DANGEROUS COUNTERFEIT. Agent Donella Exhibits the

Special Agent Donella of the Treasury department, in compliance with a request from the local banks, yesterday came over from Omaha with one of the counterfeit $100 one of the sources of amusement. During silver certificates and permitted all of the the latter part of the evening refreshments employes about the banks to make a close inspection of the bill and compare it with genuine note of the same issue. There was not a person connected with any of the banks who would say that he could see any difference between the real and the counter-feit and each one announced that he would have accepted the bill without hesitancy if It had been presented in the regular manner. The closest comparison failed to detect any but imaginary differences and convinced all who saw it and had any knowledge of mechanical reproduction that it was a photographic reproduction of a note of the original issue. This conviction is further strengthened by the fact that the counterfeit is a triffe smaller every way than the original. The bill was also shown to many merchants and business men, who admitted that there was nothing about it that would have excited their suspicions that it was not issued in the regular way from the national treas-ury. All admitted the wisdom of calling in the entire issue of the bill and destroying the plate. One merchant remarked thoughtfully after examining the two bills: "If mechanical processes of reproduction can be brought to such a stage of perfection as th's indicates, the governments of the world will have to devise some new methods for protecting their paper currency or else cease to issue it. It will force us to resort to coin for all purposes, or use some sort of paper that cannot be counterfelted or imitated. Every line in the bad bill is like every line in the good and the only difference is found in the size and the character of the paper."

> Watts the Object of a Very Pleasant Surprise Party.

There were very few events worth chronicling n the social world during the week. The sual lethorgy that follows the close of the winter season and increased by the restrictions of Lent has been more s'an usually apparent. One of the most enjoyable parties of the week was a surprise given Mrs. J. F. Watts at her home, 744 West Broadway The occasion was her birthday, and the sur-prise was planned by a number of her friends. It was a complete success in every respect. Before the was made aware of the fact that enything more than the usual quiet home vening was to be passed the house was filled with her friends, who took complete passession and prepared for all of the amuse ments of the evening. It was a very in-formal gathering, and for that reason more then ordinarily pleasant. High five formed were served. And then for the real small boy we have a waist that looks just like a shirt-stiff bosom, separate cuffs and to be worn with a white collar. The only thing that makes it look like a waist is the patent belt attachment. Metcalf

Red White and Blue

Yes, that's a pretty combination of colors for the American flag, but for artistic designs and the blending of colors in handsome wall paper we have something rare and beautiful. We have designs in green, with the coats of arm of the knights of old-purple, golden tints, silver tints, Italian blue, and tints and colors of all kinds, making the finest assortment of wall paper ever shown in Council Bluffs. We want to figure with you when you decide to paper and decorate your rooms and you will find that by giving us a chance it will save you money. Our workmen are skilled in the wall paper, painting and decorating line.
