May Have a Wolf Hunt.

N. Y. Plumbing company. Tel. 250.

The little skift of snow that has covered the ground since Thanksgiving has brought about a condition of things that reminds old-timers of winters of long ago in this vicinity. For several nights the members of the night police force have been made aware of the presence in the vicinity of the town of what they believed to be wolves. Thursday and Friday nights all doubts were set at rest when Officer Vandenburg stood at the northern end of his patrol beat and listened to the dismal howlings of a pack of wolves that had come down from the vicin-Rig lake. Vandenburg has heavil wolves howl many times in his life, and is able to distinguish the wolfish tone above all other terrestial noises. Officers whose night journeys take them in the southwestern portion of the city, report the same condition of things, and have decided that the chorus of howls that make the last half of the night musical come from a lot of wolves driven close to the city by hunger Yesterday a report came from some of the men engaged in working around Big lake that a number of wolves were seen lurking in the grass in the vicinity during the day. An organized wolf hunt under the auspice

New Lights for the Postoffice.

The government has always complained that there has been entirely too much expense for lighting the federal building and recently decided to make a change in the method. After testing all kinds of lights it was decided to adopt the Weisbach and an order was given yesterday to Stephan Brothers to make the change, and the work will be done at coce. In making the tests all of the incandescent gas burners on the market were tried and the Welsbach was selected on account of the strength of mantel and the small consumpties of gas. From the trials made the government has found that the new burners will give twice the amount of light and save two-thirds of the cost,

LITTLE INTEREST IN ELECTION But Few Names Are Added to the Poll Lists.

It has cost the Manawa Motor company over $500 to secure the addition of less than a dozen names to the poll lists that will be used in Wednesday's election for the purpose of ascertaining if the people of Council Bluffs want to give the railway company the extension of charter contemplated by the ity council last September. Yesterday was the last day of registration, and the twelve different registry offices were kept open until 9 o'clock in the hope that some citizen would make the discovery that his name was not on the regular lists of voters. During the entire three days only one name was added to the list in the First ward, and that name was placed on the books in the First precinct last evening. In the Sec-ond and Third wards there were no additions, and in all of the other precincts the total did not reach ten. The cost for each precinct approximated $15 a day for the hire of the men, the books and other stationery and the rental of the roome; paying for the fuel and o'her incidentals made the cost considerably more. The special election coming so soon after the reguer annual election made it really unnecessary for the opening of the registration offices again, but tion is being held required the observance of all of the forme. The election will occur Wednesday, and the prospects are that the lightest vote ever cast in the city will be counted at the close of the day's ballot-Dg.

Accused Methodist Minister Damages in Court.

SEEKS LEGAL REDRESS FOR HIS WRONGS

Suit for $2,000 Damages Against Persons Who Caused Him to Be Ousted from the Ministry.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Ia., Nov. 27 .-(Special.)-Rev. Peter C. Hogie, formerly of Salem, who was ousted from the ministry after a protracted church trial, has gone into the courts to seek redress for the wrongs he thinks have been done him. He was pastor of the church at Salem when rumore were heard of dissatisfaction with him, which trouble culminated in the filling of charges against him by James T. Bixler, T. B. Randolph, J. S. Marshall and A. C. Hunniout. These charges, filed with Presiding Elder Tuttle of this conference, were brought before the proper church authorities and a trial resuited, which ended in the suspension of Rev. Mr. Hogle from the ministry. He appealed to the conference which met in Oskoloosa in September and the verdict of the jury in the case was affirmed. He then announced his intention of making a further appeal, but this week he resorted to the courts and commenced sult against the persons named above, who made the charges to the presiding elder, claiming the sum of $2,000 damages for pecuniary lose. He also claims that all the charges made were false and that his suspension was unjust. A num-ber of the most prominent Methodist ministers of southwestern Iowa were concerned in the trials of his case.

GLIDDEN, Ia., Nov. 27 .- (Special.) -- Edward Guthbertson, son of a farmer living near here, was killed by a corn crusher this week. While feeding the crusher his arm was caught, and before the machine could be stopped had been ground through the powerful rollers to the shoulder and com-pletely torn from the body. The large muscles of the shoulder, back and side were torn or crushed off along with the arm. The shoulder blade was so badly broken that only small pieces of it could be found. After pulling him as far into the machine as possible the dividing bar caught him just by low the ear and cut a gash in his neck about three inches deep and four inches long. The crushing of the large arteries of the neck and arm is probably all that saved him from bleeding to death at once, but he died during the day.
