CUARDS FOR THE GROUNDS

Another Matter That is Forcing Itself Forward Now.

KIRKENDALL MIGHT ENLIST AN ARMY

Thousands of Applications from Al Sorts and Conditions of Men for Positions on Exposition Police Force.

The question of guards for the exposition is becoming a live issue and is causing Manager Kirkendall all kinds of trouble. The arrangement of a plan for guards and their appointment is a function of the Department of Buildings and Grounds, and this department has been made the target for applicants from every nook and corner of this broad land. If there is a square mile of broad land. If there is a square mile of territory within the confines of the United States which has not contributed an aspirant for a position in the Transmissiaippi guards it is because the spot is uninhabited.

Manager Kirkendall has thousands of applications from every conceivable class of people. A number are from army officers of the funior grades who are anxious to of the funior grades who are anxious to dered filed with a number of similar condenses. take charge of the force. Others are from civilians who have occupied positions as of-ficers of the guard at other expositions and who are anxious to continue in the business. Others, again, are from men who are imbued with the idea that they were born to command and they want to practice upon the rank and file of the exposition forces. These latter usually have some great scheme to suggest and they estimate their monthly salary up in the hundreds. Applications from all of these sources have been pouring in or the last six months at the rate of forty or fifty per day, and a special file case has been constructed for filing them away.

The applications for positions in the ranks of the guards are received by the thousands. A large proportion of them are from men who have served in the same capacity in former expositions and they seem to like the business. Hundreds of applications have been received from soldiers in the regular army. Some of them say their time of ensence during the exposition. Large numbers have also been received from men holding positions as guards in penitentiaries. These men argue that their experience makes them familiar with criminals and, hence, they would be able to render valuable service. COLLEGE BOYS ARE ANXIOUS.

By far the largest proportion of the applications, however, come from young men who are attending college in various parts of the country. These men are anxious to repeat the experience of many of their fellows at the World's fair and rub up against the world while absorbing information in large quantities by this contact and by what may be seen about the exposition grounds. The item of salary cuts very little figure with this class of applicants, few of them making any mention of the feature which seems up-permost in the minds of most of the other applicants. When the question of salary is touched upon by the college men, however, the figures quoted are invariably low, in some instances reaching the sum of $15 per month. Out of this sum they agree to pro-vide such uniform as may be required and battailor of cadets at the University of Nebraska, which contemplates furnishing as many guards as may be required. This is a pet project of Chancellor MacLean's, who is especially anxious to have his "boys" given

this opportunity for acquiring experience
with the world and information at the same time. He has appeared before the executive committee to urge that the guards be see time. He has appeared before the executive committee to urge that the guards be selected from among the cadets, urging as reasons for such action that the boys represent the entire middle west, there being students from nearly every portion of Nebraska and the adjoining states, and he also argues that the complete discipline of the cadets and their neat uniforms would make them most desirable in every respect, while their famildesirable in every respect, while their familiarity with the usages of polite society would enable them to act as guides and dispensers of information in a manner which would re-flect credit upon the exposition management. Manager Kirkendall has taken all these applications and arguments under considera tion, and has been revolving in his mind a plan for settling the matter, but he says he plan for settling the matter, but he says he has not yet reached a point where he is prepared to make any announcement of what he will do, although he will take decisive action within a short time. He will recommend the employment of about seventy-five men at first, and this force may have to be doubled as the crowds increase. The guards will be quartered on the grounds in a portion of the Service building, to be erected on Twentieth street, just north of the Administration arch, and will be required the Administration arch, and will be required to be on the grounds at all times. Their tours of duty will be arranged in convenient shifts, but the entire force will be available at any time. The guards will be required to do police duty and act as guides in giving out information and showing visitors about the grounds.
