Moore of the Friday club of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. S. R. Towne, ex-president of the Omaba Woman's club; Mrs. L. R. Harford,

The literary part of the program was introduced by Mrs. Harford, who presented Mrs. Lindsey as the toastmistress. Mrs. Lindsey was very happy in this position. She first introduced Mrs. Henrotin, who spoke of the great power of state and general federations. Every state must work out its own problems, under its own peculiar conditions, and the general federation thrives only as the treative less replaced by the property of th twenty-nine state bodies telbutary to it grow in strength and efficiency. Mrs. Henrotin trusts in power, not in force, and she believes this great power of organized women, for the enrichment of social life, for the coordinating process which must go on in edu-eation, for the constructive work in the community, must make for the uplifting of the

Mrs. Stoutenborough spoke with her usual eloquence upon the topic, "Union the Bond of Strength." She explained how, though we are all one at the mention of Lexington or Gettysburg, we are also one in our love or Gettysburg, we are also one in our love of independence. Our states constitute a great union because each state has its own characteristic, and is needed to perfect the symmetry of the whole. She mentioned two elements necessary to successful club life as follows: Adhesion, or the clinging to-gether of the club; and c:thesion, the clinging of the club to the community life. She paid tribute to Mrs. Henrotin, to whom more than to any other is due the formation of state

Harford's subject was, "Women Young and Old," and she referred it to Solomon, who first announced the new womanshe who "bought houses and lands," and whose "flueband was known in the gates." Solomon's ideal served her day and genera tion as our ideal does now, always as o homemaker, though perhaps not circum-scribed between the four walls of a house. "The new woman," said the speaker, "uses the material and the perishable to enhance the spiritual and eternal."

MRS. SAWYER'S WIT.

Mrs. Sawyer was the fourth speaker and her topic, "Women and the Exposition," gave opportunity for a brilliant display of wit. The six days of creation were the model for the six departments of the exposi-"Let there be light"-see the and means—and the almighty dollar; the expanse of the firmament and the gathering of the waters—see the Publicity department and Mr. Roswater. The third day with and Mr. Roswater. The third day with plant life covering the earth, so came the Department of Concessions with space at a dollar a square foot and a percentage of gross receipts. The Department of Exhibits decorates the firmament with sun, moon and stars on the fourth day. The fifth day's work, when the leviathan and whale glide through the encircling waters, suggests the Bulldings and Grounds department in its encircling of the lagoon; and the Department of Transpor tation derives its arch types of locomotion from the slow, majestic tread of the mastodon, or the flying wings of the sixth day. Then, the six departments being formed, the creators thereof saw that it was very good and they rested, but in their dreams strange visions came and went, of lace handkerchiefs, pin cushions, paper flowers, fans and fancy articles without number, names or use. And out of that unrest they averred that "it is not good for man to be alone." Then, how-ever, they chose to follow a Grecian classic rather than a Hebrew, and so not an Eve, but a Pandora, came to the exposition to dwell among men, and woman in the exposi tion appears not as a "rib," an arch support mechanical structure, but as

As soon as Mrs. Sawyer could be heard after this sally she proceeded to discuss, thoughtfully, "The Total Eclipse of Woman as a Phenomenon" in the Transmississipp Exposition, after which she gave a compre hensive resume of what the exposition will offer to women and what it will expect from

of "The Old-Fashioned Girl," as illustrated in the "timid Angelina, she of the long tresses and spindley waist," and also in Miss Warner's tearful heroines. Then she held up the old-fashioned girl of Miss Alcott as the type of the truest and best and denied Charles Dudley Warner's assertion that the rose has been supplanted by the chrysanthe mum. "The rose has only spread its roots and moved a little further from the shadow of the home," said she.

