A cleanup has been made at the St. Eimo stamp mill, the first since the mill was moved. It was considered very satisfactory. In the St. Eimo mine, at a depth of 375 feet, an immense flow of water was encountered which now requires five pumps to keep the mine dry. The property is owned by Captain W. W. Marsh of Omaha and associates. Dublin is the name of the little town in Two Bit which is destined to become the leading metropolis of the Black Hills. Considerable building is being done this spring. Five large dwelling houses, two store buildings and an addition to the hotel are under course of construction.

DEATH RECORD.

Suman J. Blackburn. Suean J. Blackburn, wife of T. W. Blackburn of this city, died yesterday at North Pusadena. Cal., after a long illness culminating in consumption. Though in delicate health for three years the end came very suddenly. Her last letter to her husband was hopeful and spoke of her return with the children in June most confidently.

Mrs. Blackburn came to Omaha on her wedding day in 1880 and since that time has been a part of the social life of Omaha, having been more particularly identified with the women of St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church, of which she was a charter member. Her friends were not confined to her own church, however, but were to be found in all churches, and in all parts of the city. She was one of the first to join the Woman's club. The suit was brought by the receiver to recover funds which F. R. Cassatt, president of the bank, had paid to the brokers before the failure of the bank in order to speculate on the Board of Trade. The decision of Judge Grosseup today, unless it is reversed by the higher courts, establishes a precedent in recovering bank funds spent in such a manner. The grounds for bringing the suit were that the defendants knew that the money was being lost and should that the money was being lost and should have ascertained whether it belonged to Cassatt or to some institution with which he was connected.
