ONE HEAD FOR EXPOSITION

Directors Finally Override the Members of the Executive Committee

GENERAL MANAGER TO HAVE FULL CONTROL

Business of the Association on the Grounds to Be Carried on by a Single Responsible Head Herenfter.

Resolved, That a general manager, to be selected by and be under the direction of the executive committee, be placed in charge of and held responsible for the orderly, economical and systematic conduct of affairs on the exposition grounds and be in full charge thereof; suggesting to the executive committee such general rules and regulations or changes therein as may produce committee such general rules and regula-tions or changes therein as may produce the best results. Such general manager shall have the power, for cause, to sum-marily remove and discharge any employe of the exposition employed in the buildings or on the grounds of the exposition, except superintendents of departments, and shall immediately report his action in that behalf and give the cause for such discharge to the manager of the department in which such person is employed.

The course which has been urged on the

The course which has been urged on the exposition management for months has at last been adopted, and the first step has been taken to place the administration of the affairs of the exposition in the hands of one man with executive authority. This action was taken by the Board of Directors of the exposition at a prolonged and storm; meeting held yesterday afternoon, which ended with the adoption of the above resolution by a vote of 34 ayes and 1 nay, the latter being east by Director Yost, who laughingly remarked that he simply "wanted to be different."

This matter came up after the board had been in session for some time, being broached by Mr. Weller, who said there was a vexed question which should be settled, as it seriously threatened the very existence of the exposition. He then offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolved. That the members of this boar cordially endorse the appointment of A. C. Poster to the position of general superintendent made by the executive committee in compliance with resolutions slapted November 13, 1897.

Resolved, That the executive committee is hereby directed to broaden and enlarge the powers of the general superintendent, who shall be piaced in full charge of the exposition grounds and baildings and held responsible for the orderly, economical and systematic conduct of affairs in and on the same subject to such religious argument to such responsible to such religious and restrictions. same, subject to such rules and regulations as may from time to time be made by the executive committee with a view of pro-ducing the best results The general su-perintendent shall have the power, for cause, to summarily discharge any employe of the exposition employed in the buildings or on the grounds, excepting super Literdants of bureaus, and shall fill the vacancies. Any superintendent of a bureau may, for cause, be suspended by the general superintendent, who shall immediately report his section to the manager of the department in which said superintendent is employed, and in case charges of misconduct are sustained, the manager of said department shall name substitute for said superintendent to the executive committee for confirmation.

Lindsey and Montgomery Object. Chairman Lindsey of the executive com mittee opposed the resolution. He declared | that the members of the executive committee were competent to discharge their duties and he regarded the resolution as a direct affront to the committee. If anything was wrong, he said the committee would be glad to have the matter investigated, but he asserted that it was not in the power of any one man to conduct the exposition and the effect of the resolution would be detrimen-

General Manderson demanded to know in what way the resolution reflected on the executive committee, to which Mr. Lindsey replied that it would result in putting man over the heads of the members of the committee.

lution as an attempt to do away with the executive committee, and said if he were a member of the committee he would resign. He designated the proceedings as an attempt to discharge people and said if an executive head was what was wanted the president should be delegated power to exercise the authority. He charged the supporters of the resolution with ulterior motives in thus urging the enlargement of the powers of Mr. Foster and declared that Foster was all right in his present position, but would be all wrong if his powers were extended. The matter had been laid on the table at a previous meeting and had been disposed of. Mr. Weller disclaimed any intention of re flecting on the executive committee, but he said matters had reached a stage where something should be done.

Manager Rosewater replied to the statement of Mr. Montgomery that the matter had been laid on the table at a previous meeting and thus disposed of. He called aton the table was a report of the opposers of this resolution, providing that the position of general superintendent should be abolished. This had been laid on the table by the votes of the people who made the report, thus presenting the spectacle of the table. He declared that such action was simply an evasion of the issue and appealed to the directory to look the matter squarely in the face. He charged that certain of the employes holding responsible positions had been found to be guilty of serious offenses and yet the exposition was dependent upon these same employes to carry along the business of the enterprise. He also referred to certain difficulties with outside states which had resulted from the hydra-headed method of doing business which prevails. So far as Mr. Foster is concerned, Mr. Rosewater said he had no particular interest in seeing him retained or in seeing any other man placed in the position, but he declared that a crisis had been reached and if prompt action was not taken those connected with the exposition would see the time in the near future when disgrace would envelop the entire enterprise.

Manager Bruce resented the remarks of Mr. Rosewater and declared that such state- its recommendation on this matter: ments made it imperative that the whole executive committee resign.

Mr. Hitchcock's Opinion.

