BEASTS, BIRDS AND FISH.

A cat in a Chicago dog hospital had brought up a family of five pupples. Kangaroo tails for soup are shipped from Australia to London, where they sell for $3 per dozen.

In India there is an idea that a lion cannot e induced to attack a prince or any scion of royal family, A man at St. Augustine, Ga., has a mule hat patrols the beach in search of turtles, and when she finds one, turns it upon its back, and goes off for her master.

Some time ago the experiment was made of letting loose at Complegue a swallow belonging to Antwerp, in company with a num-ber of pigeons. The swallow immediately made a bee-line for home, and arrived there n one hour, while the pigeons required three hours. Over 100,000 horses were last year imported into Belgium for food for the poorer classes.

4,000 being killed in Antwerp alone for the twenty shops where this meat is sold exclusively. Large quanities are also sold in Paris, both in open and in disguised form, at heap restaurants. After a long and peculiar illness, a horse belonging to Frank Heinen of Reading, Pa., died the other day, and a postmortem exami-nation revealed that the animal's stomach was partly filled with broken glass, some

There is a certain breed of mice in Japan very sensitive and susceptible to impressions. Under proper conditions these little reatures will whirl like dervishes for hours at a time. They have been taken up by naturalisis when in this condition and held stationary for several minutes, but will in-stantly resume the "whirling" when re-

Chief of Police Angevine of Missoula, Mint., placed Otto Siegel under arrest for maintaining a nuisance. The cause of the rouble is the pet bear that belongs to Siege which has caused so much excitement of late in the neighborhood of the Montana hotel. The latest pronk of the bear was his en-trance on Sunday into the second-story of the lodging house and restaurant occupied the lodging house and restaurant occupied by Harry Shappard. He went upstairs unobserved, and when he got into the sleeping rooms he upset beds and other furniture and tore up bedding. Finally he pulled cown a cage containing two birds and put an end to the inmates of the cage.

Visitors and intimate friends of Mr. Merelith Benegids, who died in Glasgow, N. Y.

dith Regnolds, who died in Glasgow, N. Y., in the year 1891, will recall a large family eat which, during the declining days of this kindly old gentleman, was the recipient of devoted attention from him. After his death the cat seemed to mourn for a short time and then suddenly and mysteriously disapand then suddenly and mysteriously disappeared. As weeks lapsed into months and months into years it was finally given up for lost, and forgotten. Last Friday, while the family of Mr. B. S. Reynolds, who is now occupying the old home, was seated at the dinner table, the cat appeared as suddenly as it left six years before and took up its abode in the house with seemingly no fear or thought of intrusion after such a prolonged absence.

fear or thought of intrusion after such a prolonged absence.

An up-to-date parrot, the pet of the family of Friedrich Mahla of Lenni, Pa., doubtless saved the entire household from perishing in the burning of their home recently. Mr. Mahla was awakened about 5 o'clock by uncarthly screeches from the parrot in the dining room below. On coming downstairs he found the entire lower part of the house, which was of frame, on fire, and the family had barely time to escape. In the hasty exit of the family the parrot was not forgotten, and was taken out, half choked to death with smoke. It was about the only thing saved from the fire, as the house and nearly all the furniture and the store and stock of goods adjoining were consumed. prolonged absence.

Sportamen have shown considerable ingenuity in designating groups of different animals. The following is a list of the terms which have been applied to the various classes: A covey of patridges, a dight nide of pheasants, a wisp of snipe, a flight of doves or swallows, a muster of pea-cocks, a siege of herons, a building of rooks, a brood of grouse, a stand of

A peculiar story of cais hunting and capturing snakes alive comes from Norfolk.

Conn. A business man was at a house there Monday, when he was surprised to see sleek cats come up to the doorstep, cach having a live snake in its mouth. The snakes averaged about a foot and a half snakes averaged about a foot and a half snakes averaged shout a of the life out of the reptiles, and to make them less vigorous the cats seemed to have filled their skin with a number of small punctures by biting them. The snakes were dropped upon the ground and toyed with by the cats, but not by throwing them about as they do rats and mice. Instead they would stand staring at their prey, while the latter held up their heads and stuck out
