Agricultural Department Will Give Its Show an Educational Turn.

FIBROUS PLANTS TO BE GIVEN PROMINENCE

Government Exhibit Will Contain an Element of Especial Interest to the Farmers of the West.

The Department of Agriculture is endeavthe decartment and the exposition may work together in carrying out a scheme for an exwhich is in charge of investigations which are being carried on to demonstrate the commercial practicability of raising this class of plants, and the special agent of the department in charge of this bureau has written to President Wattles to suggest means by which this industry may be made a prominent feature of the Transmississippi Exposition.

Charles Richards Dodge is the agent in charge of the investigations being made by the Agricultural department and he says that the cultivation of fibrous plants has not re-ceived the attention in this country which its importance merits. He is anxious to bring about an exhibit at Omaha which shall show to the farmers of the west the great importance of this character of crop and con-vince them that it will be to their interest to undertake its cultivation.

Mr. Dodge says he has consulted with Secretary Wilson regarding an exhibit of this nature by the Agriculture department as a part of the government exhibit and the secretary has consented that a portion of the money silotted to that department be used for this purpose. It is pro-Government building an exhibit of the different varieties of hemp and flax raised in all parts of the world.

It is proposed by Mr. Dodge that the ex-position management have in the Agriculture building an exhibit of machines for cultivating and harvesting flax, hemp and ramie, together with exhibits of the raw maial. He states that with the assistance the Bureau of Fiber Investigations of the Agricultural department the manufacturers of these products in this country can be induced to make extensive exhibits and he suggests that such an exhibit would also afford the department the opportunity which it has long sought to test the comparative merits of the various kinds of machines Mr. Dodge says in his letter: "The never was a time when the interest in fiber growth was attracting more attention and next year, of all years, will be a crucial one so that much good can be accomplished by holding such a fiber meeting as I have suggested and by having such a valuable series of fiber and machines on exhibition of

This matter will be taken up for consideration by the executive committee and some arrangements will undoubtedly be made for bringing about some such plan as is suggested by Mr. Dodge. The adaptability of the soil of the west to the cultivation of this variety of product has been recognized for some time, but no systematic attempt has yet been made to acquaint the farmers of the west with the value of the plants and the methods of cultivation. Considerable difficulty has also been experienced in getting proper machinery for the cultivation and treating of the crop and the aim of the Agri-cultural department is to encourage the manufacture of improved machinery for

Nebraska Commission's Meeting. The Nebraska Exposition commission will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting at its new headquarters in the Millard hotel this evening at 8 o'clock. The most important business to be transacted by the commission will be the awarding of contracts for the roofing, olumbing and plastering of the state building. The Nebraska building is progressing rapidly, the trusses of the octagonal dome being nearly all in place. As soon as these are secured the covering will be put on the come and it is expected that the cutire building will be enclosed by the middle of next The small corner domes are nearly finished and little carpenter work remains t be done on the outside of the building.

Exposition Electment Suit Settled. The case of the Transmississippi Exposition association against Henry Blitzner, who was charged with occupying one of the cottages on the exposition grounds without few minutes, taking the crowd direct to the permission, and against whom ejectment proceedings were brought in the county court, has been settled. An agreement between the exposition people and Biltzner was reached yesterday, by which the

STRIKE DELAYS THE WORK

Commissioners Hold a Conference Construction at Exposition Grounds Hampered by Labor Troubles.

LIBERAL ARTS BULDING IS LAGGING

Contractor Parrish Says He Has All the Men He Needs, But the Exposition Managers Are Getting Anxious.

The strike of the carpenters employed on the Liberal Arts building is having a very marked effect on that building, and work on it is practically at a standstill. About fifmade. According to a competent authority there are only two men at work on this building aside from the contractor and his foreman who know anything about practical carpenter work, and the result is that construction work is at a standstill.

Notwithstanding the fact that the gates are all locked, with the exception of the one at Shermen avenue and Pinckney street and a man is on guard there to keep out all persons not having business on the grounds, there were about thirty striking carpenters and the strike committee appointed some Roswell Stevens of Providence, R. I., has time ago by the Carpenters' union standing applied for space for showing a number of about the Liberal Arts building all yesterday. These men made no atempt to interfere with the men employed on the building or to go near them, but they stood near the building in small groups and made annoying re-marks about the men who were trying to work. They twitted the men in various ways and laughed loudly when their "nagging" made a man so nervous that he dropped his tools, as was frequently the case.

Two policemen were on duty about the building, but the strikers made no attempt at any violence and the policemen said they could not prevent the men from talking.
Under these conditions little or no work is being done on this building and the exposition authorities are getting restless about the matter. They realize that much valuable time is being lost and that radical measures must be adopted at once or the buildings will be seriously delayed.

Contractor Parrish insists, in answer to inquiries, that he has all the men he can handle, and that he is making as good progress es is possible at this etage of construction, but it is known that he has demanded protection at the hands of the exposition at the hands of the exposition at the relations of the exposition at the stage of construction. sition authorities, saying that if he is not protected he cannot carry out his contract. In spite of all that can be done to prevent it, the strikers are turning fully a score of men away from the exposition grounds every day. They stand about the entrances to the grounds and engage in conversation every man who looks as though he was seeking work. By argument and persuasion they induce these men to turn back, and it is only the poorest class of workmen, according to competent authority, who find their way into the grounds and secure employment. These matters have been fully considered $rac{2}{3}$ THE PURITAN is making more circulation and better circulation than any other publication of its grade. It is sweeping forward with cyclonic speed. The Ouritan is preëminently a publication for gentlewomen —for the refined home—the home where art and literature—the best of these and the best of everything—are appreciated.

Hand Warmers

est clothing store, neither do we carry the largest stock. After all, large stores with large stocks benefit no city. They monopolize capital, concentrate labor, and, in general, check progress of a city.

However, we can cope with the demand. No one leaves this store unsuited or unfitted. If we are lacking some on grandeur and style, we are ahead on plainness and good measure. After all, we are a plain store and eatering to plain people, who are not interested in grand stores

We appreciate the patronage of the workingmen and take good care that they appreciate us. We study with care the wants and needs. A pair of overalls here is better than elsewhere; better made, cheaper in price. A suit to a workingman is better here, because a cheaper grade is but a side issue in hig stores and a specialty with us.

Gloves, for instance. No store carries such a variety as we do. You may find here at least fifty kinds. Some for this and some for that kind of usage. Lined, unlined, fleeced, fancy, fur, made of asbestes, horseside, buckskin, calfskin. Some plain and others with some practical patented improvements. And the prices, too, form an interesting variety: Wool mitts at 5c a pair; fleece-lined at 15c; good working gloves at 20c; lined, either plain or knit backs, at 25c. Not one kind of that price, but perhaps a half-dozen of different sorts, as a person may like. Then comes calfskin, extra strong, at 35e; then 40c, 45c, 50c, and along the incline to the very best made.

Splendid warm caps at 20c. Sorry, but here ends the story. This space is filled. Next issue will tell you more about caps and you won't be sorry for knowing it, either.
