Harry Tibke was the first witness called today. He was on the stand last Friday for the defense, but this morning he was called by the state and asked concerning the pass book that Bolln carried, and in which were entered the deposits made in the Citizens bank during his first term. The witness identified the book, having seen it in the bank. None of the entries, however, were made by him, he having been the balance book clerk, through whose hands deposits did not pass. The pass book entries, witness said, were made by W. R. Roberts, cashier

City Attorney Connell said that he had no desire to cross-examine the witness, as the state conceded that this money testified to and been paid to Belln as city treasurer.

The defense did not disclose the purpose of the testimony of Clerk Welshans. Expert countant Doolittle, for the bondsmen however, stated that it was to show that money received by Bolln in the capacity of a private citizen had been charged against the bondsmen, simply for the reason that it had not been accounted for in a settlement with the city. Expert Doolittle was not on the witness stand, however, when he made this statement. Continuing, he said: "These saloon men paid their money over to Bolln and then they applied for over to Bolln and then they applied for their licenses. City Attorney Connell objected to the witness answering, urging that it was an effort to change the terms of a written instrument by the offer of parole evidence. He insisted that it made no difference what the understanding of a bondsmen might be. saying that he expected to show by witness that when he and others signed the Bolin bound there was an understanding that in no event was a bondsman to be Hable for more than the sum set opposite his name. He also said that he expected to show by the witness that there was an understanding among the bondsmen that in the event of rtage upon the part of Bolin each bonds man was to be held for such proportion of the shortage as the amount for which he signed bore to the sum total of the bond.

The bond was for the sum of $1,400,000 Paxton signed for $50,000, and the shortage claimed by the state aggregates some After the ruling of the court the other bondsmen were called as witnesses and each in turn was asked his understanding with reference to the bond. Each man was asked the same question as those propounded to Patton. The same objections were made by City Attorney Connell and the same rulings were made by the court. WETTLING IS RECALLED.

Expert Accountant Wettling was called by the defense and questioned concerning the Board of Education funds that Bolin had on hand in the banks of the city at the end on hand in the banks of the city at the end of his first term as city treasurer. Attorney Mahoney asked the witness in which the alleged surplus of $10,000, referred to during the early stages of the trial, was deposited. To the answering of the question the at-torneys for the city objected, contending that it was immaterial whether or not there was a surplus of board funds, so far as the issues of the case on trial were concerned.

SAYS ADVISORY BOARD HAS GONE TOO FAR

Award of a Lighting Contract Made the Text for a Few Remarks Concerning the Body's Privileges and Duties.

The conflict of authority between the city council and Advisory board figured in a few vigorous expressions of opinion at the general council committee meeting yesterday afternoon. It came up in connection with the new gasoline lighting contract which had been submitted by the Advisory board for the approval of the council, Bechel declared that in advertising for bids and awarding the contract the board had clearly acted outside of its jurisdiction. The charter clearly vested the authority to provide for street lighting with the mayor and council, and it was about time to call a halt. He said that if the council was to be simply a body of automatons, the members might as well meet once a month to pass the appropriation ordinance and leave the rest to the Advisory board.

Before a ruling of the courts was had, the offer was withdrawn, after which Mr. Rush President Bingham said that he fully agreed with Bechel in regard to the main proposition. This was but one of several proposition. cases in which the board had encroached on the authority of the council and it was time to put a stop to it. He suggested, however, that the contract now under consideration contemplated a reduction of fully $5 a lam in the price of the lights. Consequently the ng the contract and readvertising there was every probability that it would be impossible to secure another contract at Bechel stated that he did not wish to be inderstood as wishing to take any such rad ical action in this case, but he contended that from this time on the board should be compelled to remain within its own limits. This view was unanimously endorsed and the council will probably approve the contract with a proviso that its action shall not be considered as an admission that the board had any authority to make it.
