Regular Monthly Meeting, with Food for Body and Mind.

ONE OF THE BEST IN THE CLUB'S HISTORY

Vinuds Are All Nebraska Products and Most of the Speeches Are Made by Nebraska Business Men.

A hollow of tables that extended from end to end of the big dining room was barely sufficient to accommodate the attendance at the regular monthly meeting and banquet of the Commercial club last night. In point of quantity and quality the attendance has never been surpassed at the past meetings, the menu was never better nor the speeches more interesting and enjoyable. The viands were all Nebraska products.

The guests sat down at 7 o'clock and discussed these material things for a couple of hours. Then followed the feast of reason, begun with introductory remarks by J. E. Baum, chairman of the executive committee of the Commercial club, and then fairly launched by additional remarks from Senator Charles F. Manderson, who acted as toast-

"Our Retailers' Outlook" was the opening toast and was responded to by Thomas Kilpatrick. The speaker found a glowing procpect in the future in the very evident return of prosperity to the city, and in particular in the promises of the coming year. He, however, warned his hearers of the evils of overcrowding the city, for he insisted that there was no necessity to call more capital into the retail trade, and especially no cair to attract labor without capital to the city. What was needed more than any hing else in the retail business at the present time, he contended, was more dignity. It had become the practice to indulge in an unscrupuloug character of trade in that the business firms did not stick to the truth implicitly t dealing with the public. They have adopted methods which he denomicated as disrep utable, and he lamented especially that the had been introduced by men of dignicy and honor. This was in advertising in the public press bargains they did not adhere to. He stated that this was unfair competition and he hoped that the practice would be done away with in the future. The result would be of decided advantage to the general retail trade of the city.

"Some Obstacles to Good Municipal Gov-nment" was to have been responded to by H. H. Baldrige, but in his absence wire assigned to Ed J. Cornish. Before introducing the speaker, Toutmaster Manderson took occasion to remark that one of the big gest obstacles lay lo the fact that bust ness men would not abardon their business long enough to participate in city politics which they ought to do as a duty. The result was that the best citizens did not occupy seats in the city council. He found a way out of this difficulty by the plan of either abolishing the compensation carriery or to make it so great as to offer an in ducement to the business men to run. The latter was impracticable and the former was therefore advisable. The speaker said that the citizens did not object so much to the size of taxation, but to the fact that the taxes were dissipated. He stated that it was ridiculous that it should cost $1,000,000 a year to run the city and he helicard a year to run the city, and he believed that three men could be selected in the room who would give a better administration for half the amount.

Mr. Cornish agreed with Senator Manderson that business men were cowardly it keeping out of politics, but at the same time he said that the city officials were not as corrupt as was generally supposed. Com-paratively few could be corrupted, but on the other hand there were but few who could withstand the solicitation of the high and influential cusiness men of the city to father and support some scheme by which the latter would advance their interests.

George F. Bidwell, general manager of the Fremont & Elkhorn Valley railroad, responded to the toast, "Our Diversified Farm Froducts in 1897." In opening he took occasion to, in a measure compare the recasion to, in a measure compare the remeasure, compare the products of Nebraska and those of Wisconsin, the state from which he came to this city. The latter, he said, was considered one of the most resourceful states in the union the comparison between the two showed that the sum total of Wisconsin's mining agricultural, lumber, manufacturing and other industries footed up about $112,000,000 a year and this year it was extimated con-servatively that the value of Nebraska's crops alone was some $104.630,000. The speaker then dwelt upon the great diversity of the agricultural products of the state. H-especially spoke of the great future of the sugar industry, if it was properly fostered. Mr. Bidwell also spoke of the possibility of the introduction of a new product in canal-gre, the newly discovered qualities of which plant are likely to revolutionize the tanning industry. Mr. Bidwell referred to the differa year and this year it was estimated conindustry. Mr. Bidwell referred to the differ ence existing between the commercial aspec of the city this year and of a year ago. Less than two years back, when he arrived in the than two years back, when he arrived in the city, he found every merchant ho'ding up some one else and all pulling together to tide over the era of hard times. Now all traces of this desperate struggle were fast disappearing and the merchants appeared to be once more prospering. be once more prospering.
"Omaha Jobbers' Prospects" was responded to by W. V. Morse, who gave a little sketch in opening of the history of the local jobbing trade. Incidentally Mr. Morse here took occasion to say that he could not figure out how a court of justice could render such a judgment as the Interstate Commerce comrecently did in the Union bridge case, and the re-was heartly applauded. A diffimark was heartly applauded. A diffi-culty now being experienced, the speaker said, was the discriminating stock rates to the southwest by which the packing interests are unable to go into the southwestern ter-ritory. Yet in the face of these obstacles ritory. Yet in the face of these obstracts Mr. Morse said that the jobbing trade had gone upward until in the present year, when showed an investment of about Rev. D. F. Pierce of Rome, N. Y., was to have responded to the toast, "Omaha From an Eastern Standpoint," but he was not present. The topic was therefore given by Toustmaster Manderson to S. A. Bemis of St. Louis. The speaker was enthusiastic over the state's condition. Ten acres of lind, he said, was sufficient to support a family, twenty meant affluence, forty breeded na-bobs, eighty made the owners princes and 160 transformed them into czars. Such is the fertility of the land and in such light is Nebraska considered in the east, Omeha its metropolis coming in for a goodly share of the reputation.

