Heavy Suit for Damages.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Nov. 29.-(Special Tele gram.)-A sensation was created in Sigourney, Keokuk county, today by the filing of a suit for $50,000 damages against S. W. Brunt, cashler of the Keokuk County State bank, one of the prominent democratic poll-ticians of the state. The suit is brought by P. L. Wood, a preminent citizen, for allegat-ing his wife's affection. Mrs. Wood is a prominent worker in the church and was always highly respected until recently, when her husband sued her for divorce, connect ing her with Brunt and charging them with undue familiarity. A decree of divorce was ness" in the contest for speakership o granted the husband. It is understood that Iowa house and there ought not to be, he and his wife became reconciled and began living together, which was followed by the suit brought today. Not all the creameries in the west are pay-ing properties. The Mead creamery, near Waterloo, which had been in operation for nineteen years, is going out of business. The o-operative creameries have crowded it out of its field.

A Waterloo dispatch states that by actual count there have been 487 new buildings erected thus far in 1897. The greater part of these were residences, but at least a dozen brick blocks are included. Next year we will see a fine seven-story office building on the east eide; also a new hotel and a modern opera house, all cast side projects.

Clinton county has a number of successful women farmers. Among them is Mary Baird of Bryant, who has for many years successfully farmed 160 acres, doing much of the field work herself. Maria Teeple of Baldwin tills her eighty-acre farm, doing the entire work herself. Mrs. Swan of South Grove rung a dairy farm and deals in stock. There are many other Clinton county women who own farms and exercise supervision over the tilling of them.
