port of the proposition. As a result of her efforts the following call has been issued:

Whereas, In the state of war now existing between these United States and Spain, a great body of volunteer troops has been called into the field, taking from their customary vocations thousands of the flower of the young men of the country; and whereas, in the ordinary course and experience of camp life and field service these young men will suffer through sickness and injury incident to the service and will to a great extent be deprived of the many little things that are essential in ministration at the slekbed; and

Whereas, It is woman's peculiar sphere in time of war to care for the slek and wounded, and to provide for the camfort of the soldiers who are stricken the many things not furnished through the regular y organized channels of army administration;

Therefore, We, the undersigned women of Omaha, do hereby call for a mass meeting of all the patriotic women of this city, to be held at the rooms of the Commercial club on Wednesday, May 4, 1898, at 2:29 o'clock p. m., at which time and place the manner and style of the organization for the purpose of aiding and telieving the soldiers will be determined upon.

The four trakes are identical in appearance and arrangement. Each is composed of a buffet-smoking-library car (with both and barber shop), a palace sleeping car, a dining car, and two reclining chair cars. The buf-fet-smoking-library car is something new for a Denver-Chicago line. It is a veritable clubhouse on wheels, where one may read, wilte, smoke, talk, or play cards, while traveling at the rate of fifty miles an hour. It is handsomely carpeted and furnished with setters, curhioned easy chairs, a lavatory a writing desk, a compartment for cardplayers, and a well stocked buffet. The cur-rent periodicals and newspapers are on file and a carefully selected library is provided for the free use of passengers. The cleeping car is a gem, and the chair and dining cars are in every way worthy of the train which they form an important part. The consideration of the various parcels of real estate offered ao substitutes for the Dodge school site occupied the attention of the Board of Education during most of the session last night. A dozen additional propositions were received, among which was one from A. P. Tukey to sell two lots, one on each side of the present Cass site, for $19. 000. A strong minority of the board made a vigorous effort to secure action contemplating the acceptance of this offer, but the motion was defeated by the narrow margin of one vote. A revolution by Thomas provided that the limit of salary of teachers below the eighth grades be made $70 per month instead of $65. It was laid over under the rules. The effect of this resolution is to restore salaries to the point where they were before the reduction three years ago. The session of the Omaha Woman's club in the auditorium of the First Congregational church yesterday afternoon was exciting to the large number of members present, amusing to the few visitors there and interesting to all. It was the preliminary skirmish o the political battle of the year for the grea organization, and the campaign may said to have been given a good start. thirds majority.
Mrs. Clarford was elected president of the Woman's club to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Peattle, who removed to Chicago. She served the remainder of that term and was hen elected president of the club for a ful term of one year. There is a provision in the y-laws of the organization to the effect that no officer shall be eligible to re-election after having served two terms in that office. The question argued with so much earnestness and ability yesterday was whether Mrs. Har-ford had served two terms as president and was therefore ineligible to re-election.

DECEMBRING THE KNOT. On the one side it was argued that Mrs. Harford tiad certainly served two terms and many precedents were cited to show that the law considered a part of a term of term full and complete. This faction looked the matter up and brought in legal opinions from Hon. James M. Woolworth and other prominent attorneys to support its conten-tion. The opposing faction maintained that Mrs. Harford had served but one term, within the meaning of the constitution, and that the expired term of a former president which she served enould not count as complete term and so keep her from being dent that Mrs. Harford's immence popularity helped to support this contention.

For Our Invincible Yankee Gunners.

Energetic Debate Occurs Over a Question of Superior Suits. Notwithstanding the fact that worsteds have steadily risen for the past few months The Nebraska is today offering men's fine worsted suits for as little and in some cases for less money than we sold them last year. Some of the fine suits that came with our second purchases are wonderfully cheap. There for instance is that beautiful silver grey worsted at ten dollars. Fifteen wouldn't be too much. Such suits are seldom sold in other stores for less than sixteen to eighteen dollars. They are beautiful suits, beautifully made up and cut in the top notch of style. Here is another at twelve dollars in a bronze worsted in pincheck pattern regular merchant tailor goods. If we marked them fifteen dollars we could get it just as easily, but we make a little as it is and we get The Nebraska talked about at your home. These second purchases are the cream of the season's offerings by the best makers in the land. Starting at six-fifty for a pure worsted suit and ending at eighteen dollars they give us a line that is as superior to the showings of other stores as Uncle Sam's battle fleet is to the mackerel boats of Spain. Dew-ey think so? We know so. Seeing is knowing.