Mr. Hitchcock made an impassioned argument, in which he charged that the whole scheme was a deliberate and premeditated purpose to seize the patronage of the exposition and get it into single hands. He charged that for months Mr. Foster had been personally canvassing the members of the board to override the executive committee and secure greater power. He denounced such a course as an outrage, partaking of position for the wages it offered to attempt to secure more power for the prestige it would give him in the approaching cam-

General Manderson challenged the state. ments of Mr. Hitchcock. He said he knew very little of Mr. Foster personally, having met him but a few times, but he said he had had a private conversation with him early in the current week and he quoted the conversation at length, showing clearly and conclusively that Mr. Foster not only had not sought the enlargement of his powers, but that he shrank from the additional burdens which such enlargement would thrust upon him. General Mander-son then said he took exceptions to the wording of the resolution which had been offered, and he offered as a substitute the meeting, making a few changes in the word- | would receive much more than their value

ing of it. Mr. Weller accepted the substitute and after the resolution had been discussed briefly it was adopted by the vote heretofore stated. Messrs. Babcock, Bruce, Lindsey and Rosewater of the executive committee were present and all voted for the resolution. When the meeting opened Secretary Wakefield asked the indulgence of the meeting while he read a statement from John Rush formerly auditor of the exposition, and Robert Finley, the present auditor, both to the effect that they had checked the accounts of the secretary's office, Mr. Rush's checking extending up to the time when he left the service of the exposition, and Mr. Finley's extending from that date to the present

The secretary then called attention to a half-bushel basket of protests against the opening of the exposition gates on Sunday. He said this contribution had just been re signers of a report voting to lay it on the ceived, but there were several more half bushels on file in his office and he asked for instructions as to their disposition.

General Manderson said the question of Sunday closing was an important one and ought to be settled. The people opposing the opening of the gates on Sunday were making a most aggressive campaign and the matter should be taken up and disposed of. For himself, he said he believed that in the interest of morality the exposition should be kept open on Sunday. He moved that the executive committee be instructed to report to the next meeting of the board regarding the custom which had prevailed at previous expositions regarding this question. This motion was adopted.

Free Pass Question.

The executive committee submitted a report on the free pass question referred to the committee at the last meeting of the board. The report stated that the committee had adopted the following resolution as Resolved. That it is the sense of the board of directors of the Transmississippi and In-ternational Exposition that there shall be no free list or passes to the exposition after June 1, except as follows: Officers and nembers of the executive committee, execuexecutive committee of the Bureau of Fntertainment, vice presidents and commis-sioners of nations, states and territories executive officers of nations, states and ter itories; exhibitors, ritories; exhibitors, concessionaires, em-ployes in the actual discharge of their duties, newspaper representatives as per rules previously adopted, mayor and city council of the city of Omaha, Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, Board of Educa-tion, Board of Park Commissioners, Board you can locate just where the war ships are county.

It is the intent of this resolution that no stockholder or director shall be provided with free admission except as above stated.

The reading of the rules governing the issuance of passes to representatives of issuance of passes to representatives of newspapers was called for and Manager Rosewater explained that these rules con templated the issuance of a large number of passes, but they were in the nature of an exchange of courtesies for which the exposition received full return. General Manderson favored the reduction in the number of these passes, but Mr. Rosewater explained that such policy would be letrimental to the exposition and do more harm than good. Many of the passes might never be used, but even if every editor took dvantage of the opportunity the exp in advertising.

This opinion finally prevailed, and the the directors took up the latter clause of the committee's resolution and it was discussed at some length, the burden of the arguments being that the directors had assumed the responsibility for the exposition and had given their time and attention to it and should, therefore, be entitled to consideration. After an extended discussion the clause was removed and the directors were added to the list of those entitled to receive

At the instance of Director Hoctor an attempt was made to add to the list the mayor and members of the city council of South Omaha and Council Bluffs, but the amendment was defeated.

The next meeting of the board will be held on the exposition grounds Saturday, May 21.

The procession started from the exposition SANITARY RELIEF ASSOCIATION grounds at about 6 o'clock and found its way without difficulty to Tangier temple, opposite to which the new government building was erected.

It was between 7 and 7:30 o'clock that the parade invaded the center of the city. The route was down Sixteenth street, east on Farnam, north on Twelfth, west on Douglas, north on Sixteenth and countermarch to the temple. At the head of the push rode Admiral George Dewey Collins and he looked like a right gallant knight. A brass band that played all the popular and martial airs of the day followed, its music being one of the few features not imported for the occasion. Then came fifty Ancient and Arabic and other kinds of Mystic Shriners, all gorgeously attired in zouave uniforms that included many colors, from pale blue to paler pink. The Shriners looked well and in double ranks marched in creditable form. There followed 101 of their worthy brothers dressed in evening suits, with the fez and fashionable canes.

Women Decide to Buy Apples for the Boys at Camp Alvin

The Sanitary Relief association, number ng about 100 women, met in Myrtle hall yesterday afternoon to lay plans for the comfort of the Nebraska and especially of the Omaha soldier boys. The finance committee stated that there is at present $13 available to invest in supplies and it was determined to put the money in apples. Two or three barrels will be shipped to Camp Alvin Saunders at once.

Mrs. George B. Eddy, Mrs. W. Askwith and others engaged in the work of soliciting reported that they had everywhere received a most cordial reception. The receipts of the Creighton theater on a certain day next week will be devoted to the cause of the association and similar offers have been made by Kuhn's drug store and the Omaha museum.

As their personal offering the women decided to construct a large number of "handy housewives," to enable the boys to keep their wardrobes in the best possible condition.