Mrs. F. B. Neeley responded briefly to the toast, "Mothers and Daughters." She spoke touchingly of Mrs. Thurston and of Frances Willard, holding them up to be an inspira-tion as the ideal mother and the ideal daugh-

Mrs. J. J. Dickey had the striking subject, "Diamonds and Clubs." She brought to the memory of every woman her feeling when she possessed her first diamond, that special cre unlike every other, suggestive of rosy dreams and sacred relations, but she said "Diamonds of crystal are inconsistent and burdensome. They have to be provided with suitable environments of velvets and laces. Diamonds of thought make their own setting, and," she continued, "what is the giddy world of society with all its glitter compared with the intellectual stimulus of a club like

Mrs. C. C. Belden followed Mrs. Dickey with a bright speech on the "Genus Homo." She thought Pope had in mind the coedu-cation of the sexes when he penned his immortal words concerning the "proper study of mankind," and she felt sure that there Mrs. C. E. is a resident of this city, living on North Twenty-third street.

The woman has been drawing a pension fraudulently ever since 1882 and has received in that time about $600. She was formerly a wife of Edward A. Ruth, a soldier, but was divorced from him. About six months after the divorce was granted the soldier died and his former wife made application for a pension and was granted one. On her hearing the woman alleged that she did not know that as a divorced wife of a soldier she had no right to a pension, although the application papers specifically put the ques-tion of whether she had been divorced or not. The woman said that she had made out the papers on the advice of friends, some of whom may be arrested for complicity in Routine of Discipline Makes Men of Forty Little Poys.

BEHIND SCENES WITH THE BOYS' BAND

Military Training of the Youngsters Who Have Entertained Omaha Audiences with Their Musical Ability During Week.

Forty little Austro-Hungarians dressed in he gay red military uniform of their native and, deporting themselves like grown-up soldiers and playing horns and drums with a great deal more skill than many men a score of years older, have been the attraction this week at the Boyd.

This band is a bit of Europe brought to America. The leader, Herr Mikel Schilzonyi, is an officer in the Austrian army and speaks very little English. The boys' tutor, Herr Nuessbaum, speaks only a few words of English and none of the boys can converse in English. One of the little fellows sings English words to the tune of "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight,' and this unusual accomplishment excites the envy of all his less precocious companions

These boys are from a school which is maintained by the Austro-Hungarian government at Billed, a Saxon settlement 500 miles south of Buda Fest. Into this school all boys who show unusual talent for music are put with the intention of training them for musicians in the Austro-Hungarian army. The forty boys who make up the Knabe Kapelle were chosen from this school, and the consent of the government and the boys parents had to be secured before they could be removed from the school and brought to tour America. The youngest of the boys, Mikel Braun, the little drummer, is only 6. and the oldest, Magyar Knaben Mikel Bonn, is 14. So complete and thorough is the musical education of this band that the players orchestrate their own parts and play 300 different selections. When they first came to America they played only classical music, but the manager thought popular airs should be intermingled with the classical and in a very short time the leader was ready to play selections varying from Sousa's play marches to rag songs. UNDER MILITARY RULE. Herr Schlizonyl exercises the strictest milnever give him any trouble. Obedience has been taught to them from the day they anbeen taught to them from the day they en-tered the school at Billed and they deport themselves like men in contrast to the con-duct which might be expected from such young boys. Each day they rise at 6:30, have prayers, eat breakfast at 7:30, attend practice from 9:30 till 11, have dinner at 12 and school in reading, writing and arithmetic under Herr Nuessbaum from 2 till 3:30. After school they spend the remainder of the after-noon in walking and riding to places of interest. At 6:30 supper is eaten and they are taken to the theater. Immediately after their concerts they are sent to bed to dream of the mother country far across the sea. The welfare of these little sons of Franz Josef is carefully looked after by Mrs. Bray, wife of the troupe's manager. Her greatest trouble is to get things cooked so that the boys will eat. American cooking is not to their taste and they will go hungry rather than eat the dishes Yankees relish. Beefsteak does not appeal to them in the least and they will not taste white bread. They spurn ple, cake and candy and will not touch ice cream because they say it burns their stomachs. Boiled beef, rye bread, vegetables cooked with sugar and vinegar, beer, pepprika and all kinds of fruits and nuts are the things that suit these little epicures. Mrs. Bray says that occasionally one of the little

