

OUR ELOPEMENT

The Way a Tubboat Saved the Situation

It is only after much consideration and much weighing of the matter that I am able to give a true account of the truth about the elopement which preceded the ceremony.

For looking quickly at the passing craft I saw her frantically half to detail as she realized her plot had been discovered.

She notified and they were gone again. Fifteen minutes elapsed before our boat left the New York ferry slip and during that time Mr. Yelnik chuckled and slapped his knees and acted like a mad lunatic.

"Wait for me in Jersey City," he mimicked. "Oh, she'll wait—she'll wait—she'll wait, but for me and not for you."

Further, the newspapers published such ridiculous stories at the time that they really made us all ashamed, telling, as they did, how I chartered a steam yacht and matched her away from her father's arms and carried her away to sea in the palatial craft on which a clergyman was attending us.

Of course only the anti-administration papers printed this last story, for it was pure stuff and nonsense. Never before this winter were sent all over this country, and I have even seen cable dispatches which were printed about them in one or two journals of London and Paris, and naturally, as you can understand, all this was very disagreeable.

Well, to begin with, I did think a great deal of Patience—there's no use denying facts—and I had been in love with her from boyhood. During the last year I had been with her more than usual, seeing her at home, or on the links of the Country club, and at various teas and club fetes.

And by a queer accident, I assure you, I spent the summer on the shores of Lake Champlain, making stunts for two or three rather ambitious paintings to be finished there, too, with her dear brown eyes, and wavy hair and superb presence.

PLATINUM IN THE PLACERS

Miners Have Overlooked One Source of Great Wealth

Metal is Found in the Gravel

Montana Miners Advised to Study the Light Metal Characteristics of the Metal Little Known—Valuable and Scarce

"We do not know how much platinum may have been thrown away by the placer miners," said the author.

"Platinum is an ideal coin metal," said Mr. Baker, "as far as its metallic properties may be considered."

"These are the alpha and omega of weights in metals, he continued," producing the metal in question.

"The theory of the silhouettes target," he said, "is that the bullet is deflected by the wind and the air resistance."

"I often find," Mr. Baker continued, "that the progress of nations has been coincident with their increased use of platinum."

"At present the platinum workers of the whole world are dependent solely upon Russia," he said.

THE NEW ARMY TARGET

Its Effect in Rifle Shooting Demonstrated by Experiments

The recent annual rifle meet at Sea Girt, N. J., the Mecon of the expert military shot, was signalled by remarkable team scores and phenomenal individual shooting.

"The theory of the silhouettes target," he said, "is that the bullet is deflected by the wind and the air resistance."

"I often find," Mr. Baker continued, "that the progress of nations has been coincident with their increased use of platinum."

THE OLD TIMERS

William M. Jackson, of Sweet Springs, Mo., is cutting a third set of teeth at the age of 80.

Charles Ellen Nussery, who was bridesmaid at Charlotte Bronte's wedding, has just died at the age of 88 years.

Charles John Lawson, who is now 75, St. Louis, ran Robert Stevenson's first steam engine in London and Liverpool.

Charles Plumb of Kansas, brother of the late Preston B. Plumb, walked a distance of sixteen miles recently to visit friends.

Despite the efforts of the government the locusts have been devastating the crops in the Argentine Republic.

"I often find," Mr. Baker continued, "that the progress of nations has been coincident with their increased use of platinum."
