Winter social events have been sadly in terfered with by the persistent prevalence of the mixture of spring and summer weather that has prevailed for several weeks. Many of these events were planned for the middle of January, when under or dinary circumstances people might reasonfine ably expect winter weather, but the pres ence of mud and slush instead of snow and ice negatived the propositions for the "good times" anticipated. Three of what had been planned to be the leading social events of the week have been indefinitely postponed. One of them was the sleighing and ice car-

The railroad committees in both branches recommended for passage the bill to extend till 1900 the time in which railroads may equip cars with safety couplers Appropriation bills were presented as follows: For miscellaneous supplies for executive council, $33,250; for the College for Blind at Vinton, $27,000; for the Agricultural college at Ames, $9,575, left over from its old appropriation.

Today's proceedings in the lower house of the legislature practically assured that the offices of state printer and state binder will not be abolished. The contest was practically on party lines, the democrats standing for abolition of the offices. The matter came up in the house on the resolution to fix a time or a joint session to elect these officers and two penitentiary wardens. The democrats renewed their coosition and a roll call was demanded. The resolution had been amended o fix the date for the joint convention as Tuesday, January 25, at 2 p. m. The chairman of the upper house committee on schools is known to favor the uniformity scheme and it is thought the committee will report it favorably. The bill is very similar to the Kansas and Indiana laws. It provides for the appointment of a commission by the governor to purchase all school books by contract, maximum prices to be designated before bids are on texts. The books are distributed in Kansas through retail dealers, an allowurged a clause providing that bids shall be entered on each book for publication in and outside the state. It is urged encouragement would be given to lowa publishing houses and ultimately a large proportion of the state's school books will be published at home. It is hardly probable the bill will be so we led, as its friends fear it might hamper and possibly defeat a measure which has good prospects of success. It is not thought the bill will escape opposition, cither in the legislature or out of it. HEADED OFF ELOPING COUPLE. Tama Indian Agent Interferes in Musquaki Love Affair. TAMA, Ia., Jan. 22.-(Special.)-Agent Rebok of the Sac and Fox Indians in this county has just succeeded in heading off a sensational elopement which has stirred society circles on the reservation to their depths. He has stopped an elopement in which the squaw of Black Cloud, a Mus-quaki of the Sac and Fox reservation of Oklahoma, ran away with Buck Green, a wily brave of the same blood but a member of the Tama reservation. Mrs. Black Cloud, "woman in the case," is the wife of the brave who recently came into nence by being sentenced to the positentiary for defrauding the government in putting his children on two pay rolls, that of the Tama reservation and also on the Oklahoma reser-Frank T. This fostered the spirit of jealousy in the heart of Buck's squaw, who must be

The charms of Mrs. Black Cloud, however, who is a woman, probably 35, could not resisted by the noble red man, and events took a sudden turn this week, when Mrs Buck Green hastoned to Agent Rebok's office and informed him that Green had gone and the neighboring wickiup of Mrs. Black Cloud was vacant. The old squaw had fol-lowed her husband to Montour, where he had told her he was going when he left home early in the morning, and there ascer-tained that he had gone to Marshalltown. Agent Rebok, upon learning the story of the distressed squaw, telephoned to the Northwestern agent, who replied that two in-dians answering to the description given had urchased tickets for Oklahoma via, Council Bluffs and had left the city. Agent Rebok wired to Carroll to the chief of police and Buck Green was arrested by that official.

Mr. Rebok left in the evening for Carroll and arrived home yesterday with the prisoner. He is about 55 years old and has a large family. The squaw was not molested, but was allowed to continue her journey to Oklahoma, where she belongs and where her children live. The wronged sq much broken up over the affair. squaw is very Handicans the Conneil Bluffs Man. Iowa lost another scalp at the traps yesterday when Fred Raymond of Omaha downed "Prairie Wolf" Randlett of Council Bluffs in a live bird race for $100 a side. It was 100 birds per man and Raymond won out by 90 to 77. The match was shot in a driving snow storm, which was almost blinding at times, and the birds were gen-erally slow. The Council Bluffs man seemed o be especially handicapped by the weather.

He was unable to get quick action and a number of his lost birds were hard outgoers, which would have been easy to kill if he had fired before they got their gait. Raymond shot well, in spite of the snow, and killed his third series straight. Frank Parmeles was referee and Charley Matthai was the official scorer. The birds were retrieved by M. C. Peter's "S. Omaha." The score.
