The decision to establish a textile school In Georgia has borne fruit in the form of a movement that has been started in Mississippi for a similar institution. In a mes-sage to the Mississippi legislature Governor McLaurin urged a special appropriation of $10,000 for establishing a textile department in the State Agricultural and Mechanical college. He then directed the attention of the legislature to the fact that young men of a state which possesses such a school learn the art and science of manufacturing in their own state, and the very fact having home men who are prepared manage and conduct manufacturing establishments will encourage the building of factories and stimulate home investments, and this, in turn, will retain such young men in the state instead of letting then go abroad for employment. One house of the legislature has already acted favorably on the proposition and friends of the project expect it to meet with similar favor in the other house. This will be the fourth school of the kind to be established in the south Georgia was the pioneer in the movement and North Carolina and South Carolina have preparations well advanced for simila-

SAVING THE FISH AND GAME

What is Being Done in Iowa and Some Other States.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 6 .- (Special.)-George E. Delavan, state fish and game warden for Iowa, has just published his biennial report for the years 1896 and 1897. It is the most interesting and valuable the lowa association, was formed and the document of the kind ever published in the 1892, and has appropriated annually since. factory at Tama was acquired and operated, state. It contains accurate drawings of thirty-one of the food fish of Iowa, and much other valuable matter, besides the statistical information in regard to the culture and distribution of fish. Commissioner Delavan says that sentiment in favor of the law protecting fish and game is increasing. "I know a certain community," he says, "where a few years ago an officer's life would have been placed in jeopirdy upon making an arrest. I recently arrested and convicted several poachers, and to my surprise the business men of the city approved of the proceedings and remarked that they hoped the good work would be continued until every poacher was driven out of business, that our streams

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

Traveling Libraries.

In the first year 46 libraries were sent out; in the second, 139; in the third, 212; in the fourth, 371, and in the fifth year, Books have been purchased to supply the constantly increasing demand, until now there are mearly 36,000 volumes owned by the state and available for this purpose.

These libraries are all carefully chosen, expert librarians, and are made up of the choicest and freshest publications. A large proportion of the books must necessarily be works of fiction if the interest of the aver age borrower is to be sustained. Care is taken to provide only the very best and meat wholesome stories, and to adopt then to the age and requirements of those to whom they are sent. In this respect the influence of the traveling libraries, if not distinctly educational, is at least uplifting and invigorating. A growing interest biography, history, economics, science and art has been noted and fostered by the management, and many books in these departments are continually being purchased and sent out. Some entire libraries are made up of these subjects, to the exclusion of fiction altogether, and the special collec-tions sent to study clubs throughout the state are doing a real educational work.
