Blaco of Blair Tells His Experienc and Gives His Opinion in Favor of the Present Method of Business.

The South Omaha Live Stock exchange yesterday afternoon completed the introduc tion of the testimony with which it proposes to combat the action brought by the government to dissolve it on the grounds that it exists in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and to the detriment of interstate commerce. The hearing is to take place on April 5.

One of the two witnesses called was Richard Blaco, a shipper of stock of Blair, who has been in the business for the last twenty-five years. Speaking from the standpoint of a shipper, he said that in his opinion the exchange is in the nature of a protection to shippers, because the rules fix a uniform scule of charges and set down a principle of doing business. Any deviation is punishable. As a consequence the rules pel the commission men to do a square and honest business. The witness said that he had talked to many shippers in the state about the exchange and had found them without exception favorable to it, because they felt sure of being treated right at the South Omaha market. South Omaha market.

On cross-examination Mr. Blaco was asked regarding the dockage system. He said that he believed that it was curried on justly and right. It was something that had to be done and the exchange is in a position to get disinterested men and men who know their business. He had never seen nor heard criminated in favor of the exchange. 'Do you think that the shipper ought to nave a say in the selection of such an important man as the docker?" asked the district attorney.

"The shipper does have a say," answered the witness. "The commission man who represents me speaks for me as if I had been there."

The witness insisted that the exchange is compose it are competent and give a bond to deal fairly, although, in answer to the question, the witness admitted that he had no personal knowledge of any case where a bond was given. The witness said that he had sold stock at South Omaha before the exchange was established, eight or nine years ago, but he was more satisfied under the present system.

The other witness of the afternoon was D. B. Olney, who was called to contradict the testimony of Lafayette Coltrin, given at the hearing of the government. Coltrin swore that he had practically been driven out of business by the exchange. At the time he was president of the old Omaha Live Stock company. Mr. Olney, sho was vice president of the same concern and a salesman, denied emphatically that the firm had been driven out of business by the exchange. He said that it had broken up on account of some quarrel between the members of the company, the nature of which he refused to tell. He said that the Omaha Isive Stock company succeeded Spetz, Olney & Co., which had been doing a very good business.

Shortly after Judge Gordon opened court yesterday the preliminary hearing of the gambling cases was taken up where it had been dropped Saturday, and with the introduction of testimony that was immaterial counsel for the defendants rested their case. Assistant County Attorney Jeffrics waived the opening argument and Attorney Dunn talked for more than an hour in an attempt to show that Oerter had not been proved by the testimony to be the owner of the place. The attorney said that, even admitting Oerter's connection in the premises the courts had already held that the same gambling devices in evidence were for the purpose of carrying on games of judgment and skill, and consequently they were not gambling implements. Jeffries, for the presecution, replied to this argument by showing how conclusively the state had proved the ownership of the gambling room. Oerter furnished a bond for his appearance in the district court. The preliminary hearing of the gambling cases against Cliff Cole and others is set line, the most money saving line, that ever came to Omaha, but of course you'd expect us to say that anyhow, even if wasn't so. It is so. You will find out after awhile, if you don't already know it, that we never-no never-put anything in the papers that we can't back up in the store. Speaking of backing things up, we have some more of those nobby little Junior Suits at $1.75, $2.00, $2.25 and $2.50, that went off like wildfire when we first showed them a few weeks since and we told you in the papers at the time that they were better and prettier than some stores sell for double our price, and you found it so although you didn't believe it when we told you so at the time. Now is a good time to pick out one of those suits for Easter because there is a chance that if you wait till the last moment you'll find them all gone. It isn't at all likely that they will be all gone today or tomorrow, but then you can't tell. They're remarkable value, and unexpected things have hap-

The ways and means to an out-of town business gain is by judicious promulgation. Our spring book is a judicious advertiser. Must be so, for the reputstion of the "Guarantee" is at stake. Reputation is not built upon falsehood. A reputed firm may lie and be forgiven. It might say: "All of our winter goods are sold out," in place of packed away. Who believe thatf We do, with apologies to our friends on the corner. But our reputation is on trial. You will find our spring catalogue a good witness. It is a precise documentconvincing in detail. Every garment is precisely photo'd, showing style, fit and trim-s sample of the cloth alongside it, showing quality and pattern. This is the article you will receive, or a 100 dollar bill if ft fun't the same.

The book also contains beneficial and money saving information about boys' clothes, shoes, hats, mackintoshes, working clothes, and everything clae that is of use to the male
