Throughout the kingdom every public gathering added its words of deep grief to the volume of national mourning clearly versed in the telegram from the prince of Wales to Herbert Gladstone:

"My thoughts are with you, your mother and your family at this trying time you are experiencing. God grant that your father does not suffer. ALBERT EDWARD."

Universal Grief.

At the banquet of the home counties fedand league last evening Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the liberal leader in the House of Commons, instead of delivering an important party attack, only uttered a few words of grief and left the room.

The duke of Devonshire, lord president of the ministers, speaking before the British Empire league, referred touchingly to the mournful scenes at Hawarden, where "the greatest of Englishmen was slowly passing struggling Cretans and Greeks. away.'

In other places Lord Mayor Davies, George Hamilton, the secretary of state for India, and many others in London, as well as in Birmingham, Swansea, Cardiff, Liverpool and elsewhere, at all sorts of gatherings, politicians, divines, agitators and women, joined in the expression of national and individual grief, while the press without exception published columns of detail and columns of editorial comments.

It was the topic of the hour in Great Britain, but abroad the evidences of sympathy were almost as universal. M. Faure, president of the French republic, daily inquired and has regularly received every bulletin.

The press of Belgium, France, Italy and Greece in a spontaneous outburst recalled how many oppressed peoples during Mr. Gladstone's life have offered hymns of praise for his intervention in their behalf. while in Madrid even the prospect of his death has caused a twenty-four hours' suspension of war animosity against England. Not the least point in this tribute to Mr. Gladstone was its profound unanimity.

LONDON, May 18 .- (New York World Cablegram-Special Telegram.)-The following personal tributes to Mr. Gladstone, collected from various sources, express in glowing terms the individual estimates of his character and career by his most eminent political contemporaries. Lord Rosebery's words are eloquently reverential and affectionate, as becomes one in whom the illustrious dead had profound faith and whom he designated as the future leader of the liberal party in 1886;

"That is a sublime and pathetic figure." says Rosebery, "enriched, ennobled, not sity he was un encumbered estate of pro-digious learning with little practical sense about affairs of the world into which he was about to enter. There was no previous epoch in the progress of his country in which university training was less calculated to make a man useful. Europe had been con-vulsed by Napoleon. The horrors at Paris had shocked mankind. Trade was depressed. Skepticism had made strides among the scholars of England and the Oxford move-ment had opened a narrow but alluring path to Rome. The church was in danger. The throne was in danger. Commerce was in merely as the treasury and the bench, but in the House of Commons itself. He was over half a century ago the right hand man of Sir Robert Peel's famous government, and when to this coating of history he had acquired so long ago is added his own transcendent personality one cannot help being reminded of some noble river which has sathered its colors from various soils through which it has passed, but has preserved its identity unimpaired and gathered itself into one splendid volume before it rushes into the sea."

Waiting Orders from Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 18 .- The Charleston had not passed through the Golden Gate at 5:45 o'clock this evening although it left Mare island shortly after 10 o'clock this morning bound for Manila. It is generally understood that its compasses are being adjusted on Angle island, but its commander may be waiting for instructions from Washington.

General Otis, who arrived from Denver last night, today assumed charge of the organization, outfitting and the sailing of the troops bound for Manila.

A few alterations in the City of Pekin's arrangements, which have been decided upon, will delay the departure of the yessel until Saturday next. When ready for sea the City of Pekin will carry four fourpound Hotchkiss rapid-fire guns, two being placed in its bow and two in its stern. It is being prepared for the reception of 1,400 enlisted men, seventy-two army officers eight navy officers, and 112 sailors. The latter, with their officers, are to man the Spanish ships captured by Admiral Dewey.

Work on transports is going on rapidly and the City of Sydney is being fitted in a leisurely manner. It is being painted and coaled, and a few carpenters are at work on its interior, but unless a force much larger is put on it at once the vessel will not be ready to leave for a week or more The Australia is less in need of repairs and alteration than the other vessel.

There are now nearly 4,000 men camped at the Presidio, and nearly as many more will be here by the middle of next week. The Second battalion of Oregon volunteers under command of Colonel Summers, arrived here today from Portland. . They are better equipped than any that nave yet arrived from other states.

Much amusement is created in political circles here by a telegram of congratulation to the king of Spain on his birthday dispatched from the House of Commons by Daniel Macaleeso, member of Parliament from North Monaghal, and John Hammond. member of Parliament from Carlow county, both being followers of Timothy Healy. Macaleeso has from the first expressed sympathy with Spain on account of Irish political refugees having in past times received an asylum there. Hammond's sympathy is based exclusively on the religious consideration that Spain is a Catholic country. Neither of them is of any account in Irish politics and their telegram is regarded as an eccentric performance. They had not been favored with a reply up to tonight, though the Spanish ambassador at London, through whom the telegram was sent, assured them it would evoke warm gratitude from the queen regent.
