On motion of Member Cooper it was decided to stop the printing of the annual report ordered by the old board until the new course of study is arranged and then only to print such portions as the board may approve. The contract for printing the report was let by the old board to a local firm. Member Cooper, in defense of his po-sition, stated that he did not believe the law contemplated boards of education printing annual reports at a big expense to the taxpayers. Heretofore it has been cusomary for the report to be printed every

"I remained in the Bluffs a few days, There were a great many Mormons at the Bluffs and still more up at Florence, a few miles above Omaha. One morning a large delegation of Mormon emigrants that had arrived in the Bluffs started to go to Florence by the way of Crescent City, a few miles north of the Bluffs. It was a motley crowd-men, women and children-but more women than men and a few old grandmothers; they had wagons, horses and hand carts, that were loaded and pulled by women and men. When the caravan was fully under way I appointed myself a reviewing officer. I walked up nearly to Crescent City and seated myself on the hillside to see them in a grand review. It was a sight, people trudging along with great bundles on their backs-women with straps and ropes over their shoulders pulling carts loaded with their belongings. One old lady, quite gray. was trudging along with a cane. I asked her if it was hard work. 'Oh, no, sir,' she said, 'it is not. I hope by the grace of God to reach that promised land. These good people, when I get so tired that I can't walk, let me ride once in awhile. No, no, it is not hard work.
