a temporary decline in December in the first lifteen minutes of the market from the price it touched at the start. May in the same time varied only $\frac{1}{2}$c. The first indes in both were at from $\frac{1}{2}$c. The first indes in both were at from $\frac{1}{2}$c. The Liverpool market; was not as weak as might have been expected from the news that was cabled there of the heaviness with which this market closed. It closed $\frac{1}{2}$d lower for the day for near deliveries and $\frac{1}{2}$d lower for May. The chief reason, however, for the market here showing the recovery it did at the start was the publication of the heavy exports of wheat and flour to Europe from the $\frac{1}{2}$ file, week's clearances from both coasts being $\frac{1}{2}$ $\fr The features of the session wer he changing from December to May and Provisions were easy early on commission house selling of pork. They closed steadler with eorn and on some reported export demand for lard. Receipts in hogs were large and prices at the yards were 5400c lower, but to offset this were advices from the south stating that cooler weather had set in, a factor that will naturally increase speculation in time. December pork opened at $1.50, eased off early under selling by the country to $7.4047.42, but gradually reacted to $7.52, which was the price at the close. December lard opened at $4.124, sold up to $4.15, and those figures covered the entire range in prices. December ribs held steady at $4.424.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Money is temporarily plentiful and as a result the rates show a icknowned tendency. The sales of Ameri-can securities have ceased and it is exdewnward tendency. The sales of American securities have ceased and it is expected that London will have to settle the adverse trade balance in builton, although large gold withdrawais are not expected. Since the raising of the bank rate the demand for gold has been confined to the open market. The refusal of the large banks to take bille at less than 3 per cent keeps discount rates at this figure. Short loans are freely offered at from 24 per cent to 2½ per cent. The markets were ill in the early part of the week, because of the settlements, and toward the end the movements were more cheefful. Home railway securities improved through the more favorable reports as to the engineering strikes. American fabray securities were depressed until yesterday, failing from 1 to 2½ per cent. Union Pacific shares were largely sold on the report that the sale of to 2½ per cent. Union Pacific shares were largely so'd on the report that the sale of the line would be postponed and they d'd not recover much because it was presumed that the higher price to be paid would damage the shareholders. CHICAGO. Oct. 30.—The cattle market closed 19515c higher than a week ago, with the demand considerably improved. The widespread drouth in the farming sections has caused many cattle to be put on full feed much earlier than usual. This will result in an early marketing of fat cattle and liberal receipts are looked for. Prices rule as follows: Extra steers, $5.25 to $5.40. choice steers, $5.00 to $5.20; good steers, $4.75 to $4.95; medium steers, $4.50 to $4.70; common to good stockers, $3.00 to $5.25; holice to extra $3.50 to $4.90; heifers, choice to prime, $3.50 to $4.90; cows and heifers, good to choice, $4.55 to $4.90; cows and heifers, good to choice, $4.55 to $4.70; calves, choice to fancy, $5.25 to $5.75; Texas steers, fair to choice, $3.35 to $4.50. To $4.30; heifers, good to choice, $4.55 to $4.77; calves, choice to fancy, $5.25 to $5.75; Texas steers, fair to choice, $3.35 to $4.90.

Today brought the week's receipts of hogs up to the enormous number of 220,000 head, against 17,000 head last week. Today's trade was fairly active at a further decline of 56910c, prices closing about 25935c lower than a week ago. Receipts are expected to continue liberal and owners are generally looked for. Fair to choice, $3.45 to $3.50; heavy picking lots, $3.15 to $3.50. common to choice, $3.45 to $3.70; common to good light, $3.60 to $3.70; common to good light, $3.60 to $3.70; common to $4.50 pigs, $2.75 to $3.70; cuils, $4.50 to $3.50. rived through payment by weight. The pastal cars having farry feet of clear inserspace cost the government $25 per mile pannum. The postal car mest commonly use is the fifty-foot car, and that costs sper mile per annum. For cars larger that this there is a sliding scale, increasing a the increased length of the car. (2) The postal service is not be fesuporting. It lies not been since the Z-cent postage came increased to the common of the car. (3) The not been since the Z-cent postage came in effect. The deficit is occasioned by the tremendous amount of second-class matter handled. (3) Some years ago, who the Z-cent postage was in operation a sile it surplus was exhibited in the postal department.
