Western Stockmen Believe it is All Wrong as Applied to Wolves.

NUMEROUS AS EVER

A Million Dollars Worth of Live Stock Killed Every Year by Wolves on Stock Ranges_A Question to Come Before the Convention.

DENVER, Jan. 4 .- (Special.) - It is evident now from the number of responses to invitations that have been received that the national live stock convention to be held in this city this month will be well attended and that there will be stockmen from all the states of the transmississippl region. One question that will be discussed at great length relates to the pest of wolves.

"I see by the papers that Governor W. A. Richards of Wyoming has suggested as important subjects for discussion by the national stockgrowers' convention the extermination of wolves and the feeding of range stock," said Ora Haley of Laramie, who has by the Wyoming Live Stock association, this state. while calling at headquarters in this city. "The former subject is one of the greatest "The former subject is one of the greatest importance to not only Wyoming sheepmen and cattlemen, but to every state west of the Missouri river," continued Mr. Haley. "An increasing scourge of the range is wild animals, wolves, coyotes and mountain llons. The herds of buffalo and antelope that these carniverous beasts used to follow and substitution are gone and they have, through necessity, been compelled to turn to domesticated stock and are working much have. The calf which the mother forsakes to seek water is seized upon by the sneaking coyote and killed. The weakened cow or calf that his resignation as paylor and wild edited. The weakened cow or calf that his resignation as paylor and wild edited. and killed. The weakened cow or calf that drops behind the herd in winter or summer is promptly hamstrung and throttled by the watchful pack of wolves, and when they are particularly hungry they break into a herd and seize anything that cannot escape them. "Notwithstanding stockmen have made war on these animals, they are unable to make progress in their extermination from the ranges and the bounty law seems to ac-complish but little good. California, Montana and Texas offered $5 apiece for coyote scalps for some time, the outlay aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars, but the results were unimportant. Iowa and Minnesota are the only western states which now pay more than $3 per wolf scalp and in Jowa the rate for young wolves is $2. COYOTES VERY DESTRUCTIVE.

"Meanwhile in some parts of the country wolves and coyotes are very destructive. It is safe to say that the loss to Wyoming by these animals is $175,000 a year. In New Mexico they kill from $150,000 to $300,000 to Mexico they kill from $150,000 to $300,000 worth of sheep annually, and in Nebraska the damage is reckened at $100,000 a year. One difficulty in the wolf problem lies in the fact that it is impossible to secure the cooperation of all the states. This lack of agreement upon the subject of boundaries in general opens a wide door to fraud. Scalps the putaken in localities where rewards are low are shipped to places where premiums are high, and thus it often happens that a country is compelled to pay for animals that did not belong to it. At the present time the bounty on wolves and coyotes varies from $1.50 to $5, the latter price being paid in the Black Hills region of South Dakota. In North Dakota and Colorado it is $2; it is $3 in Montana and Wyöming, and in Iowa it is $5, except for young animals. Thus rewards may be claimed profitably in Iowa for coyotes killed in North Dakota.

"The wolf bounty in Nebraska was 50 cents when California was offering $5 for scalps. Consequently thousands of scalps were shipped from Nevada to California and large numbers of them were actually porfed from Mexico, so that California found herself getting poorer at a distressing rate and the bounty law was repealed.

BREEDING FOR BOUNTY. "One interesting effect of the bounty sys tem is to encourage the breeding of animal outlawed. There is no doubt but that this has been done with various animals for which bounties are granted. In Iowa a few years ago it was said to be more profiable to rear coyotes for the bounty than to raise sheep, and Kentucky and New Mexico recognized the possibility of breeding wolves by requiring affidavits showing that the ani-mals had not been raised for the sake of the rewards. British Columbia, by the way, pays bounties for wolves, but requires that the skulls shall be presented to the provincial museum for scientific identification.

"There will be a large delegation of Wy oming men to your convention, and they will insist that some action in the way of recom-mendations for united effort of the western states be taken to exterminate these posts that every year are destroying $1,000,000 worth of stock."

MINER PAINTS A CANYON.

Gorgeous Canyon of the Colorado Briefly Described.

It is abruptly countersunk in the forest fire-moided, earthquake-shaken, rain-washed, wave-washed, river end glacier sculptured world. It is about 6,000 feet deep where you first see it, and from rim to rim ten to fifteen miles wide. Acid instead of being dependent for interest on waterfalls, depth, wall sculpture and beauty of park-like floor, like most other great canyons are provided in the control of other great canyons, no waterfalls are sight, and no appreciable floor space. big river has just room enough to flow and roar obscurely, here and there groping its way as best it can, like a weary, murmuring, overladen traveler trying to enouge from the tremcodous bewildering labarinthic abyas. tremendous bewildering labarinthic abyas, while its roar serves only to mellow and deepen the silence. Instead of being filled only with air the vast space between the walls is crowded with nature's grandest buildings—a sublime city of them painted in every color of the rainbow and adorned with richly fretted cornice and buttlement, spire and tower in endles variety of style and architect tower in endles variety of style and architec-ture. Every architectural invention of man has been anticipated and far more in this grandest of God's terrestrial cities.

Money Was Plentiful.

Some one in Deadwood within the last twenty-four hours, said the Deadwood Independent of Wednesday evening last, has been decidedly lavish with his money, has been unusually careless, or at the most, has been exceedingly unfortunate in taking care of his currency, for the Elkhorn car repairers this morning found between twenty-five and fifty dollars in five and ten dollar bills on the railroad track, where the passenger train stands while waiting at the depot. It appeared as if some one had spilled his wallet while boarding the train, and the bills being while boarding the train, and the bills being carried loosely, were scattered for a rod or two up and down the track. Some of them were partially buried in the snow, and all of them were wet from the thawing snow and ice. The fellow to whom those bills belong undoubtedly thinks some crook has gone through him.

AMERICANS IN LIBERIA.

Why Colored Emigrants Have Failed

of Success

The public is familiar with the disastrous onsequences of American negroes going to Liberia unprepared. Rev. C. Max Manning. secretary of the United States legation at Monrovia, is now at Savannah, Ga., on leave of absence. The News says: He is an educated man and speaks intelligently, though mewhat guardedly, of things and conditions in Liberia. Naturally, he was asked as to the condition of the emigrants who left Savanuan for Liberia during 1895 and 1895. He replied that he had seen and heard very little of them, the last party, that which went on the Laurada, having arrived some time before be reached there. He understood that they bad chiefly gone into the interior. He met a few from Arkansas around Monrovia, none from Georgia. The reports which he received of these immigrants were not the most favorable, he said. He heard that at

"They argue," said Rev. Manning, "that If the white people are allowed to own land and vote in Liberia the condition of affairs there will soon be pretty much the same as it is in this country, and that white men would own and run the country. Because of this embargo upon white man, capital has been kept out of the country, and its development is retarded. I tried to argue with the principal men that it would be better for them to induce white people : come in and build up their colony for their own advantage, if for no other reason, but they could not see it in that way. I cited them to the City of Frestown in the Brit-ish colony of Sierra Leone, where the queen's government controls, but everybody has an equal showing. Freetown is one c anywhere and reminded me greatly of Augusta, with the exception that the manufacturing element is lacking. Yet negroes do business there successfully in competition with white men. The majority of the business houses are owned and conducted by negroes. There are two banks. One ha a negro president and a white cashier, and the other a white president and a negro cashier.
