General Orders Issued by President Lincoln Republished.

Instructions as to Things Permissible and to Method and Manner of Administering Law and Punishing Its Violators.

WASHINGTON, May 29.-General orders No. 100 of April 24, 1863, comprising instructions for the government of armies of the United States in the field, have been reissued and are being sent to the various commanders for their guidance during the

These instructions were prepared by Franulation popocrat, and the newspapers of that Rev. D. A. Youtzy of the Christian church cis Lieber, L.L. D., the father of the present judge advocate general of the army, and were published at the direction of President Lincoln, after being formally revised by a board of officers of which Major General E. A. Hitchcock was president. They were adopted by both France and

Prussia in the war between those countries five years after the civil contest here, and were the basis upon which a general Euronean conference afterward acted in drawing up an agreement on this subject. The instructions make twenty-four pages of print and cover almost every conceivable feature of military conduct and usage in time of war and a definition of many of the terms used. They embrace ten sections as follows: Section 1-Martial law, military jurisdic tion, military necessity, retaliation. Sec. 2—Public and private property of the enemy, protection of persons and especially of women, of religion, the arts and sciences punishment of crimes against the inhabi tants of hostife countries.

Sec. 3 — Deserters, prisoners of war, hostage, booty on the battlefield. Sec. 4-Partisans, armed enemies not be longing to the hostile army, scouts, armed prowlers, war rebels. Sec. 5-Safe conduct, spies, war traitors

Sec. 7-The parole. Sec. 8-Armistice, capitulation. Sec. 9-Assassination. Sec. 10-Insurrection, civil war, rebellion

Explaining Martial Law. Martial law is explained as simple military law exercised in accordance with the laws and usages of war. A place, district or country occupied by an enemy stands, in consequence of the occupation, under the martial law of the invading or occupying army. It extends to property and to persons, whether they are subjects of the enemy or aliens to that government. Whenever feasible, martial law is carried out in cases of individual offenders by military courts, but sentences of death shall be executed only with the approval of the chief executive officer, provided the urgency of the case does not require a speedier execution, and then only with the approval o the chief commander. Martial law should b less stringent in places and countries fully occupied and fairly conquered. Military necessity admits of all direct de struction of life or of limb "of armed enemies," and of other persons whose destruction is incidentally "unavoidable" in the armed contests of the war. Military necesity does not admit of cruelty-that is, the infliction of suffering for the sake of suffering or for revenge nor of maining or wound ing except in fight nor of torture to extort onfessions. It admits of deception, but disclaims acts of perfidy.
