The Yarrow of England arrived here today on the Minnesota. The steering gear is all broken and this will probably be adjusted as soon as it is taken off the Minnesota. The vessel, which is named, as yet, is sixty-one feet long and has a draft of three feet. It draws two feet of water forward and three feet aft. It is said to be one of the fastest dispatch boats in the world.

INTERPRETING THE MESSAGE

(Continued from First Page.) of offenses in action that will surprise the onlooker when he looks over the votes that will be taken tomorrow. (Great applause on republicans' side.)

Mr. Bailey, the democratic leader, replied to General Grover in a brief speech, which aroused intense enthusiasm on the democratic side. It was somewhat remarkable, he said, that the president, in sending to congress one of the most important messages on one of the most exciting questions before the country in years, had concluded with a recommendation so ambiguous that it could be his occasion of controversy.

Other portions of the message showed that the president was a master of clear and lucid incident, yet, in presenting his recommendation, he had done so in words that taxed the ingenuity of the gentleman from Iowa to make clear what he meant. If the president meant the freedom and independence of Cuba, why had he not said so?

"I do not believe," said Mr. Bailey, "that the president deliberately veiled his meaning, and in saying that I demand more credit for the president's message, I believe that if the president intended the establishment of a free and independent republic on the island of Cuba, he would have said so."

"Why did he say a stable government? A stable government and an independent government are vastly different. No one doubts that the president intended a stable government, but every intelligent man knows it is not an independent government. I do not doubt that Spain could establish a stable government. It could make a desert and call it peace."

"No one could deny," continued Mr. Bailey, "that the president had asked for authority to send the army and navy to Cuba to restore peace. When our forces arrived the Spaniards would say: 'We are at peace; our armaments are stacked; it is the insurgents who are at fault.'"

"Then the agents of the president would be compelled under the authority he asks to send the army and navy to Cuba to restore peace. When our forces arrived the Spaniards would say: 'We are at peace; our armaments are stacked; it is the insurgents who are at fault.'"

HEALTH CATCHING

To Be Committed to Memory by All Dyspeptics, Invalids, Consumptives.

What is the first cause of nine-tenths of all disease? Imperfect digestion of food. Why does imperfect digestion cause disease of other organs?

Because blood, nerves, muscles, bone and flesh are derived from the food we eat and digest. If digestion is perfect the blood is rich and the organs are strong. If not, the blood is poor, the organs are weak, and the system is diseased.

What is the best method of cure? Plenty of wholesome food well digested. But how can a weak stomach digest plenty of wholesome food?

By taking with the food after each meal certain harmless remedies which are known to digest food and thus nourish the blood and rest the weak stomach.

What are these harmless remedies? The most valuable are vegetable ferments, pure pepsin, Golden Seal and fruit salts. All of these are now combined in the form of pleasant tasting tablets, sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Are these tablets superior to the various liquid preparations, so-called dyspepsia cures? Most decidedly, because all liquid medicines become stale with age and lose whatever good qualities they may have had originally, while the tablet retains its properties intact.

What are the symptoms of dyspepsia? A feeling of fullness, bloating, flatulence, belching, heartburn, acid eructations, indigestion, loss of appetite, and general weakness.

How can I get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets? They are sold by all druggists and by mail. Write to Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, 100 N. 3rd St., St. Louis, Mo.

clearness of vision." The Globe believes the message will be bitterly resented in Spain. Americans in London who had arranged to return home in expectation of war are not altering their plans in view of the message, which they regard as merely importing the element of uncertainty into the situation.