CARNIVAL NOTES. The ice carnival is becoming along at a great rate and the interest is growing daily n every section of the country within radius of 200 miles. A cheap excursion rat will be quoted within the next few days after which the managers will send advertis-ing men throughout the country to proclain the fact, and will not leave soything undon to help bring the crowds this way.

West Point has a voting contest for a maid of honor to our queen, and has nearly every young woman in the town in the list of can-lidates. The young men are kept busy night and day buying papers and voting for their Rollair, the world famous Illusionist an producer of spectaculars, who will be re-numbered by these who had the pleasure of meeting him last fall at an Ak-Sar-Ben en tertainment and a few weeks ago at th E.ks' jinks, will more than likely tak charge of the fireworks and spectacular par of the ice carnival of Queen Polaris at the exposition grounds next month. Reltair is Denver at present, but will return in few days, and if the terms offered him are satisfactory he will begin preparations for he big carnival on a scale that will be start

For the benefit of those who want to know hat an ice palace will look like when it i inished-3,000 tons of hewn blocks of ice glittering with a greenish hue like an em erald, all soldered together with freezing water; architecture to represent a castle of olden days; battlements, turrets, heavy walls and towers, all capped and flocked with snow and icicles. Then the modern incandescent light plays its part by lighting up the interior and reflecting itself through the frozen mass as if it were only a pane of glass. The picture is an enchanting one, as can be at lested by all who have ever witnessed the grand displays made by the cities of the north in their winter palaces.

Here is what Julian Ralph cays of a tooggan slide: "Now, if there is any more langerous looking place on the face of this continent, except it be in front of a locomo-tive, it is a toboggan slide with an incline that looks like the side of a house. Action on the new gazoline lighting conract was deferred for one week.

Just before the council adjourned a com munication was received from President Wattles of the Exposition association urging the council to confer with the officials of the Omaha Water company and endeavor to make some arrangement by which water could be furnished at once at the exposition grounds. Mr. Wattles accompanied his communication and briefly stated the proposition rom an exposition standpoint. He states that there were only two ways in which water could be supplied. One was by the construction of a special plant and the other was through the water company. The former would cost at least $75,000, which he averaging association could not afford. he exposition association could not afford The water company had proposed to furnish the water free if some arrangement could be made that would warrant the improve-ments in its plant that would be necessary n order to furnish the additional service re

The matter was debated at some length Stuht contended that the council could take to action until the injunction was dissolved and that in any case he was not in favor of prejudicing any of the rights of the citi zens in the controversy with the water con

Mercer opined that under the decision of that was left for the city to do was to pay the bills.

Bingham went back into recent history in reply to Stuht and suggested that if the ouncil had compromised with the water ompany when it had an opportunity the tax payers would be about $400,000 ahead. In reply to some further questioning Mr. Wattles suggested that what the water com pany wanted in return for free water for the exposition was an extension of its contract to the date when its franchise expired in 1998. He said that he had no desire to ask the council to do anything that was not in the interest of the taxpayers, but it was matter of vital importance to the exposiion and it was necessary that it should be onsidered at once.

This opened the gates to a general discus-ion of the same ideas that have figured in previous council proceedings and the old straw that had remained undisturbed since early in the year was taked up and thrashed over again with considerable vigor, whole matter was finally referred to committee on fire, water and police and the council adjourned.

STATE FAIR BOARD FAILS TO ACT.

Discusses Matters in Executive Ses sion Without Result. A special meeting of the State Board of Agriculture was held at the Millard last night with the stated purpose of deciding whether the fair should be held in Omaha in 1898. It was expected that a representative of the Omaha Fair and Speed association would be present to show his organization's side of the case, but none materialized. As soon as the meeting had been called to order by Chairman J. B. Dinsmore, he explained that the special session had been called solely for the reason that Secretary Furnas expected to leave for Denver next Monday and that it was desired that a full board b on hand to meet a similar body from the speed association. Chairman Dinsmore then read a letter from President W. R. Bennett of the Omaha Fair and Speed association which was as follows:
"J. B. Dirsmore, chairman of the State

Board of Agriculture. Dear Sir: As president of the Omaha Fair and Speed association herewith beg to hand you a copy of a motion made at our last meeting regarding the hold-ing of the state fair in 1898, which explains liself. Personally, and as a citizen of Omaha, I had expected to pay my respects to your board tenight, but find that I have two engagements for this evening which were made prior to receiving notice from you that you board would be here on this date, but do not see how I can well break these engage-ments. I trust that whatever action you take tonight will be for the best interests of the State Board of Agriculture, as well as the Omaha Fair and Speed association and citizens of Omaha. Respectfully, W. R. BENNETT,

President of the Omaha Fair and Speed Association.' The communication upon motion was filed The board then went into executive ser sion in order to more thoroughly discuss the After a half hour's talk it was deeided to defer action until the annual election of officers of the Omaha Fair and Speed association, which takes place December 13. No date for the next meeting of the board of agriculture was set, but it will probably take place December 26 or 27.

These prices include all of the stylish shapes, materials and patterns and are about half what other stores are accustomed to charge. Fine livery cloth vests with silk polka dots $2.50. These are single breasted only. In two shades-tan and Havana brown. Fine livery cloth vests, double or single breasted, $3.00. Fine silk vests $3.50 and $3.75. The silk vests are very elegant and have the designs inlaid or embroidered as desired. The colors are brown, tan, maroon, green and black with white figures and there are no newer or nices vests to be found.
