Walsh charges that Dudley Smith was not member of the delegation to the Commercial ongress and had absolutely nothing to say at that time about an exposition at and took no part in the discussion. Whether this be true or false matters not, for the reason that before the sound of President Wattles' voice had died out, after giving Smith the credit, Secretary Wakefield of exposition put in a claim which ante-dated that of Smith. Secretary Wakefield related how, at the World's fair, in August, 1893, he was standing on the Midway Plaisance, talk-ing with Allen B. Smith, Frank Brown and two or three other Omaha men, and the sug-gestion was made by some of the party, he

this would entitle Secretary Wakefield, or some other member of the little party on the Midway at Chicago, to the palm, but all of these claims are swept aside by a claim which is several years older than the oldest of them and The Omaha Bee stands as the originator and consistent exponent of the exposition idea as relates to Omaha.

The claim of The Bee dates more than fleet imprisoned in the Arctic ocean. The ten years prior to the meeting of the Transmississippi Commercial congress in Omaha at which the exposition was given form, and the files of The Bee demonstrate the fact that to The Bee and its editor belongs the credit.

The Nebraska State fair was held in Omaha from 1880 to 1884, inclusive, but was removed to Lincoln after the fair of 1884. At the time of this removal there was a spirited controversy over the action of the State Board of Agriculture in taking the fair from this city and a series of editorials appeared in The Bee at that time, taking the position that the fair, as then conducted, was of no particular advantage to the city and advocating the establishment at Omaha of a permanent exposition. There were a number of these editorials, appearing from time to time during the early part of 1885. The first appeared in The Hee of January 22, 1885, immediately after the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture at which it was decided to move the fair to Lincoln, and was as follows:

THE STATE FAIR.

The efforts of The Bee to establish an exposition in Omaha were not relaxed after the series of editorials referred to, but similar editorials appeared in the paper at in Rosewater talked tervals and Mr. expoal tion to many citizens of Omaha. His ideas and suggestions were in favor of an interstate exposition in which the states imme diately surrounding Nebraska should be terested. This idea was presented by him to George W. Lininger, as well as other people of prominence in Omaha, who recall the fact that such suggestions had been made from time to time.

people who live in this section and who have contributed to its growth do not grasp their extent and magnitude. The inspiration for the Cotion States' ex-position now being held in Atlanta doubt-less lay in the conviction that an interstate exposition would go further toward promot-ling the development of the south than any other single agency. That the judgment of the projectors of the Cotion States' exposi-tion was eminently sound is attested by the success that has attended this great under-taking as regards both the number and variety of the exhibits and the financial management of the venture. Not only have the people of the cotion states displayed commendable zeal in contributing toward its success with displays, but several of the Atlantic states, notably New York and Pennsylvania, are creditably represented. The Atlanta exposition has drawn hundreds of thousands of visitors from every meetion of the country and will be the agency by which a vast amount of new capital will be transplanted into the south. What has been accomplished for the south NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Feb. 13.-From the point of view of the New Bedford strikers, the action taken by the conference of textile unions in Boston today is scarcely likely to be received with joy, inasmuch as it is against the policy adopted at the meetings of the executive committee of the National Spinners union, to-wit, that New Bedford should be made the battleground and until the conclusion of the strike here the other textile centers should remain at work. thereby acquiring the means to assist the New Bedford operatives in their struggle. Then at the conclusion of New Bedford's fight, the plan was that whether New Bedford won or lost, the strike against the gen-

which a vast amount of new capital will be transplanted into the south. What has been accomplished for the south by the Atlanta exposition can be accom-plished for the west by a Transmississippi Exposition. With a population of 15,009,000 to draw on and a country prolific in material wealth, a Transmississippi Exposition would be an assured success from its very inception. Such an exposition would give the impetus to the westward trend of pop-ulation and capital for which the people of this section have been striving. It would make known to all the world the capabilities of the west and revive activity in every branch of industry and production. The Transmississippi concress, which con-venes in this city during the present week, is the proper body to take the initiative in formulating the plans for a Transmissis-sippi Exposition. The delegates to the conference will report the new plan to their several unions for their consideration and although the Boston conference adjourned, without date, it is presumed that after action taken by the unions, another conference will be called to take action in connection with the action of the unions. Secretary Cunnane of the general strike

The Bee believes that the claims of Omaha are far superior to those of all other transmississippi points. Its location in the heart of the continent, midway be-tween New York and San Francisco, makes it alke accessible to people east and west. Its railroad facilities in every direction are as perfect as those of any city in the Mis-sissippi valley north of St. Louis. It is the center of the great agricultural belt and within a day's reach, by rail, of the mining region of Colorado, Wyoming and South Da-kota, and within two days' reach of the great mining states west of the Rockles. Omaha is as near to the Puget sound coun-try as is St. Paul and nearer by 500 miles to San Francisco and southern California. It is hardly necessary to add that what-ever is required of Omaha or pledged for Omaha to make the Transmississippi Ex-position a success, the business men of this city will carry out to the letter. previous week, or an increase of $130. Daniel de Leon, the socialist organizer, today closed the series of meetings which he has addressed in the interest of his party. As a result of these meetings a branch of the Socialist Trade and Labor alliance has been formed in this city, This is the new trades union movement vouched for by the socialists and its fundamental principle is the wiping out of the capitalist class at the ballot box rather than the settlement of the differences between capital and labor by strikes. Notwithstanding the attitude of the trade and labor alliance and the socialists generally toward strikes, they declare that hey wish to do nothing to injure the present strike, but after it is over they want the socialists to exert their induence at the polls.