This interesting band of little folks has been in the United States only a few months and will remain for two years. They opened their engagement in San Francisco. Burglars Loot the Home of Matthew A. MeGinn on Cass Street. A domestic happened upon a couple of burglars while they were rifling the residence of Matthew A. The "crooks" nevertheless succeeded in getting away with spoils consisting of at least a couple of watches, a diamond ring, a gold necklace, other jewelry and $5 in money, all being valued at about $150. The burglary was committed while the occupants of the house were away. Shortly after 10 o'clock the domestic, Miss Stett, returned to the house. The burglars were in the building at the time and as she opened a door they fled downstairs from the second story and out of the rear door. It is not known just what the extent of the robbery was, but the articles mentioned were mis ing. One of the watches, a chain and the money belonged to Miss Stett.

The job appears to have been the work of second story men," for a window in the second floor just above the front porch had been forced open. Immediately after entering the house the burglars apparently prepared for escape by throwing open the rear door. The police were notified of the robbery, but failed to unearth anything.

WORK FOR THE RELIEF OF CUBA

the Nebraska Commission Ha Alrendy Accomplished.

OMAHA, March 23.—To the Editor of The Bee: Enclosed please find statement relative to the Nebraska Cuban Relief commission. which covers work done to the present time. The amount of food products subscribed by our citizens and forwarded by our commission is considered as showing the liberality of our citizens, and as constituting important acquisitions by the committee appointed by Mr. McKinley in charge of the work at New York City. One of the cars of corn, comprising 700 bushels, was specially consigned by the citizens of Wayne township, Custer county, to Consul Barker, Sagua La Grande, and we have advices from the central com-mittee that it was so forwarded, and it is possible that at the time of Mrs. Thurston's visit at said port this relief was there or near said place.
Our commission has asked for the appoint ment of subcommittees through the press and by circulars, by mayors of cities, county boards and ministers throughout the state That contributions have not been more is probably due to the lack of general knowledge of the exact condition of the sufferers in the various provinces of Cuba, and in some instances there possibly may have existed a suspicion that supplies might not go to the actual relief of destitute Cubans; but it ought to be understood that our committee is acting under a contral committee, the president of which is Hoo. Stephen E. Barton of New York, which committee is com-missioned by President McKinley, and contributions go through the consuls of the five provinces, assisted by the accredited agents of the central committee.

By the report you will see that we have forwarded some days ago five carloads of com and one carload of flour, and recently have shipped a carload comprising about 30,000 pounds of flour, and have on track to go forward now one carload of corn. A Pure Grape Cream of Turter Powden 40 YEARS THE STANDARD. Nebraska Clothing Co

This is a good time for you to go around to the different clothing stores and test the sincerity of their advertising-see how much besides the truth they put in print. You know every store claims to have the biggest values. Every store claims to have the best styles. Every store claims to be the best entitled to your patronage. 'Tis no more than right you should decide who's right and who ain't. Look around. Find out. Don't take anybody's word for these things because words don't care who use them, and the papers don't care either so long as they get paid. We want you to look around. We want you to examine the children's suits that advertised as wonderful bargains at $1.67. $1.98, $2.39, $2.63, $2.97, and other catchpenny prices—and then we want you to examine ours at $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2 and $2.25 and find out which are the best values and which are the nicest patterns and which are the ones you want to buy. We're trying to get the trade of all the male folks of all the families, and we're trying to earn your respect and confidence by putting nothing in the papers we can't substantiate when you come in the store. New suits this morning for young men 13 to 19 at $4.50,$5.00 and $6.50 that are the best we have ever been able to offer you for the price-
