INVESTIGATION ENDS IN WIND

Council Committee Finds It Has No Work Before It.

TUDGE GORDON WINS OUT HANDS DOWN

School Board's Attorney Declines to Formulate Charges in Support of Its Resolution and There the Matter Ends.

The city council will not investigate Judge Gordon. The conclusion is the result of the meeting of the judiciary committee at the Board of Education was invited to submit whatever evidence it had to offer in support of its resolution by which the investigation was demanded. Councilmen Mercer, Karr, Mount and Burmester were present, The Board of Education was represented by its dectives Cox of the police department also in the course of which he declared that while his judgments might not have been infallible in all cases, he had no apologies to make to the committee or anyone else. He contended that it was not proper for the opin-ions of any one person to be taken as evic dence, when the records of the police court were subject to inspection and would show the facts. He maintained that any effort to make a showing in any other way would

He had received no instructions from the Board of Education and was merely present at the request of the committee. He stated that he had some evidence in his posses-sion which had come to him from other sources, and which the committee could as certain by calling him as a witness. He refused to throw any light on the matter except as a witness.

Judge Gordon made a couple of speeches.

This and the incidental discussions occu pled about an hour and at the end of that time the committee decided that it had nothing before it on which to act. It was decided to return the resolution of the Board of Education to the council with a recom mendation that it be placed on file and the statement that if the Board of Education would file any specific charges that were susceptible of investigation they would be taken up and ventilated at any time.

WELSBACH BURNERS IN QUESTION Councilmen Divided on the Matter of Gas for Street Lighting.

There is likely to be some difference of opinion among city officials in regard to the contract for gas street lights for the next three years. The question is solely on the merits of the Welsbach burner at $30 a year as compared with the ordinary gas lamp at $25. As a matter of fact there is no real competition between the two companies. The Welsbach company has made arrangements to buy its gas from the local gas company in case it gets the contract, and it is consequently merely a question whether the improved burner is worth $5 a year addi tional. The ordinary gas lamp gives twenty candle-power, while the Welstach burner produces about eighty. A number of city officials say that it would undoubtedly be a great advertisement for the city to have the improved lights during the exposition, but others contend that the price is too high, They assert that if it would be a good advertisement for the city, it would be an equally good advertisement for the Welsbach company, and that the city is not in a posi-tion to make any additional drafts on the lighting fund, which is already seriously overdrawn.

The representative of the Welsbach com-Balance November 1, 1897. pany says that he is going to have a number Balance Novembof the humers put in on the principal streets Lighting Fund of the city in order that the public may have an opportunity to compare them with the lamps now in use, and it is very likely that the question of awarding the contract will not be decided until he has had an opportunity to show what he can do.

GETTING PRETTILY MUDDLED. Council and the Water Company Are

All Tangled Up. The water question in the city council has now reached a stage at which it requires a good memory to remember its various convolutiors. The first move was made by the exposition management in a communication, which was practically a request that the city should waive the right of purchase of the plant in 1903 in return for free water for the exposition. The communication and an orice carrying it into effect were referred to the committee on fire, water and police. Then Stuht chipped in with a resolution de-claring against the ordinance and providing that she city should take immediate stepts to furnish the exposition with water kidependently of the water company. This went to the same committee and the report was returned without recommendation, but with a statement from City Engineer Resewater showing the cost of providing water by pur-chase at meter rates in case the water company could be compelled to sell the water. Then W. S. Poppleton secured an injunc-tion restraining the council from taking any further action in the matter, and about twenty of the heaviest property owners in the city united in a petition asking the counfurther action cil not to waive the right of purchase.

Contracts for City Supplies. The Advisory Board met yesterday afternoon and awarded the contracts for municipal supplies for 1898. The printing and stationery contract was divided among the Omaha Printing company, the Klopp-Bart-lett company and the Rees Printing com-pany. The bulk of the items were very equally divided between the two first named establishments. The board considered each item separately instead of awarding the en-tire contract to the bidder who struck the lowest average. It is expected that this system will do away with the abuses that have developed in previous years in connection with the printing contract, in addition to giving the city the beneat of the lowest

The lumber contract went to C. N. Deitz and the C. W. Hull company got the contract for furnishing sand, cement and sewer pipe for another year. The ice contract went to the fouth Omaha Ice company at 40 cents per hundred pounds, and Marsh & Smith will furnish herse feed.

Very few of the residents of South Omaha have found it necessary to request aid from either the city or county this winter, but the calls from strangers are on the increase. Those who have come here say that they heard of the boom times and struck out with just enough to get here, hoping that they would have no difficulty in finding employment. Ten weeks from now there will be plenty of work for those who desire it, as plenty of building will be going on then, but just now there is not a great demand for labor. Mayor Ensor seems to think that the county ought to furnish fuel for destitute people, provided the city supplies the food and clothing, and he hopes to make some such arrangements before long.

After season clothing talk, if summarized, proves that either clothing has no firm value, or else it has, and all advertising is false and misleading. For instance some stores have done such a tremendous business during the season that they find themselves so overstocked that goods must go at a slaughter, or ruination stares at this firm. A perfect reverie. What a beautiful li-literature.

There is the Before and After stock-taking philosopher, who tells us that it pays far better to lose a few dollars on a suit than to involce it. There is some comfort in this however-for the stock-taking clerk. To think a few strokes of the pen and five seconds of his time is so exhis self-made business regulations when he claims that clothing is worth as much before as after season. The next day he will politely contradict himself by claiming that some well known and reliable manufacturer, finding the season well advanced, was forced to close out

What rank nonsense! There is no more reason to claim that clothing handled and brushed for months is worth as much to the wearer as brand new, as it is to maintain that a new broom is as good as an old one, because it is still a broom.

suit is sold at, say, $10.00, because of economic principles. One way but a loss of $5.00 and the other a grave loss_that of a drop of precious ink and five seconds of the stock-taking man's time, whose income
